FARMERS FIRST VICTIMS OF NEW DEAL: MARTIN

1,200 at Dinner Hear Congressman.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The American farmer was pictured as first victim of the New Deal's "misguided internationalism" last night by Congressman Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts. The Republican minority leader of the house spoke at an Illinois Republican state dinner at the Stevens hotel, attended by 1,200 at $10 a plate on the theme: "The Victory March of 1940."

Party chiefs said it was the most enthusiastic Republican dinner held in Chicago since 1932. The diners were demonstrative thruout Martin's speech.

Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of the junior senator from Ohio, who is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, told the diners the New Deal has the greatest propaganda mill in history, and that to combat it there is only one potentially greater—the women of America—"if you can muster them to talk and to work."

Republicans from all quarters of the state attended the dinner. Proceeds of the banquet are to be used to finance the work of the Republican state committee and to meet expenses of the state convention in May or June.

Calls Programs Failures.

Martin asserted the farm programs of the New Deal have proved failures and that thru reciprocal trade agreements, the farmer is now forced to sell his products in his home market with those produced under low living standards of Europe and Latin-America and by rice and water peasants of the orient.

"No real recovery can come to American agriculture," he said, "until this crushing flood of cheap foreign imports is stopped."

During the first 10 months of 1939, Martin said, America imported 664,339 head of live cattle, 136,552,000 pounds of dressed and canned meats, 9,310,000 bushels of wheat, and 197,000,000 pounds of unmanufactured wool.

Points to Beef Imports.

"These figures," he said, "include 78,000,000 pounds of canned beef—which you will recall, President Roosevelt himself insisted was 'infinitely better' than the home product, and ordered the Navy to reject all offers of American beef in competition with the 'superior' foreign importation.

"During the last two fiscal years the federal government spent $30,000,000 for a list of some 20 different surplus farm products for free distribution, but during those same two years this country imported these same 20 products to the value of $92,298,000. How long do you guess it will take, at this rate, to clean up our domestic surpluses?

"Our farmers deserve better treatment from their government at Washington and I have seen many evidences that they are prepared to demand it at the polls."

Recites Seven Year Record.

Martin, who is an avowed candidate for speaker of the house in the next congress and is rated among the dark horse possibilities for the presidential nomination, opened his speech with a recital of seven years of New Deal spending and experimenting.

"We find today," he said, "nine million unemployed men and women; four million of our young people between the ages of 18 and 24 who never have had a regular job; the national debt fast approaching the limit of 45 billion dollars set by law; taxes higher than they have been since the world war; and—worst of all—no one has any confidence our situation will improve so long as present national policies prevail.

Brings Diners to Their Feet.

"These are the accomplishments of seven years of the New Deal. These are the reasons we can confidently expect this year the election of a Republican president and a Republican house in Washington."

Martin's statement that the 1938 election betokened a tidal wave of Republicanism this year brought the diners to their feet.

"Elect a Republican house and this nation will at once surge forward with new confidence and security," he said.

The Republican sweep in 1938, Martin asserted, ended the rubber stamp régime in congress.

"Since Jan. 3, 1939," he said, "there

ATTORNEY JONES WINS LOUISIANA GOVERNOR RACE

Piles Up 18,000 Lead After Trailing.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21, Wednesday (AP).—Louisiana's Democratic voters, aroused by eight months of ever widening state political scandals, yesterday swept the old Huey P. Long political machine to destruction on the basis of conclusive but unofficial tabulations in the state's gubernatorial run-off primary early today.

Sam Houston Jones, who had promised to rid the state of the machine and prosecute many of its stanchest members, continued to increase his lead over the machine standard bearer, Gov. Earl K. Long, who had not, however, conceded his defeat.

Jones' lead, with about 50,000 votes uncounted, had gone up to nearly 18,000 after he had trailed by 15,000 in the early counting in New Orleans, where the machine controls the vote.

Jones Issues Statement.

Jones issued the following statement: "The results conclusively show that I am the next governor of Louisiana. I have written the plan of Louisiana's future in my campaign. God willing and with the help of the people, I will achieve its fulfillment."

Jones apparently carried his entire ticket of lieutenant governor, attorney general, and superintendent of public education into office with him on the basis of the returns. His slate had a big lead over the Long candidates.

Returns also showed that members of the supine old state legislature, the machine's cihef source of power, had been bowled over almost all along the line, with Jones candidates for representatives and senators winning.

Long Machine Blasted.

Throughout the campaign Jones denounced Long as the symbol of the machine his brother Huey put into power in 1928 and which had remained unchallenged through three terms. His candidacy was aided by the widespread federal investigations which brought many Long supporters and prominent politicians under indictments, with some already sentenced.

Only last week Jones promised he and his candidate for attorney general, Eugene Stanley, bitter foe of Huey P. Long, would prosecute Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans on charges of violating oil regulations. Mayor Maestri had been the dominant political power in the state and Long's chief backer.

Long refused to concede defeat and went on the radio shortly before 1 a. m. to predict that "by 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning the returns will show me leading by 10,000 or 15,000 votes."

Guardsmen Held Ready.

The state's 3,500 National guardsmen were held in readiness thruout the day yesterday to quell any disturbances at the polls, but were not called from their barracks.

Jones, 42 year old Lake Charles attorney and novice in politics, voted early at his home town, then motored to New Orleans to await returns. Long remained in the capital, Baton Rouge.

In the Jan. 16 primary Long led the field of five with 226,385 votes. Jones won his way into the run-off with 154,396. The remainder of the 553,666 ballots was split among State Senator James A. Noe and two other anti-administration candidates.

The nominee chosen today will be confirmed in the governorship in the general election—purely perfunctory in one-party Louisiana—and will take office for his four year term on May 14.

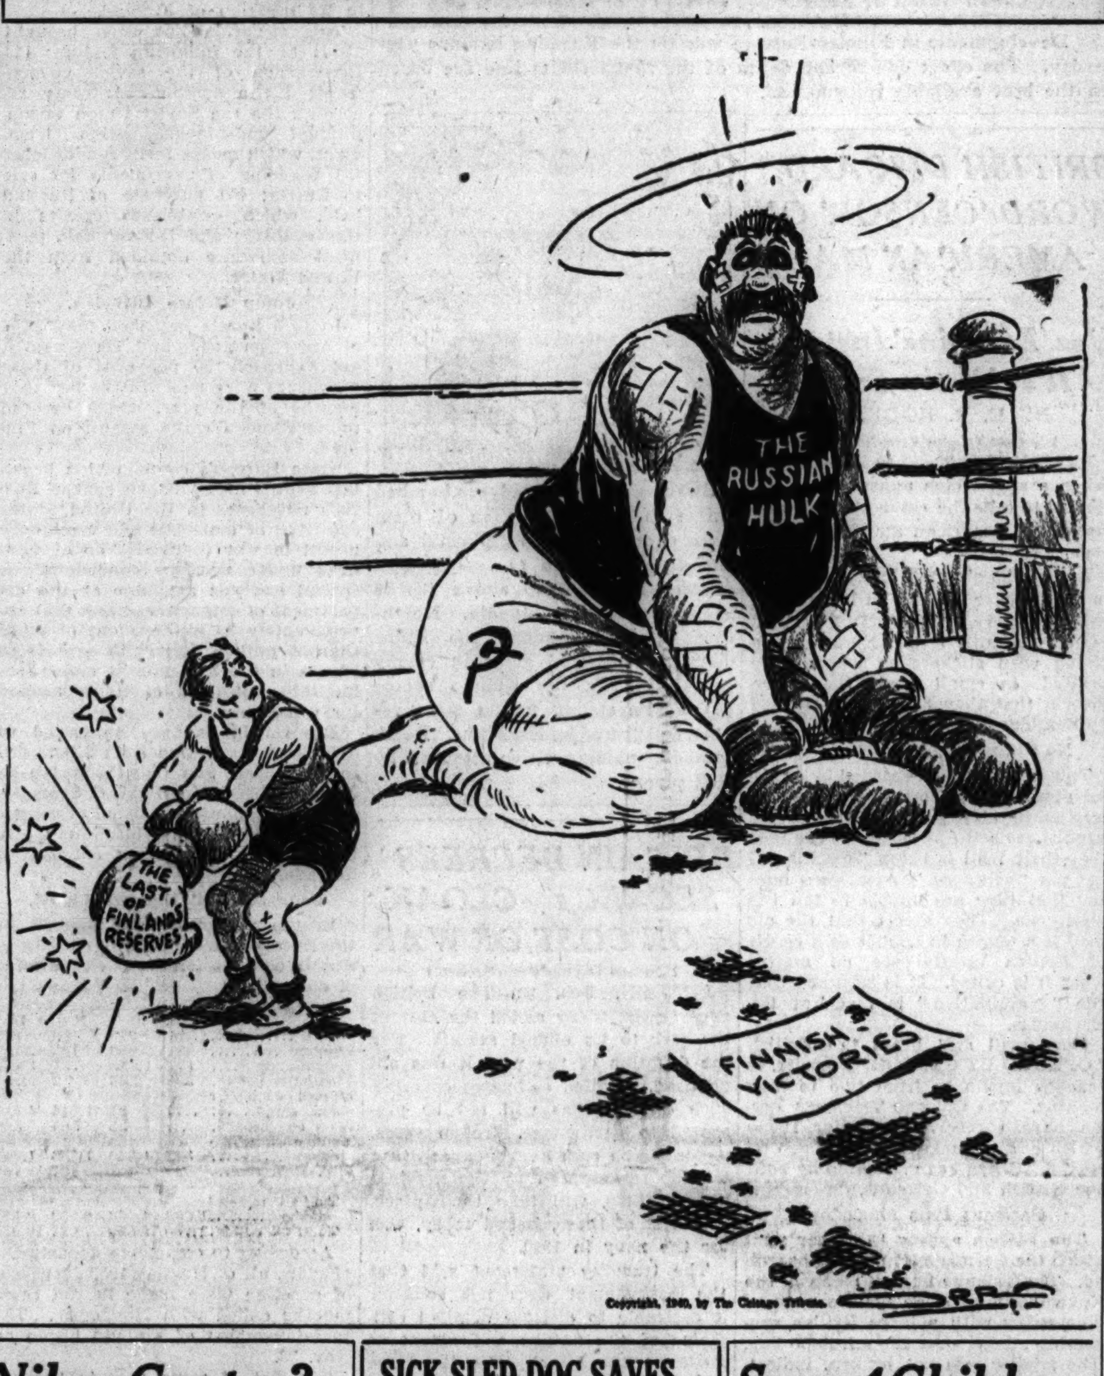
Senate Committee to Hear Census Snooping Protests

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Protests against two census questions dealing with personal income will be heard by a senate committee Chairman Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] of the commerce committee today appointed a subcommittee to look into protests by Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] that the questions were "unauthorized inquiries into the private affairs of citizens." A Republican, Senator W. H. White of Maine, was named chairman of the group which includes Senators Bailey, Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.], George L. Radcliffe [D., Md.], Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], and Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.].

Russians Take Finns' 'Anchor' Fort

WEARING THE LITTLE FELLOW OUT?



Niles Center? O! You Mean Niles Center

The name of the village of Niles Center, after a three month campaign for a change, plus a stormy meeting of the board of trustees last night attended by more than 800 shouting residents, is spelled this way this morning:

N-i-l-e-s C-e-n-t-e-r.

And so the suburb's name will remain, for at least another year. The trustees voted, 4 to 2, against a proposed shift to "Ridgeview" as the name of Evanston's neighbor to the west.

Hot Time in the Old Town.

The trustees' ears were burning as they left the village hall, for the Ridgeview faction had the most supporters at the meeting, also the loudest voices. Led by Martin [Scotty] Krier, whose 310 pounds give his word weight in the community, the Ridgeviewites marched in the streets, chanting:

"Seventy-five per cent of the people can't be wrong! Wait till April, 1941!" Three of the four trustees who stood by the Niles Center name will be up for reëlection then.

They are Ambrose Brod, owner of an electrical shop; Thomas Rae, a wool broker, and Russell Tucker, who is in the foundry business. With them voted Willard Galitz, cashier in the Niles Center State bank. The Ridgeview votes were by John W. Wuerth, a bank examiner, and Peter Conrad, a builder.

Niles Center has a population of 8,000, with 3,600 registered voters. The Ridgeview faction presented a petition with 2,467 signatures; the Niles Center forces had 1,671.

Vote, Gentlemen, Vote!

Galitz and Tucker made long speeches citing the fact there were duplications of names on the petitions and proposing a referendum on the change. They were brought up short by Attorney George E. Dilley, a former Northwestern football player who lives at 9122 Ewing avenue.

"Your suggesting a referendum means you're planning to table this question," boomed Dilley. "Vote one way or the other, gentlemen!"

Cheers and a few boos greeted Dilley's speech. The crowd in the corridor surged thru the door spilling the front ranks of standees on the laps of the sitters. Police tried to restore order. A dozen more addresses, pro and con, were made. But after two hours it added up to this: Niles Center still is Niles Center.

SICK SLED DOG SAVES MASTER AND MATES FROM AN ICY DEATH

JUNEAU, Alaska, Feb. 20 (AP).—Tige, a sick sled patrol dog, saved his master and his teammates from drowning in the Toklat river. But let Ranger John Rumohr tell what happened after his sled broke thru the ice seven miles from his station.

"I could not reach bottom by sounding with my 8 foot geepole, and the dogs had to swim to get the sled out. What really saved my life was Tige. He had been sick and I was not using him in the team, but letting him follow behind. He managed to get ahead of the team and coaxed them along. We had about 100 feet to go before we reached solid ice.

"The dogs never would have made it if Tige had not been ahead of them. Whenever he came to a place where the ice would carry him he would turn to the team, cry a little and wag his tail. That would put new spirit in them, and they would struggle ahead even when the ice broke under them."

CHILD COMES FAR TO SEE DAD, BUT HE'S GONE AWAY

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—A girl, 6 years old, traveled alone from Australia only to learn on her arrival today that her father would not be at journey's end to welcome her.

The girl is Cynthia Ann Bremer, whose mother lives in Australia. She was enroute to see her father, Robert Bremer of Detroit, Mich.

When Cynthia came ashore from the Matson liner Monterey, however, she found her father had left Detroit for South Africa the same day his wife posted a letter in Australia saying Cynthia Ann was leaving by ship and plane.

Representatives of the Matson line, Chrysler and United Air Lines finally found an American Aunt of Cynthia, Mrs. Joseph Bremer of Johnstown, Pa. Tonight the little traveler was booked to leave by air for Chicago in the care of Stewardess Gwendolyn Godfrey.

Fight Fire 2 Hours Aboard Sister Ship of Queen Mary

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Fire broke out yesterday in the library of the giant Cunard Liner Queen Elizabeth, under construction for many months, but it was put out after two hours, it was learned today. The boat is a sister ship of the Queen Mary.

Three boys and a girl, each 9 years old, met after school yesterday afternoon at Foster avenue and the lake. The ice off shore looked firm and inviting and they hopped, skipped, and jumped across it until they were several hundred feet out.

Soon they discovered that they were marooned on a floe. The ice had cracked and the cake on which they were standing — roughly a square, 10 feet to a side—was moving out into the lake. When they realized their plight they were a quarter of a mile out.

Girl Falls Into Water.

The girl, Marilyn Kortum, 5243 Kenmore avenue, slipped and fell into the water. One of her companions, Edward Curtis, 940 Ainslie street, knelt on the ice and pulled her back. It was growing dark, and they and the other two, Richard Schaeffer of the Ainslie street address, and Howard Eldridge, 4909 Sheridan road, were getting cold.

On shore, a passerby saw the youngsters and notified the Lincoln park police and the Old Chicago coast guard station. Policemen Peter Leppa and Frank Tobin hurried to the shore, set up their loud speaker apparatus, and called to the four on the ice floe:

"Stay where you are. Take it easy. Don't try to come in. The coast guard is on the way."

Ice Skiff Goes to Rescue.

Coast Guardsmen Phillip E. Barnard and Leon A. Anderson soon arrived with a truck carrying an ice skiff—a 12 foot boat, similar to a rowboat, which can be pushed over the ice on runners and is propelled by oars in the water.

Barnard and Anderson shoved the skiff to the edge of the ice, launched it in the water and rescued the four children from the floating ice. The youngsters were taken to the Edgewater hospital. The boys were sent home, but Marilyn was kept for observation, because of her exposure.

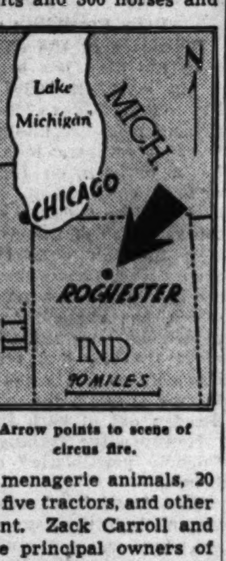
"I was cold, but I wasn't scared," she said thru chattering teeth.

Don Ameche on a One Man Strike—Cost, $3,000 Week

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—Don Ameche, film star and radio singer, lost his movie salary—it's somewhere around $3,000 a week—temporarily today for failing to appear at a studio to which he had been loaned.

Circus Burns; 100 Animals Die in Cages

Rochester, Ind., Feb. 20 [Special].—Eleven elephants and 300 horses and ponies were turned loose to roam the streets of Rochester tonight when fire destroyed the main building of the winter quarters of Cole Brothers' circus. The loss was estimated at $150,000.



Arrow points to scene of circus fire.

The fire destroyed more than 100 menagerie animals, 20 parade wagons, five tractors, and other circus equipment. Zack Carroll and Jess Atkins are principal owners of the Hoosier Circus corporation, holding company for the Cole Brothers' circus and owner of the building which was destroyed. Carroll suffered a heart attack while at the fire and had to be removed to his home for treatment by a physician.

Show Will Go On.

At midnight most of the 300 horses and ponies had been rounded up and placed in barns, and all of the elephants except one were captured and loaded on cars for shipment to Peru, Ind., where they will be housed in the former winter quarters of Ringling Brothers' circus.

Firemen from Rochester and surrounding towns saved two circus trains of 60 cars and several small buildings containing the main tent and wardrobes. Atkins said the show would go on the road as usual in the spring.

The 50 employés were at dinner at 5:45 p. m. when C. C. Teeter, a Nickel Plate railroad towerman, telephoned that the main building, a former brick factory, 240 by 320 feet, was afire. The structure contained a mess hall and sleeping quarters for 50 circus employés, a horse barn, paint and blacksmith shop, training rings and a large room in which caged animals were kept. Teeter had sighted the flames from the switch tower in which he worked.

Wind Fans Flames.

The building, located on a prairie, had no protection from a 40 mile wind which drove the flames from one end to the other before the circus hands could do more than release the horses, ponies and elephants. None of the employés saved any of his personal possessions from the dormitory.

The animals lost included two zebras, two llamas, 100 monkeys, two tigers, two lions, two lionesses, two lion cubs, one hippopotamus, two leopards, one elephant, one sacred cow, two mouflons, and two aoudads. The mouflons and aoudads are wild sheep from Sardinia and North Africa, respectively.

Car Hits Elephant.

A herd of camels was moved from an outside corral to a place of safety. Five elephants, 15 highly trained ring horses, and a number of seals are safe in a winter circus act in Cleveland, O.

Of the elephants which were turned loose one was hit by a motorist tonight. The elephant was not hurt badly, but the automobile, owned by Carl Quick, was damaged to the extent of $150.

A roaming pony was killed by another motorist when a dozen or more ran into a street two miles from the winter quarters.

What the new books are about

The struggle of two young people against a situation of terror . . . the quest for beauty in a typical midwestern steel town . . . the fantastic experiences of an aerial expedition in Greenland . . . strange adventures in China, Tibet, and the United States . . . these are among the subjects of new books reviewed today in the Tribune book department on Pages 14 and 15.

KOIVISTO FALLS AFTER 12 WEEKS OF HAMMERING

800 Soviet Bombers Raid Finland.

On page 2 are maps of developments in the Finnish war. A map of the city of Viipuri, locating important points, and a panoramic picture of part of the city appear on the back page.

MOSCOW, Feb. 21, Wednesday (AP).—The Russian army today reported its troops had occupied both the town and fortress of Koivisto, western anchor citadel of the Mannerheim line, and had "cleared" the entire Koivisto peninsula of the foe.

The Koivisto fortified area was reported by the Russians to have fallen after 12 solid weeks of hammering from soviet bomb and shell.

Its capture was foreshadowed on Sunday when a sudden Russian spearhead drive to the Gulf of Finland cut coastal railway communications with Viipuri at Johannes and two other places. Thus isolated, Koivisto was made untenable when the Russians seized nearby islands on Monday.

The communique issued by the Leningrad military headquarters said large "trophies" were captured in the mopping up of Koivisto. The Russians also claimed 47 enemy airplanes were brought down in combat.

800 Planes in Raids.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 20 (AP).—Swarms of soviet Russian bombers, estimated to total 800, swept over much of Finland in a series of raids today and tonight.

There were seven air raid alarms in Helsingfors and from four to eight in nearly every community across the southern part of the country.

Two trains were reported bombed and machine-gunned. Two persons were wounded, including the engineer of one train en route to Turku [Abo], where the alarms lasted into the night after three heavy bombings.

Five raiders were reported shot down at Riihimaaki and one at Hameenkyro. Several homes were destroyed at Lahti, where 11 alarms sounded. Numerous fires were started at Hyvinkaa, 30 miles north of Helsingfors.

Shatter Drive of War Sleds.

Other towns attacked included Masala, Helsingfors suburb, where 100 planes were counted in the air; Heinola and Hango. The soviet bombs missed their marks in the latter two towns, falling a considerable distance beyond the corporate limits.

The Finnish defenders of the battered Mannerheim line were reported tonight to have scattered a soviet swarm of strange, buglike "air motor sleds" which swarmed across the ice of Lake Ladoga in an attempt to skirt stubborn land fortifications at Taipale in a surprise coup.

At least two hundred Russians were killed and the entire detachment dispersed, the Finns said, when the Russians, "in great force" attempted to advance past the east of Taipale in a fleet of bobsleds, driven by propellers.

Repulse Attacks in West.

Taipale, Lake Ladoga, and Lake Suvanto are on the eastern terminus of the Mannerheim line.

Between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Muolaa, a spearhead of the 20 day old Red army drive on the half ruined city of Viipuri, an official Finnish communique said with military terseness: "Enemy attacks continued . . the attacks were repulsed.".

Fighting drew so near to Viipuri that artillery shells screamed amidst ruined buildings.

Most of Viipuri's 74,000 inhabitants were removed before the Russian invasion started.

New Positions Stronger.

Tonight a Finnish army spokesman said that the Finns' new positions were as strong as or stronger than before, but there was acknowledgment that the situation could again become critical if Russia should launch a new series of major attacks.

Northeast of Lake Ladoga, more than 50 miles across the lake from the isthmus fighting, the Finns declared there was "continued cleaning up of bases taken from the enemy" where destruction of Russia's 18th army division was reported yesterday.

Farther north in the Kuhmo region, about half way along the Finnish-Russian boundary, "a few strong points" were reported captured by the Finns in fighting with "individual detachments."

Seven persons were killed and six wounded in raids on Finnish cities and towns yesterday, the communique said. Six Russian planes were shot down and six others reported probably drowned.

The undramatic language of the Finnish communique gave only a hint of the intensity and gravity of the struggle on the isthmus south of Viipuri [which soviet sources have predicted would be captured by Friday, the 22d anniversary of the founding of the Red army.

Finns Shorten Front.

However, by their withdrawal on the western end of the Mannerheim line, the Finns have shortened their front by more than one-fourth from the Gulf of Finland to the western tip of Lake Vuoksi.

Taipale since the beginning of the war has seen fighting almost as heavy as that on the western flank. Taipale is on a neck of land between Lake Suvanto and Lake Ladoga with the Taipale river at its head. The Finns have repulsed all attempts of the Reds to cross Suvanto or the river and establish a foothold.

REDS DENY NAZI CHARGE OF GREED FOR NORSE LAND

MOSCOW, Feb. 20 (AP).—The soviet press accused Great Britain and France today of attempting to involve the Scandinavian nations in war but indignantly denied a German press charge that Russia has territorial designs on Norway.

The communist party newspaper Pravda took sharp issue with the German paper Nachtausgabe, which Pravda said alleged the soviet union was planning to establish herself on the North Atlantic at Norway's expense. Pravda expressed doubt the Nazi editors believed "these ravings, knowing from experience in soviet-German relations that the U. S. S. R. is a stranger to the policies of usurpation.

"The editors obviously were not guided by a desire to promote a further strengthening of friendly relations between Germany and the U. S. S. R. which have been developing so successfully," Pravda said, professing inability to explain appearance of the Nachtausgabe article.

LATHROP HOMES TENANTS TALK OF CO-OP BUILDINGS

Fifty residents of the Chicago Housing authority's Julia Lathrop homes discussed the possibility of a coöperative housing project last night. Leaders of the movement are heads of families which will be required to move from the homes because of the new regulations as to the maximum income of families eligible to live in the homes.

The plan is to build similar homes with a 90 per cent loan from the Federal Housing administration and a 5 per cent loan from the CHA. The families would finance the other 5 per cent and pay off the loans much as they now pay rent.

A committee was chosen to make further investigation. Its members are Charles Lauer, Samuel Glassner, Mrs. Minnie Planekowski, Arthur Karge, and Mrs. James Haas. Mrs. Arthur V. Scheiber is serving as temporary secretary.

WELLES IS DUE TO CONFER WITH IL DUCE MONDAY

ROME, Feb. 20 (AP).—Sumner Welles, United States undersecretary of state, probably will be received by Premier Benito Mussolini Monday, the day after his arrival in Rome, Fascist officials said today.

Welles, en route to survey European conditions for President Roosevelt, will be entertained by Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano Sunday night at a state banquet.

After talking to Mussolini, Welles is expected to leave Rome immediately. However, after visiting Berlin, Paris and London, he may return here. "The second talk should be more interesting," an informed Fascist said.

German Ship with Million Dollar Cargo Ready to Sail

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Feb. 20. —The German freighter Antonio Delfino was ready today to leave Bahia with a million dollar cargo. Her captain has declared he will not permit her capture. The freighter Bahia, which sailed from Bahia about three weeks ago, was reported here to have reached Germany.

'SEND FINNS ALL AID THEY NEED,' SWEDES CLAMOR

Urge Chiefs: 'Make Other Help Unnecessary.'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 20 (AP). —Swedes banded together in a movement seeking active aid for Finland heightened tonight the political upheaval which has drawn even aged and esteemed King Gustav V. into a controversy over his government's refusal to intervene with troops against soviet Russia.

In general politicians insisted an acute political crisis had been averted, largely by the king's own declaration in support of nonintervention in Finland. But, altho some of the leaders of the so-called Finnish-aid "activists" said they could not proceed against the monarch's wishes, it was questionable whether the activists as a whole would abandon their drive for direct military help.

Today they sent a strong plea to Premier Per Albin Hansson for aid to Finland.

Deny Possibility of Coup.

Indicative of the extent to which even the king has become involved in the issue, the chief editor of the Norwegian Tidens Tegn of Oslo, writing from Stockholm, hinted that Swedish military men might press for a decision on intervention, "a sort of coup d'état," which would lead to King Gustav's abdication and the accession of the crown prince.

In Swedish political circles this theory was generally ridiculed, and the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen, which has supported the "activist" movement, approved the king's statement that he had refused military intervention to Finland "with sorrow in my heart" in order to keep Sweden out of both European wars.

However, the Tidningen said it was "deeply pessimistic" over Sweden's future.

The "activists" resolution today was made in the name of "the northern freedom conference." Altho it did not specifically ask for direct military intervention in Finland it urged that Sweden send aid "so vigorously that any other help is unnecessary."

"Finland's Cause Is Ours."

"Finland's cause is ours," the resolution said, "the Finnish front must be held and helped by Swedish assistance. Intervention from states outside the north would threaten to make our country a war theater."

[In the face of Swedish refusal of direct military aid the Finns were reported contemplating an appeal for troops to the western allies. This would bring into formal question the passage of British and French troops thru Scandinavia. The Swedish foreign office has said this would not be permitted.]

The activists also appealed to Swedish youth to "fill the gaps in the Finnish army," declaring "the deciding hour has come!"

Premier Hansson told the delegation which presented the resolution that his government intended to give Finland "all aid possible," but only under "our chosen political framework" of neutrality.

SEVERE WINTER EASES GERMANY'S CLOTHES RATIONS

BERLIN, Feb. 20 (AP).—Germany's most severe winter in a century has made it necessary to revise clothes rationing to allow citizens to purchase their March and April allowances of 20 points immediately. The men will be allowed to buy a pair of pants or one shirt or a heavy pair of drawers. Women may buy a skirt or underwear. The 20 points, however, are five too few to buy a sweater.

Portuguese Fire on Seven Spanish Trawlers; Seize One

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 20 (AP).—The Portuguese coast guard boat Lidador fired 30 shells early today in an attempt to seize seven Spanish trawlers fishing in Portuguese waters. Only one trawler surrendered, the others fleeing to Spain. It was believed the Lidador's firing was that previously reported as a possible German raider attack on a British and French convoy.

BRITISH DISCARD WORD 'CENSOR' ON AMERICAN MAILS

Use 'Examine' Instead; It's All the Same.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—The British have taken a step which apparently is intended to take the curse off their censorship of American air mail to Europe.

For weeks air mail letters arriving in Berlin bore stickers in large black capital letters, "OPENED BY CENSOR." Recently letters have been arriving with stickers on which were printed in small type the information that they had been "Opened by Examiner."

No Difference, Americans Say.

This maneuver is regarded by political observors in Berlin as a more or less subtle attempt by British propagandists to sell Americans on the idea that their mail is being "examined," but not "censored." Americans here say that they are unable to tell the difference. They assert that the air mail is a month in transit as a result of British interference no matter what it is called. It is assumed that the "examination" is made at the Bermudas.

Boat mail still bears the British "OPENED BY CENSOR" stickers. It reaches Berlin in from two to four months. The Chicago Tribune's Berlin bureau received a letter today which was postmarked in Chicago on Nov. 6. It had been censored by both the British and Germans.

Germans Pass Magazine.

The British appear to censor mail which the Germans let pass uninspected. The Tribune bureau received the November issue of an American magazine today with a large British censorship sticker over the envelope flap. The sticker was not broken, indicating the Germans had not examined the publication. First class mail from America frequently reaches Berlin without having been inspected by the Germans, but rarely gets by the British censor.

BRITISH MAY END ITALIAN IMPORT OF GERMAN COAL

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Ronald Cross, minister of economic warfare, told the house of commons today that 16 Italian vessels which loaded German coal at Rotterdam were liable to search for enemy exports.

He acknowledged that Italian ships have not been hindered from taking German coal to Italy since the British blockade was imposed, but said a period of grace allowed for the Italians to obtain their coal supplies elsewhere is drawing to conclusion.

Cross made his statement in reply to a question by Laborite Emanuel Shinwell, who asked: "Why is there this consideration for Italian vessels?"

German Doomed to Death After French Trial as Spy

LILLE, France, Feb. 20 (AP).—A military court has sentenced to death Karl Szebereny, 27 year old native of Germany, tried secretly for espionage, it was announced today.

Swarms of Russian planes bombed points in Finland. Five of them were shot down at Riihimaaki and one at Hameekyro (1). The area covered by the map above (2) is shown in black rectangle. Northeast of Lake Ladoga the Finns claimed additional gains in enemy bases (3). In the Kuhmo sector (4) a few strong points were reported captured by the Finns. BRITAIN DECREES SECRECY CLOAK ON COST OF WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The British government today added the cost of the war to its official secrets. For the duration of the war, it was announced, detailed estimates covering such expenditures will not be presented to parliament. Token votes, under which each item of expenditure will be represented by the nominal sum of $400, will take their place. The first of these, issued today, was for the navy in 1940.

The treasury statement said that the government does not consider it desirable to disclose detailed estimates of the nature and extent of Britain's war effort. For the same reason, the number of men required for the army, navy, and air force also will be shrouded in secrecy.

The token vote procedure will apply not only to the armed services but also to the ministries of supply, information, food, shipping, economic warfare, and home security.

Estimates submitted to parliament last year for the army, navy, and air force totaled $2,014,020,000.

Toronto Coal Deliverymen Reject Plea to End Strike

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 20 (AP).—Nearly 500 coal deliverymen today voted down a proposal to abandon their two-day strike and return to work pending further negotiations in their demand for closed shop agreements. The vote was 480 to 2. Colder weather is forecast and city officials describe the situation as becoming more serious. Strike officials, however, made arrangements for delivery of fuel to hospitals, schools, homes of sick, and important public buildings.

RUSSIA OBTAINS WAR MATERIALS IN THIS COUNTRY

Used to Push Offensive Against Finland.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Communistic Russia is leaning heavily upon American supplies in prosecuting its war with Finland, a survey showed today.

Despite President Roosevelt's recent denunciation of the soviet as an "absolute dictatorship" and expression of sympathy for Finland, the fact remains the administration has made the United States the No. 1 source of vital materials now used in its invasion of Finland.

This situation has been brought about by the following factors: [1] Recognition of the soviet government; [2] a commercial treaty according the the Soviet Union unconditional most-favored-nation treatment, which means tariff concessions; [3] licensing of armaments for sale to Russia; [4] purchase of Russian gold, which establishes credits in this country; and [5] valuable technical assistance obtained from the United States.

Jump Before Invasion.

In 1939 Russia imported $56,638,000 of American goods and, significantly, approximately 50 per cent of these purchases were made in the last four months of the year, which covered preparations for the assault on Finland.

Since Europe's conflagration began last Sept. 1 nearly 90 per cent of Russia's purchases in the United States consisted of materials and machinery useful in war industries or of vital need under wartime conditions. A special analysis available at the department of commerce shows that approximately 33 millions out of more than 36 million dollars in exports to Russia in the five months ended Jan. 31, 1940, consisted of items needed for warfare.

Exports in January amounted to $11,313,000, compared with $10,528,000 in December, and only $2,816,000 in January, 1939. Nearly all of the shipments last month consisted of copper and metal working machinery. A complete breakdown for January is not available.

Four Months' Exports Listed.

In the preceding four months of the European wars leading exports to Russia were as follows [in thousands of dollars]:

	Sept.	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.
Wheat	....	215	436	172
Gasoline	481	686	782	......
Molybdenum	192	1,945	732	1,906
Aluminum ingots	535	283	2	......
Refined copper and scrap	....	21	1,544	4,519
Brass and bronze	....	35	564	365
Metal working machines	377	1,096	1,836	1,811
Elec. apparatus	22	311	437	758
Total selected items	1,608	4,592	6,333	9,531
Total all exp'ts	1,785	5,455	7,027	10,528

According to commerce department officials, all of Russia's 1939 purchases of gasoline were made in the three months ended with November. The soviet invasion of Finland began on Nov. 30.

The list of arms exports licensed by the secretary of state shows that Russia has confined its armament imports from the United States to aircraft and their accessories, indicating that machinery and materials imported sufficed for their own production of munitions and armaments.

Russia led in the amount of exports under license during 1939. Its total armament purchases of $1,097,015, consisted of $845,966 in assembled or unassembled aircraft, $74,514 in parts, and $176,536 in airplane engines. Engine shipments to Russia in January amounted to another $45,192.

Tractor Purchases Large.

The war department says it has no figures on how much other Russian equipment is American made. But it is known that Russia has bought substantial numbers of tractors, trucks, and other motor equipment which could be easily transformed from civilian to military use.

Similarly, the state department claims no count on the number of American technicians, engineers, and other experts borrowed by Russia from the United States for consultation on industrial and mining developments. But their employment by Russia is a matter of public knowledge.

Russia pays for its huge purchases in this country principally with goods, which amount to something less than half the amount of exports to Russia, and thru sale of the gold mined by Russia, which is one of the world's leading producers.

The United States treasury has discounted the importance of gold purchases from Russia, but just as the administration was pressing upon congress the urgency of Finnish relief the Russians embarrassed officials to a deep crimson by dumping a cargo of soviet gold on the treasury's doorstep. The shipment, amounting to more than 5½ million dollars, arrived in San Francisco directly from Vladivostok.

NEW LAMA SEEN AS AID TO CHINA'S RULE OF TIBET

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 21 [Wednesday] (AP).—China's hopes of strengthening its somewhat shadowy suzerainty over mysterious Tibet soared tonight with confirmation from Chinese government officials that 6 year old Ling-erh La-mu-tan-chu will be enthroned as Tibet's Dalai Lama tomorrow without even the customary drawing of lots.

The Chinese said the agreement to dispense with the traditional selection on Tibet's new spiritual and temporal ruler by lots "symbolizes the perfect harmony existing between the Chinese government and Tibetan authorities." Ling-Erh, born in a cave near Koko-Nor in Mongolia, is China's candidate for Dalai Lama. Two Tibetan-born rivals will be made "living Buddhas" and appointed advisers to the new Dalai Lama, Chinese officials said.

3 BRITISH SHIPS SUNK BY PLANES, GERMANS CLAIM

Bombers Raid English and Scottish Coasts.

BERLIN, Feb. 20 (AP).—The sinking of two British mine layers and one armed merchant ship was announced tonight by DNB, the official German news agency, after a day of raids off British coasts by German bombers.

The announcement said the bombers flew as far as the Shetland Islands, north of Scotland. Convoys and "armed ships" were attacked, DNB stated.

Hear Firing at Sea.

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Antiaircraft fire was heard and air raid alarms were sounded in the London area today as reports came in of widespread German warplane attacks on shipping off Great Britain's east coast.

Fragmentary wireless messages from ships at sea and battle noises heard along the coast gave the first indication of the renewed German aerial attacks.

The outcome of the attacks was not known. Radio operators said they heard the S O S of at least one vessel.

Lifeboat Puts Out.

A lifeboat was put out on receipt of word that German bombing planes were blasting at steamers about 30 miles out at sea.

Attacks on ships were reported off the coasts of Northumberland, Lincoln and Suffolk.

Machine gun fire was heard in Essex and residents of that section scurried to shelter as an air raid warning sounded.

A flyer described as one of Germany's leading aces and one of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's closest collaborators was reported by the Daily Herald to have been shot down by British fighter planes and captured in a reconnaissance flight over Scapa Flow.

The flight over Britain's naval station in the Orkney Islands, the paper said, had been ordered by Goering in order to obtain special panoramic pictures.

Five Ships Destroyed.

The sinking of five ships—four neutral and one British—was disclosed.

The Imperial Transport, a British tanker of 8,022 gross tons, was cut in half by a torpedo at an undisclosed place. The date was not announced. Forty-two survivors were landed in a Scottish port Sunday. The men navigated the stern half of the ship for three days before being picked up by a tug. Two of the crew drowned.

The Teenstadt, a Norwegian ship, was sunk by a submarine in the Atlantic last Thursday which followed her thruout Wednesday night. The sinking was disclosed by 11 seamen who landed on an island off the west coast of Ireland after drifting five days in a disabled motorboat. Thirteen members of the crew are missing. The motorboat had towed a lifeboat carrying the skipper and 12 sailors until a hawser broke.

The 3,396 ton Finnish ship Wilja was sunk by an explosion Feb. 16. The crew was rescued. The 4,297 ton Norwegian steamer Sangstad was torpedoed Feb. 18. The crew of 28 and one passenger were saved. It was not known whether others were aboard the Sangstad.

Ship with Crew of 17 Lost.

A Reuters [British News agency] dispatch from Oslo said that the Norwegian steamer Hop, 1,365 tons, was lost with her crew of 17. The Hop sailed from Bergen for England Feb. 3.

Six Greek passengers and seven Danish seamen, believed to have been lost when the Danish passenger ship Sleipner was torpedoed off the coast of Scotland Feb. 15, were landed at a port in northeastern Britain. They had been picked up by a steamer after 12 hours in a lifeboat. All others aboard the Sleipner, 12 passengers and 16 crewmen, were landed last Friday.

In the matter of losses at sea, altho the British said they sank at least four German submarines and perhaps two others within six days of last week, they listed a total of 86,077 tons of British and neutral shipping lost. They asserted that the submarine torpedo had replaced the mine as the leading weapon of naval destruction.

The previous high weekly tonnage loss was 78,198 in the second week of the war.

Chases German Plane.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, Feb. 20 (AP).—A Netherlands military plane fired at and chased a German warplane sighted this afternoon over Leeuwarden province, Friesland, the government press service announced. The invader quickly left Netherlands territory.

Warship Passes Thru Canal.

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Feb. 20 (AP).—The British cruiser Despatch, which captured the German freighter Duesseldorf off Chile on Dec. 15, passed thru the Panama canal today into the Atlantic ocean toward an unannounced destination.

Malay States Vote Britain 4 Millions as War Gift

HELEN VINSON.

Los Angeles, Feb. 20 (AP).—Film Actress Helen Vinson today sued Fred Perry, former world singles tennis champion, for divorce, charging "cruel and inhuman" treatment. It was her second suit. The first was filed March 15, 1939, but she had it dismissed a short time later, saying they had decided to renew their "perfect romance." The couple was married Sept. 12, 1935, in Harrison, N. Y., after a hamburger and champagne supper.

AWAIT GERMAN PERMISSION TO SEND POLES AID

Negotiations Told by Chauncey McCormick.

Chauncey McCormick, president of the Commission for Polish Relief, reported yesterday on the status of the commission's plan to set up a system to furnish supplies and general relief to needy civilians in German-occupied Poland.

He said a letter outlining the proposal was sent to the German embassy in Washington on Jan. 9. The contents of this letter, he added, were transmitted to the German foreign office in Berlin on Feb. 3. Since then, no word has been heard either from the embassy or the foreign office.

Stress Urgency of Need.

Hans Thomsen, chargé d'affaires at the German embassy, laid before his government the details of the commission's plan. The plea to the government of Germany pointed out that relief in Poland is much needed not only because of war destruction, economic conditions, and poverty, but also because of the economic blockade, and asked the Nazi powers to permit supervision of relief in German-Poland by Americans.

"In order to secure immunity from blockade," the letter read, "we must satisfy governments and private organizations over the world that there is neutrality, efficiency in organization, that the distribution is confined solely to the civil population, that it reaches only needy persons, that it is just between individuals, that it proceeds without respect to race or creed."

"In order to make such an operation effective," the letter continued, "not only is it necessary for us to secure immunity from blockade action both of Germany and the allied powers but to secure entry of such goods without tariffs, or other barriers from the German authorities."

Plan American Staff.

The commission proposes, the letter stated, to set up a staff of fifteen Americans to administer relief in the critical districts. In addition, a supervisory staff would be established in Warsaw. The letter pointed out that in the last war, a similar system functioned well in Belgium.

"The whole subject," the letter said, "has been under negotiation by our representatives with the government in Berlin for some time. On one occasion we were told it was presented to General Goering, who, we understand, stated that he personally welcomed the American initiative of an action to bring relief to the war-stricken population in Poland, that this action would be accepted as nonsectarian for those in need, without discrimination, and that he favored American supervision of relief so that these American representatives could make full accounting and reports."

The letter also expressed the hope that supplies amounting to as much as $2,000,000 a month might be built up thru the plan.

$3,215 LOOT TAKEN FROM HOME. Jewelry, a revolver, and clothing valued at $3,215 were taken by burglars Monday from the home of Harry Shelley, 6810 Jeffery avenue, he reported yesterday to Woodlawn police.

EMPIRES DEMAND NORWEGIANS ACT AGAINST NAZIS

Declare Neutral Waters Subject to War Action.

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP).—Great Britain today accused Norway of complete indifference to its obligations as a neutral because of its failure to free 299 British captives from the German prison ship Altmark.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons that Britain could in no circumstances accept the Norwegian view that the Altmark had a right to transport prisoners thru Norwegian territorial waters. He defended the British navy's raid into Norwegian waters in which the destroyer Cossack rescued the prisoners. Chamberlain called the action a gallant affair.

France Acts Against Norway.

Shortly after Chamberlain spoke a French government spokesman said in Paris that the French and British navies would take all measures to make sure that Norwegian waters are not used for belligerent purposes.

"The Altmark incident justifies the French and British admiralties in any acts of reprisal they consider necessary to reëstablish in the North sea and Arctic ocean the equilibrium which has been destroyed to the detriment of their interests," an official French statement said.

Germany was accused by the Paris spokesman of carrying on acts of war in Norwegian waters, using them as a base for operations in the North sea.

Spurns Norwegian View.

Chamberlain attacked the Norwegian view of the Atlmark incident without waiting for an official report of the statement which Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht of Norway made before the Norwegian parliament yesterday.

He recited what he termed Norway's failure to carry out a proper investigation of the Altmark and declared:

"I find it difficult in these circumstances to resist the conclusion that Norwegian authorities have discovered complete indifference as to the use which might be made of their territorial waters by the German fleet.

"Even if such indifference was due to German pressure, it is nevertheless in the view of his majesty's government inconsistent with the active and impartial exercise of the duty of a neutral toward ourselves as belligerents."

Says Law Was Violated.

Chamberlain quoted Koht as saying that Norway saw no objection to the use of Norwegian territorial waters for hundreds of miles by a German warship for the purpose of escaping capture on the high seas, and added:

"Such a doctrine is at variance with international law as his majesty's government understand it. It would in their view legalize the abuse by German warships of neutral waters and create a position which his majesty's government could in no circumstances accept."

The opinion of observers here was that if Chamberlain added anything to previous statements on the law of the case, it was his declaration that it is the duty of a neutral to be active and not passive in its impartiality—to take all steps to make certain it was not aiding a belligerent or granting it privileges.

Norway to Let Altmark Sail.

OSLO, Feb. 20 (AP).—Norway appeared ready tonight to permit the stranded German prison ship Altmark to quit Norwegian territorial waters, but prospects of a nearly departure were dimmed by the disclosure that its propellers were broken.

Despite a British demand that the ship be interned, informed Norwegian circles indicated that the government would give Capt. Heinrich Dau of the Altmark the go-ahead signal any time he wants to lift anchor.

Capt. Dau said that so far as he was informed no official restraint had been placed upon his vessel and he felt free to leave at any time with the good graces of Norwegian authorities.

He said, however, that the Altmark's propellers were broken when the vessel was jammed against the rocky shore of Josing fjord Friday night and that he had received no orders to recondition it.

Not a Warship, He Says.

The Altmark now is in state service, but is not a warship, Capt. Dau asserted. His contention was backed up by Halvdan Koht, Norwegian foreign minister, who said:

"As a state ship the Altmark could not be considered a commercial ship or warship."

The foreign minister's comment was made after hearing Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration that Norway showed complete indifference to its obligations as a neutral and that Britain could in no circumstances accept the Norwegian view that the Altmark had a right to transport prisoners thru Norwegian territorial waters.

"The Norwegian government has revised its views of neutrality in conformity with the British conception as expressed in 1939," Koht said.

"About the prisoners on board the Altmark, it may be said that British experts on international law have maintained that it makes no difference for the right of passage of a ship thru neutral waters if there are prisoners on board. Only when prisoners are brought ashore is a neutral state bound to step in."

Recall Neutrality Talks.

Koht's assertion regarding Norway's revised neutrality views was taken as a reference to decisions reached in discussions last year by international law experts from various European countries.

The purpose of these talks, which lasted several months, was to make neutrality rules uniform. At that time Britain laid its views before the conferees and Norway altered some of its concepts to conform.

Capt. Dau said he had informed Norwegian inspectors of the presence of the British prisoners aboard the Altmark and that they seemed satisfied.

The only armaments carried by the Altmark were two machine guns, and when the vessel entered Norwegian waters they were stored in the hold, he insisted.

"When the British made their assault these guns were inaccessible and not a single pistol was shot from the German side," he continued. "We had no cannon of any description."

While serving as an auxiliary to the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee, Capt. Dau said, the Altmark had machine guns set up for anti-aircraft defense, but never used them.

Norway Satisfies Germany.

BERLIN, Feb. 20 (AP).—The statement of Halvdan Koht, Norwegian foreign minister, regarding the Altmark incident has been received by the German foreign office with great satisfaction, authorized sources said today.

The German view is that Koht in his statement to the Norwegian parliament yesterday, defending Norway's course and accusing Great Britain as a violator of international law in removing British prisoners by force from the Altmark, stripped the British of every legal argument.

It was the habit of Anthony Hottinger to leave home on mysterious trips that kept him for a week or more, his wife, Gladys, 24 years old, 5683 Ridge avenue, told Judge Cornelius Harrington yesterday. Finally, she said, he left her on Dec. 11, 1938, and has never returned. Through her attorney, Norman Becker, she charged desertion and asked a divorce which was granted. She also was given custody of Anthony Jr., 1 year old. The couple married on Feb. 5, 1937.

ARMY'S NEWEST SLOW AIRPLANE HAS FLIGHT TEST

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 20 [Special].—The first of the army air corps' new slow flying observation planes, designed for landing in small fields and for service as infantry liaison airplanes, was test flown today. The ship, designated the YO-51, was completed recently by the Ryan company here, and Robert Kerlinger, company test pilot, was at the controls.

The airplane is powered with a 420 horse power Wright engine. It took off after a run of 50 feet and climbed at an exaggerated angle. Landings, with the aid of Fowler type flaps and slots, were made at an equally steep angle but at slow speed. The landing roll was less than 100 feet, observers said. Army officials who saw the tests said the plane was competition for the gyroplane.

The plane, tho carrying only a pilot and observer, has a 50 foot wing span. It's top speed is less than 140 miles an hour and it is supposed to land at 28 miles an hour. The type was copied after a slow flying German plane extensively used in the Polish campaign. The Ryan corporation is building three of the planes for a contract price of $132,000. Similar planes are being constructed by the Stinson company of Nashville, Tenn.

FRENCH PREPARE TO FACE NAZI AIR SMASH IN SPRING

Fear Drive to Pave Way for Total War.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY AT THE FRONT, Feb. 20 (AP).—French flyers expect intensified war to start with a mass German air attack on all French air bases as soon as favorable spring weather arrives.

This is not an official view but is widely held among the flying rank and file. It apparently has some official support, for all air bases have strengthened their ground defenses.

The air army reasons that before Germany can hope to start any large scale land offensive she must master the air in combat or destroy French bases and sources of supply. If such a campaign succeeded, the French flyers say, Germany then could start its so-called total war.

Drive to Fail, Say French.

Such a campaign would fail, the French say, because the French and British together are at least equal to Germany in the air; because even if the Germans broke thru in small numbers they would have to face antiaircraft defenses, and because they would have to destroy the French planes.

France spaces its planes at wide intervals on flying fields, and its experts say a direct hit is needed to destroy each craft. The Germans haven't bombs enough to achieve this, they add.

British Airmen Ready.

WITH THE BRITISH AIR FORCES IN FRANCE, Feb. 20 (AP).—Britain's air force in France was reported today to face spring action with confidence.

In the lull enforced by severe winter weather the royal air force has reëquipped squadrons, consolidated bases, and improved airports. New planes have been brought in and old ones assigned to other missions.

The British assert their air forces have been kept highly mobile and could pull out overnight for action in the near east or any other sector.

20 Die as Result of Error.

PARIS, Feb. 20 (AP).—Two truckloads of French soldiers who lost their way in the maze of frontier entanglements and crossed the German lines suffered at least 20 deaths from German grenade throwers, military sources reported today.

The French were en route to relieve men in advanced positions when they wandered to a German outpost and were showered with the grenades. The losses were attributed in reports yesterday to a German ambush.

This morning's British-French communique said: "An enemy raid east of the Nied river was repulsed. Slight activity on the rest of the front."

"A quiet day," stated tonight's communique.

Germans Tell of Killing 20.

BERLIN, Feb. 20 (AP).—The German war summary today stated:

NAZIS LIBERATE 122 PROFESSORS OF POLISH SCHOOL

PARIS, Feb. 20.—It was learned today that 122 professors of the Polish university of Cracow returned to their native city last week from the German concentration camp at Sachsenhausen, near Berlin, where they had been detained for more than four months. Ten more professors were reported to have died in the camp. Nearly half of the others came back seriously ill.

The professors were arrested last November during a meeting of all teachers at which a German professor heaped abuse on Polish science. The Vatican, it is understood, was instrumental in obtaining their release.

The death toll of Polish intellectuals has been heavy. In the last four weeks Kazimierztetmajer, poet; Jan Lorentowicz, essayist; Josef Birkenmajer, poet, and Prof. Ignacy Chrzanowski have died. Four professors at Warsaw university were killed during the German siege and three have died since. Poznan university lost five professors.

Seeks Custody

Mrs. Helen Fortescue Reynolds and her son, Richard.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20 [Special].—Mrs. Helen Fortescue Reynolds, brown haired New York society girl recently turned film actress, went to court today to obtain an order for exclusive custody of her son Richard, 2 years old.

Opposing her petition appeared her former husband, Julian Louis Reynolds, who now has custody of the child for six months of the year under provisions of the court decree issued when Mrs. Reynolds won her divorce in Reno, Nev., a year ago.

Mrs. Reynolds contends that the child is too young to be away from his mother and that during such times as the boy has been with the father the infant's health has become impaired because of neglect.

WIFE FAINTS AS TWO GUNMEN ROB DIAMOND BROKER

Mrs. Fae Cain fainted last night when two bandits stripped her and her husband of their jewelry in the vestibule of the building in which the Cains live at 6119 North Hoyne avenue. One of the bandits then turned off the light and stood guard over her while the other forced Cain, a diamond broker at 31 North State street, to lead the way to the Cain apartment on the second floor.

There the second robber searched for more valuables. When he had finished he had jewelry valued at $2,350 and $140 in cash. He took Cain, who is 43 years old, back to the vestibule and said, "Now take care of your wife." At a signal from an accomplice outside the two gunmen fled.

TURKS PREPARE TO JOIN EMPIRES IN ARMED ACTION

War Council Discusses Pooling of Forces.

ANKARA, Turkey, Feb. 20 (AP).—In the midst of new military preparations by the government, the Turkish press declared tonight that any attack against the Balkans would bring Turkey into the European war.

"Turkey will enter the war the day a foreign power marches into the Balkans," the newspaper Yeni Sabah of Istanbul warned.

The supreme war council opened a week's emergency session to study plans for coördinating Turkey's armed forces with the huge reservoir of manpower being assembled in the near east by its French and British allies.

President to Tour Thrace.

It was announced that President Ismet Inonu soon would tour Thrace, frontier region in which Turkey is rushing new fortifications to oppose a possible thrust at the vital Dardanelles.

Plans were announced also for spending $15,000,000 of the recently granted British-French loan for rapid construction of a port at Eregli, on the Black sea. At present Turkey is without a Black sea harbor adequate as a base for naval operations.

"Turkey is not seeking war and would fight only if imperilled," Yeni Sabah said. "If Germany attacks the Balkans it will find us facing it on the side of the allies because such aggression would directly menace us.

"To reach Istanbul it is necessary to cross the Balkans. Our country will not await its turn with folded arms while the Balkans are crushed. That is one mistake we shall not make."

Empires to Sit In on Parley.

It was understood that British and French military missions charged with coördinating British-French-Turkish forces would participate in the meetings of the Turkish war council.

Turkey, not neutral but momentarily non-belligerent, has an estimated mobilized strength of 350,000 men and a potential strength of 1,000,000 men which it could coördinate with the total of some 570,000 men Britain and France have assembled in Syria, Palestine, Egypt, and other near eastern areas.

The Turkish army has been in a state of gradual mobilization for the last month and has arrayed 300,000 men, three times the normal border garrison, along the Russian frontier, competent sources reported.

RUMANIA TO CALL MILLION IN TEST OF ITS DEFENSES

Army Will Be Ready March 1 If Needed.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 20.—Rumania is completing preparations to mobilize more than 1,000,000 men by March 1 to find out exactly how smoothly the country's defense measures function.

All eastern Europe believes that spring, which will bring dry roads over which armies might move, may bring trouble. The Rumanians, to avoid any appearance of alarm, are taking steps in advance to have strong defense forces ready if needed.

It is said here that most of the men who are called will be permitted to return home as soon as the test is completed, unless there are serious prospects of trouble.

Motor Transport Prepared.

Thousands of trucks and automobiles from over all the country are being requisitioned for use in the mobilization trials, and thousands of men will be taken from shops, offices and farms for army duty.

The army, which was increased to more than 1,000,000 men last fall when the Rumanians feared that Europe's war might develop a thrust in this direction, has been reduced to about 600,000, as many soldiers have been permitted to return home.

Care is taken in connection with the test mobilization to do away with the possibility of the old practice of bribing somebody to have one's army service postponed, and the government is facing the danger of leaving farms and offices shorthanded rather than risk having too few men under arms.

In Rumania's mobilization system each unit carries with it equipment for the men who join it upon mobilization. When the men join their units' headquarters at given points, they find the equipment ready and each man's outfit in a separate bundle.

Roads a Vital Factor.

One difficulty in the system is that, for reasons of secrecy and convenience, most units are quartered in villages off main roads and railroads. That sometimes makes it difficult for the men to get to mobilization points. At present communications are so tied up by cold and snow that it would be impossible to effect a sudden mobilization.

The army has two weak points. One is a shortage of modern equipment; modern type guns are almost totally lacking. The other is the lack of uniformity in equipment. There are many kinds and calibers of field guns, rifles, and other equipment, creating a supply problem.

Saved by Finns, They Believe.

Rumanians genuinely believe that Finland, even if she collapses in her war with Russia, saved Rumania. They believe Scandinavia has more to fear from a Finnish collapse than does Rumania. Five Rumanian lines of defense are ready, it is said, on the Hungarian and Russian borders, but the Rumanians believe they will not be attacked.

Along the Hungarian frontier there is a line of trenches, tank traps, and pillboxes backed up by secondary positions. It is reported not to be such a powerful defense as British propagandists have tried to make it appear, but would be formidable if well defended.

Along the Russian frontier the first line is sketchy, but there are serious defenses along the river Prut. They do not consist of a continuous line of trenches, but of strong points commanding strategic roads, with trenches and pillboxes ahead of them.

Rumanian Youths in Britain Told to Register for Army

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP).—The Rumanian legation today ordered all Rumanians of the military class of 1941—those who will become 21 years of age in that year—now in Britain to register immediately with the military attaché.

BRITAIN TO SPEND $80,000,000 TO AID WEST INDIES

Seeks to Halt Economic Decadence on Islands.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A new project for the British West Indies, aimed ostensibly at checking industrial strife and economic deterioration in the islands, was announced by the British government tonight.

The scheme will cost $80,000,000 spread over 20 years. A central organization will be set up in the West Indies to administer the fund. An official statement said the money will be used to finance education, health services, housing and slum clearance, creation of labor departments, and to facilitate land settlement. An inspector general of agriculture will be appointed.

Plan to Spend 200 Millions.

The West Indies reforms will be linked with a general program of colonial development involving a maximum expenditure of $200,000,000 on colonies during the next 10 years. Two million dollars will be set aside yearly for research.

The projected changes in the British colonial policy came 18 months after a royal commission under Lord Moyne was sent to the West Indies to study labor and economic problems. Strikes and riots on plantations focused attention on the exploitation of low paid labor, bad housing conditions, and the financial plight of the islands generally.

While the commission was investigating conditions in the West Indies, the government, as a result of growing criticism of the British colonial administration as a whole, investigated other colonies.

Holds Back Full Report.

The report of the West Indies commissioners, whose recommendations were unanimous, has been in the government's hands since Christmas. Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald caused a rumpus in the house of commons today when he announced that the government had decided not to publish the full report until the end of the war.

Opposition spokesmen objected to the secrecy. They warned that censorship of the commission's report would arouse suspicions about the government's motives. MacDonald refused to budge and nothing was revealed, beyond the recommendations of the commissioners.

The commission advised the enactment of laws to protect trades unions from suits for damages consequent to strikes, legalization of peaceful picketing, compulsory registration of trades unions, and audits of their funds.

Urges Industrial Court.

The commission also advocated the creation of wage boards and establishment of an industrial court for the West Indies as a whole.

It urged an increase in the sugar export quota and recommended imposition of a levy of 40 cents on each ton of sugar produced to finance welfare schemes.

SEIZE MONTANA STATE OFFICIAL ON TAX CHARGES

Helena, Mont., Feb. 20 (AP).—Attorney General Harrison J. Freebourn of Montana was arrested today on a federal indictment charging evasion of income tax on $11,000 he was accused of accepting from a punch board and slot machine firm.

Freebourn, who posted $5,000 bond after his arraignment at Townsend, Mont., described the accusation as false.

The 50 year old attorney general, a Democrat elected to his first four year term in 1936, said the indictment was based on charges presented to the Montana house of representatives last year by a special investigating committee charging he took an $11,000 bribe to permit gamblers to operate. The committee's motion to impeach him lost by two votes.

PRESIDENT DROPS DEFENSE STUDIES TO CATCH FISH

ABOARD THE U. S. S. LANG AT SEA, Feb. 20 (AP).—[Via Wireless].—Still studying problems of inter-American defense, President Roosevelt cruised thru Pacific waters today in the vicinity of the Panama Canal Zone.

During the afternoon he dropped his studies long enough to try his hand at sailfishing from the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa, his cruise ship, near small islands off the Costa Rican coast.

Mr. Roosevelt was interested particularly in a broad policy of hemispheric defense, he told a press conference yesterday, explaining that his trip bore a special relation to distant rather than nearby canal protection.

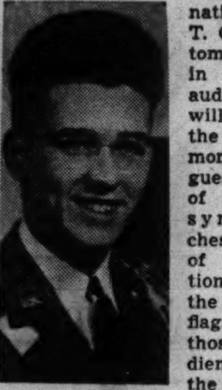
600 WILL OFFER FLAG PLEDGE AT R. O. T. C. SHOW

Broadcast Features Tribute Tomorrow.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Every one present at the second annual Washington anniversary radio tribute to the nation's R. O. T. C., to be held tomorrow night in the W-G-N audience studio, will take part in the program. The more than 600 guests, members of the W-G-N symphony orchestra, and stars of the celebration will join in the pledge to the flag. Leading those in the audience and on the stage will be Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Peter C. Sweers of the St. Mel R. O. T. C. unit in Chicago.



Peter C. Sweers.

Three Cadets to Post Colors.

Three other Chicago cadets will have an important part in the 15 minute ceremony which will precede the radio broadcast at 9:30 p. m. Promptly at 9:15 a bugler will blow "Attention," and a color detail from the Lane Technical High school unit will come from the rear of the auditorium and post the colors at the north of the stage. The cadets so honored are Maj. John H. Kragie and Lieutenants Edward Kirishian and Wesley Tennyson.

During this 15 minute prolog a preview of the bronze statue of Nathan Hale, executed by the late Bela Lyon Pratt, will be shown to the audience. The statue will be erected and dedicated at the time of the spring R. O. T. C. review on Michigan avenue. It will stand in the areaway between Tribune Tower and the W-G-N building.

W-G-N Symphony to Play.

On the half hour radio program, which will be heard over coast to coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system, will be featured the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, directed by Henry Weber; Marion Claire, soprano soloist, the W-G-N male chorus, and talks by Lieut. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, of the 6th corps area, and Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

In the audience, in addition to representatives of more than a score of civic and patriotic organizations, will be 300 cadets from 46 Chicagoland schools who have received THE TRIBUNE's gold, silver, and bronze medals for outstanding R. O. T. C. work.

Ambassador Post Will Be Last Job, Kennedy Says

Boston, Mass., Feb. 20 (AP).—Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to Great Britain, said tonight he would retire from public life when he completes his present work at the court of St. James'. He is here for a physical examination before sailing Saturday from New York to resume his post.

JAPAN'S PUPPET TROOPS MUTINY, CHINESE REPORT

Kill Officers and Burn Supply Depots.

HONGKONG, Feb. 20 (AP).—Mutiny and defeat have disrupted a Japanese sponsored army of Chinese within a week of its first move against the Chinese government forces, the Chinese Central News agency reported today.

Japanese military authorities announced on Feb. 13 that a new army of Chinese supporting Wang Ching-wei had been landed on the coast of Fukien province and was fighting the troops of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. They indicated that the army was 50,000 strong. Wang is the antigovernment Chinese chosen by Japan to head a Japanese controlled régime in China.

Claims 1,800 Men Surrender.

Central News, an agency of Chiang's government, said 1,800 men of this army had surrendered in Fukien, taking with them to the Chinese government side 1,500 rifles and 20 machine guns.

A mixed force of Japanese and the dissident Chinese was said to be engaged on three sides 15 miles west of Amoy, in the Haiting district.

Five hundred other members of this army were said by Central News to have mutinied at Lanfeng, in Honan province, killing their Japanese officers and advisers and burning barracks and supply depots. The rebel leader was killed, the agency said.

France Protests Again.

TOKIO, Feb. 20 (AP).—Charles Arsene Henry, French ambassador, protested today for the third time to Japan over repeated bombings of the French operated Hanoi-Kunming railway running from Indo-China into the Chinese southwest.

In a 40 minute interview with Vice Foreign Minister Masayuki Tani, the French ambassador was believed to have demanded that the Japanese pay for damage to the railroad, which is a route of supplies sent to the central Chinese government.

REPORT BERWYN TREASURER WILL RESIGN HIS POST

Mayor Anton Janura of Berwyn last night said he has been informed that Ernest W. Mau, treasurer of the suburb, will resign within a few days. Mau could not be reached for comment on the report. Mau and Matthew Berg, former treasurer, who were accused of embezzling $3,726 from the Berwyn special assessment funds, were acquitted last week before Judge William J. Lindsay in Criminal court.

They were freed when the state abandoned the prosecution after Judge Lindsay ordered contempt citations prepared against the two principal state witnesses. The total shortage in the assessment funds is estimated at $513,498. The state's attorney's office will be asked to investigate three forged checks allegedly found in the assessment account. While the statute of limitations bars any further embezzlement prosecutions, there is no such bar against forgery charges.

The Berwyn council approved a report of its controler, Sid J. Hanzlik, recommending changes in the suburb's bookkeeping system. The changes, which will involve the prorating of funds for payment of special assessment bonds, were suggested by Chicago auditing firms which found the books before 1921 almost meaningless.

PWA Pays State $199,000 on Psychiatric Hospital

D. R. Kennicott, regional director of the Public Works administration, was notified by Col. E. W. Clark, acting commissioner of public works, that a check for $199,841 has been released to the state of Illinois. It represents part payment of the PWA grant of $544,909 for the construction of the psychiatric institute and hospital building in the west side hospital colony on South Wood street between Polk and Taylor streets. Previous payments which totaled $231,000 have been made, Kennicott said. The total cost of the hospital will be $1,215,000.

FATHER FINALLY HEARS THE TRUTH ABOUT HIS TWINS

Marshall, Minn., Feb. 20 (AP).—Pedestrians on downtown streets here yelled and waved frantically at L. W. Archbold, truck driver, but to no avail.

Then Lloyd Burdick, sitting in a hotel looking out the lobby window, got one glance as the truck rumbled by, jumped to his feet and by sprinting caught up with the truck as the driver paused at a stop light.

HUGE OIL SUPPLY FOR HAWAII HELD IN DOHENY TANKS

U. S. Navy Profits from Teapot Dome.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—A group of oil tanks, once involved in a scandal which shook the nation, now hold a vital place in the navy's defense plans for the Pacific.

Naval officials said today that the 48 tanks built in Hawaii by the late Edward L. Doheny and later taken over by the navy constitute about the entire reserve fuel supply for the naval base on the Island of Oahu, T. H., claimed to be the strongest maritime fortress in the world.

As a protection from bombs and gunnery attacks the tanks are spread thruout the area. The tanks were built by Doheny, central figure in the Teapot Dome oil scandal of the Harding administration, to hold oil he expected to get from navy lands he had leased thru his old friend and fellow prospector, Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet.

Lease Held Invalid.

The lease was held invalid before Doheny could fill the tanks. The federal courts held that the lease had been secured thru fraud and corruption because a payment of $100,000 made by Doheny to Fall was against public policy and the lease therefore was void.

Fall was sent to prison under a sentence of a year and a day, for accepting the $100,000 as a bribe from Doheny, altho the latter was acquitted when tried for giving the bribe. Doheny died in 1935, and according to latest reports Fall is living near El Paso, Tex., in humble circumstances.

The tanks were taken over by the navy when the deal was exposed, in compensation for the navy oil taken by the Doheny interests under the lease. There are 30 tanks of 50,000-barrel capacity each, 17 tanks of 150,000 barrel capacity, and one tank holding 80,000 barrels of oil, making a total reserve capacity of 4,130,000 barrels.

Tank Contract Cancelled.

The tanks had been built by the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, a Doheny concern, under navy contracts. The contracts, based upon the lease of the navy petroleum lands, were canceled by a United States Supreme court decision of Feb. 28, 1927.

The scandal, which came close to depleting vital naval oil reserves, ultimately benefitted the navy by setting an example for any future tampering with navy oil property and assuring storage facilities on the Hawaiian base. The army and navy are now working on additional improvements which are aimed at making Oahu impregnable to attack. Pearl harbor now can accommodate the entire United States fleet if necessary.

SENATOR TAFT'S WIFE TAKES STUMP IN CITY IN PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Mrs. Robert Taft, wife of the Republican senator from Ohio, arrived in Chicago yesterday afternoon from Washington to fill two speaking engagements here on behalf of her husband's campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. An experienced public speaker, Mrs. Taft appeared last night at a Republican rally at the Stevens hotel, sharing the spotlight with Representative Joseph F. Martin of Massachusetts, house minority leader.

She will address a special session of the Women's Republican Club of Evanston at 10:45 a. m. today in the Orrington hotel. The club has invited Republican women's groups from New Trier, Park Ridge, River Forest, and La Grange, as well as members of the League of Women Voters, to hear her address.

Mrs. Taft will leave Chicago tomorrow to tour Minnesota, beginning at Winona, her birthplace. While she is touring the midwest, the senator will speak at Chapel Hill, N. C., tomorrow and at Springfield on Saturday. The Tafts campaigned together in Ohio during the 1938 senatorial race.

FILLING STATION LOOTED.

BUILDERS OF CHICAGO (24)

By CALEB

BORN in Essen, Germany, on October 11, 1835, and taught the violin from his infancy, Theodore Thomas made his public debut at six. At ten, he found himself a lonely stranger in New York City, whither his parents had emigrated; and there, on its streets and in its saloons, he spent grimy years of hardship, playing to earn his way and studying under such violin teachers as he could find. Theodore Thomas, incidentally, was one of the few great American artists who never studied abroad.

But privation and hard work had their reward. Young Thomas became a soloist in New York; further distinguished himself in a two-year Southern tour; was chosen first violin of the opera orchestra; and shortly afterward became its conductor. His violin had brilliantly aided at the concerts of Jenny Lind, Sontag, and Mario; and, with other musicians, he initiated a series of chamber music recitals lasting through 1855 to 1869. In the latter year he organized the famous Thomas Orchestra, which played five subsequent seasons in Irving Hall.

As first violin of a concert troupe, Chicago first heard him as early as 1854. He appeared here again in 1858, and his third appearance was as head of his own orchestra, eleven years later. Returning in 1871, his opening concert was scheduled for October 9th, in the ill-fated, four-story, $600,000 Crosby Opera House, located on Washington Street just west of State. But on that date the great Chicago Fire destroyed the building; and the year following, Thomas was chosen to head the Brooklyn Philharmonic Society. In 1877 he became head of the New York Philharmonic, whose transcontinental tours season after season brought the best music of the masters into every major American city.

Chicago, in 1877, was the scene of five weeks of recitals . . . memorable, too, for its riots, reflected in the strange spectacle of militia on guard at each side of his orchestra. For fourteen ensuing years his famous summer-night concerts enlivened the old Exposition Building, where the Art Institute now stands; and in 1891 he came to Chicago for good, playing till 1904 in the famous Auditorium.

As musical director of the World's Columbian Exposition and founder of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Theodore Thomas' greatness is today commemorated in the city's $850,000 Orchestra Hall and its memorial peristyle on Michigan Avenue opposite. He made America independent of European opera and concerts; established the Chicago Symphony as one of the world's foremost musical organizations; and is deservedly remembered as a truly illustrious Chicagoan. Only twelve days after his last public appearance, he died on Jan. 4, 1905.

LOBBYING DRIVE BY LABOR BOARD TOLD TO INQUIRY

Nine Attorneys Campaign to Sway Congress.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—A mass of evidence disclosing that the National Labor Relations board was lobbying in congress on a prodigious scale in the spring of 1939 was presented to a house investigating committee today.

Such activities at government expense have been termed a violation of the criminal code by the committee which is inquiring into the administration of the labor act. It is awaiting a ruling upon this question by the attorney general.

In March and April of last year the senate committee on education and labor, headed by Senator Elbert D. Thomas [D., Utah], was considering amendments to the Wagner act. The labor board assigned a staff of some nine attorneys to campaign against the proposed amendments, the committee learned.

Has Staff of Lobbyists.

At the head of this group was Allen R. Rosenberg, 30 year old legal assistant to the secretary of the board, a former investigator for the La Follette "civil liberties" investigating committee. Rosenberg testified he had a staff of six to eight attorneys working with him during the senate committee hearings.

Chairman J. Warren Madden, Edwin S. Smith, a board member; Secretary Nathan Witt, and other board employés aided the special staff in mustering opposition to the amendments, the committee learned. Their activities were nation-wide. They instructed regional directors to seek witnesses to appear before the senate committee in opposition to the amendments.

From the confidential files of the board scores of letters were produced, showing that the board rounded up 175 witnesses who were to appear. Thus a virtual filibuster was staged which was successful. No action was taken by the senate committee.

Among those petitioned by the board to appear before the committee in its behalf were professors, judges, lawyers, social workers, ministers, priests, and editors. Those persons, most of them noted for their "liberal" viewpoints, were furnished with data by the board to insure the potency of their testimony.

Paid Generous Salaries.

Rosenberg receives a $3,600 yearly salary, he testified. The salaries of his aids in the lobbying campaign were not disclosed but presumably averaged $2,500 and up. It was estimated that the salaries of the special lobbying staff alone, not including the salaries of board members and other employés, cost the government at the rate of approximately $25,000 yearly.

[The criminal code provides that government funds may not be used in an attempt to influence congress concerning legislation. Violations are to be punished by a $500 fine and a year's imprisonment. So far as has been learned, this law has never been enforced.]

The first letter identified by Rosenberg was one written to him by Philip G. Phillips, regional director at Cincinnati, on April 21, 1939. Marked "personal and confidential," it informed Rosenberg that William Turnblazer, president of district 19, United Mine Workers of America, would be a C. I. O. witness before the senate committee in regard to Harlan county, Kentucky, conditions.

Suggests Coaching Witness.

"I suggest, if possible, that some one get hold of Turnblazer and go over the matter with him," Phillips wrote. "He will make a very striking witness, of course, being able to tell what took place in Harlan before and after the labor board. He will need quite a bit of coaching on what we want and I am making this suggestion, therefore, for that reason."

Rosenberg denied that he had ever coached Turnblazer who, he said, had never appeared as a witness.

Two letters to regional directors in Spokane, Wash., and San Francisco were next put into the record. Signed by Secretary Witt, they instructed the directors to sound out designated groups for possible witnesses against the Wagner act amendments.

One of the witnesses solicited by the board was Prof. Harry Shulman of the Yale university school of law. Chairman Madden wrote Prof. Shulman asking him to testify before the senate committee. The professor accepted and wrote in reply on April 18, 1939: "I shall be very glad to receive from you such coaching as you may think desirable."

North Carolina Dean Solicited.

Dean M. T. Van Hecke of the University of North Carolina law school was another witness who was solicited.

"I will send you a copy of the board's report to the committee for your use," Madden wrote Van Hecke.

Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin law school was also asked to appear and testify, but replied that his engagements would prevent him from doing so. Dean Garrison wrote, however, that he would send a statement to the committee and remarked in a letter to Madden: "I made a speech on the act at Chicago in which I plagiarized from your own statement to the committee which was a magnificent job.

"I gather from the newspapers that there is not much likelihood of any amendments going thru at this session and that makes me feel less badly about not being able to testify."

Others in the list of witnesses solicited to appear were Prof. Charles W. Gregory of the University of Chicago; Vincent B. Day, federal District judge in Minnesota, and Donald Ogden Stewart, humorist and president of the Hollywood anti-Nazi league.

Earlier, the committee heard from officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the procurement department of the treasury concerning the labor board's attempts to blacklist firms accused of violations of the Wagner act.

Emil Schram, chairman of the RFC, testified that the lending corporation had held up disbursements of loans in three instances at the suggestion of the labor board.

Dancer Arrives

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

SAI SHOKI.

Miss Sai Shoki, Asiatic dancer, arrived yesterday aboard the Lake Shore limited from New York to prepare for her appearance tomorrow night at the Civic theater. Miss Shoki will present a program of dances from her native Corea. She is en route to Hollywood, where she is to appear in a moving picture.

RAPS LOAN BAN AGAINST FIRMS ACCUSED BY NLRB

Pettengill Tells Editors RFC in 'Dictatorship.'

The action of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in agreeing to the request of the National Labor Relations board that businesses charged with violations of the Wagner labor act be refused further RFC credits was denounced as a step toward dictatorship yesterday by Samuel B. Pettengill, former Democratic representative from South Bend, Ind.

Denies Congress Intended It.

"In the 'horse and buggy days' in this country a man was entitled to trial before he was adjudged to be guilty of an offense with which he had been charged," Pettengill said. "The new idea seems, however, to be that a business is guilty of a charge before the charge has been substantiated by trial.

"Congress did not say that a business charged with a violation of the Wagner act should be denied further funds from the RFC. In fact, congress did not say that conviction of such a violation was any reason for shutting off government credit to the business affected."

Pettengill charged that the NLRB and the RFC are attempting to legislate, in the place of congress, for the American people. These agencies are trying to establish a government of men, outside the law, he asserted.

Would Call for Resignations.

"All those officials who took part in this deal to encroach on the liberties of Americans should be asked by the President to resign at once," Pettengill said.

The former congressman was an ardent New Dealer at the beginning of President Roosevelt's régime in 1932. As the New Deal moved farther and farther to the left he became disgusted with it. In the fall of 1938 he announced that he would not be a candidate for reëlection and predicted that four years more of Rooseveltian politics would destroy democracy.

Clinton F. Karstaedt, secretary treasurer of the Beloit, Wis., News, was elected president of the association. F. W. Schaub, business manager of the Decatur, Ill., Herald-Review, was elected vice president.

A. F. L. UNION SUES TO RUN C. I. O. UNIT OUT OF ITS HALL

Seven officers and agents of the Furniture, Woodworkers and Finishers union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday filed suit in Superior court to oust from headquarters at 1575 Ogden avenue the United Furniture Workers of America, a Congress of Industrial Organizations union formed by suspended members of the A. F. of L. union. The suit demands that the C. I. O. unionists vacate the quarters and turn over funds and records they allegedly hold. The suit also asks for an injunction to prevent the C. I. O. union members from interfering with affairs of the A. F. of L. local.

The bill names seven officers of the C. I. O. union as affiliates. These men, it is asserted, were expelled from the A. F. of L. union last Feb. 8. They refused to acknowledge the expulsion but publicly announced their affiliation with the C. I. O. They are said to control some $10,000 in dues. A hearing will be held this morning before Judge John C. Lewe.

DEMOCRATS HAVE 4 DAYS TO PATCH THREE WAY SPLIT

Forecast Withdrawal of Slattery or Sullivan.

BY PERCY WOOD.

As matters stood among the Democrats of Illinois last night, the party faced a three-way primary election split with only four days remaining in which to solve a bewildering situation.

Unless one of them withdraws by midnight Saturday, the April 9 primary ballot will list three candidates for senator—James M. Slattery, the incumbent; Gael Sullivan, Mayor Kelly's aid, and State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski. This would mean a renewal of the old struggle between the Horner forces and the Kelly-Nash adherents with Adamowski running a chance, his friends say, to slip thru to victory.

Slattery was picked by the mayor, Gov. Horner, P. A. Nash, national committeeman, and other slate makers to lead a harmony ticket adopted at Springfield ten days ago. Sullivan's candidacy bloomed without warning late Monday shortly after Adamowski had announced.

Slattery Won't Quit, He Says.

In Washington yesterday, Senator Slattery said his position was unchanged. "I'm in the race to stay," he declared.

In Springfield Adamowski remarked that he thought the "harmony" slate had broken up.

Sullivan had no comment, but his friends let it be known that neither he nor they believed he was put in the race only as a stalking horse.

Thus, the situation remained static and puzzling. The Horner group met and talked in Springfield, but decided nothing. Rumors in Chicago were that Senator Slattery would withdraw, with the prospects for a judgeship—federal or local—before him. The Horner followers minimized this possibility, repeating that Slattery is the governor's personal candidate, his "number one man," as the governor calls Slattery. If any one withdraws, it will be Sullivan, the Hornerites predicted.

Adamowski is out of this particular question, since he is on the Stelle-Barrett slate. Lieut. Gov. John Stelle first cracked the harmony picture by spurning reslating on the ticket chosen at Springfield and announcing for governor himself. The third of the trio is Auditor Edward J. Barrett, who was dumped by the slate makers.

New Conference Expected.

In view of all these complications, many thought that there would be a second big conference at the executive mansion in Springfield within the next day or two. The mayor and Nash are in Miami and neither had intended returning for a week.

Accompanying the belief that both Chicago leaders now plan to back Sullivan there came a story purporting to explain this apparent change of front.

In this connection it was said that when the slatemakers were urging Judge Otto Kerner of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to run for governor, the suggestion was made that Slattery might be shunted into Kerner's lifetime job on the federal bench. Since Judge Kerner refused to consider the governorship, this discussion had to be abandoned.

Fear Slattery Can't Win.

The mayor and Nash were represented in yesterday's gossip as having felt that if Slattery could be renominated without opposition, he might be put over in the fall, in the event the Democrats got out a heavy vote.

However, the entrance of Adamowski, who is a strong campaigner, was said to have led the chieftains to the decision that Slattery would have great difficulty surviving a Democratic primary fight. And, since Adamowski was running on the Stelle-Barrett slate, the Chicago leaders found it necessary to match Adamowski, who is 33, with another young man, Sullivan, who is 35.

Confesses Slaying

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Betty Hardaker and her daughter, Geraldine, age 5, whom she confessed slaying in Los Angeles.

Montebello, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—Mrs. Betty Hardaker, 26 years old, confessed to authorities today that she slew her daughter, Geraldine, 5, yesterday because the child was too good to live. Mrs. Hardaker was seized this afternoon at Palm Springs, a desert resort. The child's body was found yesterday afternoon in the wash room of a park in Montebello, a Los Angeles suburb.

Police investigated the possibility that the child's death might have been a human sacrifice after they were told that Mrs. Hardaker and her husband were members of a religious cult. Hardaker, who was taken into custody, denied he was a member, and the Rev. Nellie Shrewbert, pastor of the Church of the Philosophy of the Apostles, to which Mrs. Hardaker belonged, declared: "She learned nothing about human sacrifice in my church."

In her confession to Police Chief Harry Bishpam of Palm Springs, Mrs. Hardaker said: "We were walking in the Montebello park. The thought swept over me suddenly, driving everything else from my mind: 'She is too good to live. She must die. She must not endure the pain and agony I have known.' I took her into the rest room. I picked her up by the heels and swung her high and struck her head against the concrete floor."

NEW TRIER G. O. P. WOMEN SUPPORT CHURCH, GREEN

Indorsement of Representative Ralph E. Church of Evanston for the Republican nomination for United States senator, and of Dwight H. Green for the governorship nomination, was voted yesterday by the Women's Republican club of New Trier. The club, which has a paid membership of 2,360, of whom 400 are bellringers on primary and election days, met in the Winnetka Community house. Congressman Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, minority leader of the house, was unable to keep his speaking engagement, and Representative Leo Allen of Galena addressed the club. Some 500 women were present. Mrs. Edward Hall presided in the absence of Mrs. Rollin Wood, president.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham took over her duties yesterday as chairman of the Cook county women's division of the Green campaign. Mrs. Upham, whose husband, the late Frederic W. Upham, was treasurer of the Republican national committee for years, is active in many civic movements and will carry on her work from Green headquarters in the La Salle hotel.

JONES, LOUISIANA ELECTION VICTOR, POLITICAL NOVICE

Self-Educated; One-Time Head of State Legion.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 20 [Special].—Sam Houston Jones, who defeated Gov. Earl K. Long in the run-off primary for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, made his state political debut in this campaign.

Jones, a Lake Charles attorney, is 42 years old. He was born in a two room farmhouse near Merryville, Beauregard parish [county], on July 15, 1897, one of a large family. Within a few years his parents moved to De Rider, where he attended public schools.

Worked Way Thru College.

Later he entered Louisiana State university, waiting on tables to help pay the expenses of his education.

He enlisted when the United States entered the war in 1917, but did not get overseas. After the war he returned to De Ridder and read law privately in the office of his father, then court clerk.

Jones was admitted to the bar in 1922 and was named to fill an unexpired term as city judge in De Ridder. He moved to Lake Charles in 1924 and became assistant district attorney.

Soon afterward he was elected state commander of the American Legion.

Partner in Law Firm.

In 1931 he became a partner in the Lake Charles law firm of McCoy, King & Jones. He resigned from the firm when he announced his candidacy for the governorship.

His wife, the former Louise Gambrell Boyer, daughter of a Tucson, Ariz., city councilman, was a childhood acquaintance. They were married in 1934. She has two children by a former marriage. Two more have been born of her marriage to Jones.

The machine established by the late Huey Long and headed by his political heirs since his death in 1935 has held sway in Lousiana for 12 years.

Rising from cotton patch to national prominence as United States senator and absolute boss of Louisiana, Huey Long attained what was regarded as the highest degree of state control ever recorded under the American form of government.

House Votes Impeachment.

Huey, the Kingfish, was elected governor of Louisiana in 1928. He went after his political foes viciously, clearing them out of various state offices. The storm against him broke the next year when the Louisiana house of representatives presented articles of impeachment against him.

He was accused of attempting to bribe legislators, of using his appointive power to influence the judiciary, and of flaunting the constitutional limitations on the governorship. He defeated the impeachment proceedings.

Long won the United States senatorship in 1930 after a closely contested Democratic primary. He had fallen out with the lieutenant governor, Dr. Paul Cyr, and would not leave for Washington until he was assured no political foe could succeed him.

When Dr. Cyr took the oath of governor and tried to have Long ousted from that job Long had A. O. King, president pro tempore of the state senate, assume the governorship. He then engineered O. K. Allen thru the gubernatorial primary of January, 1932, and only then did Long entrain for Washington, leaving King as acting governor until the election in November gave the office to Allen.

Senator Long was shot to death Sept. 8, 1935, in the state capitol at Baton Rouge. His assailant, Dr. Carl Austin Weiss Jr., was immediately shot down by Long's bodyguards.

Since then Long's political heirs have tried to carry on. Richard W. Leche, one of the Long adherents, was elected governor in 1936.

New Scandals Develop.

Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State university, had been Huey Long's choice to head that institution. The university itself had been one of Huey's pets.

Dr. Smith went into the stock market and was shorn. He dipped into the university's funds. In June he was charged with embezzling $100,000 of the university's funds. He fled to Canada, but was pursued and brought back to face the embezzlement charge and a host of other accusations growing out of his nine year administration of the university. He is now serving sentences of 8 to 24 years in prison.

WPA Charges Arise.

At the time Dr. Smith's peculations were disclosed, Gov. Leche became involved in charges of irregularities in the administration of WPA funds in Louisiana. Leche resigned as governor, giving arthritis as the reason. Lieut. Gov. Earl K. Long, brother of Huey, succeeded to the post.

Seeking to succeed himself, Earl Long entered the primary last Jan. 16. He led the field of five Democratic candidates with 226,385 votes. But this was short of the clear majority necessary to win the nomination and he was forced into a run-off with Jones, who polled 154,396 votes.

Jones Backed by Noe.

Coming to Jones' assistance in the run-off was State Senator James A. Noe, who had also been a candidate in the first primary. Noe was as bitter a foe of Earl Long as he had once been a stanch ally of Huey.

Jones' prospects were also bettered by the release of a government report which asserted that Mayor Robert Maestri of New Orleans, Earl Long's principal supporter, had made large profits thru excess oil production in the state.

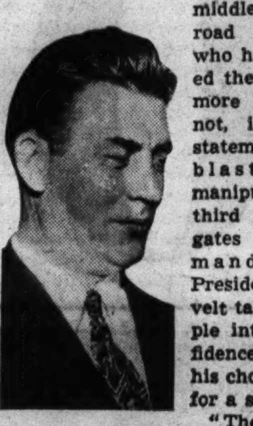
In the last year two of the late Huey's top henchmen have fallen from power. Seymour Weiss, New Orleans hotel man, was sentenced last September to 30 months in prison and fined $1,000 on a charge of using the mails to defraud the state university. In December Abraham L. Shushan, former president of the New Orleans levee board, received a similar sentence on a mail fraud conviction.

Senator Rips 3d Term Tactics; Demands Roosevelt Tell Plans

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, a middle of the road Democrat who has supported the New Deal more often than not, issued a statement today blasting the manipulation of third term delegates and demanding that President Roosevelt take the people into his confidence regarding his choice, if any, for a successor.



Senator Edwin C. Johnson.

"The President will be drafted," said Johnson, "unless in a most vigorous manner he makes it perfectly clear to the American people that he will decline the nomination. If it be his intention in the final analysis to submit to draft, his present attitude of silence is smart politics.

"If, on the other hand, the President has no intentions of accepting the nomination, his continued silence is terrible and he must accept the full responsibility for demoralizing and disrupting the Democratic party. If this silence continues, the Democratic nomination will be worthless to any one other than himself, including his favorite.

"If the President has a personal choice, there is no reason that he should not take the people into his full confidence now. It is far beneath the dignity of the office of the president of the United States to plan the manipulation of delegates."

Senator Johnson's denunciation of delegate manipulation apparently referred to the third term activities of New Deal politicians in Ohio, Massachusetts, Illinois, Wisconsin, Nebraska, California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and other states. Senator Vic Donahey of Ohio issued a statement yesterday assailing efforts to circumvent Ohio's primary law by running a favorite son candidate as a Roosevelt stalking horse. Senator Donahey refused to permit the use of his name in the subterfuge.

LOOP FIRE EXTINGUISHED.

Fire which attacked offices on the ninth floor of the Rookery building, 209 South La Salle street last night was quickly extinguished. Chief John L. Fenn of the 25th battalion estimated the damage at $300.

has been no more 'MUST' legislation from the White House."

"And after the 1940 returns are in, we will be strong enough to command a dollar's worth of honest public service for every dollar of federal expenditure."

Mrs. Taft told the diners that the New Deal in Washington has the greatest propaganda machine ever seen. Mrs. Taft, a daughter of the late Lloyd C. Bowers, solicitor general under President Taft, who was the father of Senator Taft, is a former Chicago resident. She was introduced by Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman.

"We have been swallowing the homemade propaganda of the New Deal for seven years," Mrs. Taft said, "and it has been as indigestible as bride's biscuits."

Mrs. Taft listed several propaganda devices she said were being used by the New Dealers.

Branch Rickey Speaks.

"The first was name calling," she said. "The second was the identifying with one side of an issue some great figures of the past. The third was the bandwagon idea—the idea that if you venture to disagree you'll be left out of the fun. The fourth was the one of attaching attractive labels or slogans to every project.

"We have continued thruout the New Deal," she said, "the same policy of ever-increasing debt, loaded upon us and our grandchildren, but we have called it successively pump-priming, government lending, and now government investment."

The third speaker, Branch Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team, spoke of dangers facing Democracy. "The New Deal," he said, "is to be judged on its record, for we see what we understood to be a Jeffersonian republic turning into a burocracy."

A. K. Stiles, state chairman, presided at the dinner, and Representative Leo Allen of Galesburg served as toastmaster.

Police Slayer Is Granted Death Stay Until April 19

Jerry Mangano, 22 years old, who was to have been electrocuted in the county jail Friday for the murder of Park Policeman Harry Francois, was granted a stay of execution until April 19 by Judge John A. Sbarbaro in the Criminal court yesterday. The delay was granted so Attorney Charles Bellows may appeal to the Illinois Supreme court.

First in the Hearts of its Countrymen

YOU don't have to look farther than the nearest parking lot to see how the public has taken to this 1940 Buick.

Although it is not the largest seller, polls of public opinion mark it clearly as the car "first in the hearts of its countrymen."

On general appearance, for instance, Buick gets better than a 19% vote as best looking, to 11% for the Number Two car.

Its thrifty Dynaflash power plant, now balanced after assembly, gives it twice as many Best-of-the-Bunch votes as any other, as does its chassis construction.

With soft and easy coil springs all around it's only natural that some two and a half times as many people pick Buick as best for ride. And a two to one vote on room is understandable in view of the SUPER'S close-to-five-feet front seat.

But the really satisfying thing to us is the way people size up Buick's value.

Half again as many people pick Buick as best buy as pick any other. And three out of five who rate Buick No. 1 say it's the value that gives it the edge.

So it's not surprising when polls show more people wanting Buick than want any other car — and when Buick's midwinter sales hit new peaks.

And shouldn't that, in turn, logically suggest: better get yours now — and be sure of having it?

Not a six but an EIGHT for $895 and up delivered at Flint, Mich. *Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

200,000 Gain!

Chicago Tribune total net paid daily circulation last month exceeded 1,000,000 . . . a gain of more than 118,000 over January, 1939, and more than 200,000 over January, 1937

In a period of increasing demand for news, the newspaper which gives readers the most for their money attracts the most new readers.

Since January, 1937, the Chicago Tribune has registered a gain of more than 200,000 in net paid total daily circulation. This increase is greater than the present total circulation of any daily newspaper in all but 13 of America's largest cities. It is a gain three times larger than the combined gains of all other Chicago daily newspapers.

Last month Tribune daily circulation scored a gain of more than 118,000 over January, 1939. This was in addition to a gain of 50,000 in January, 1939, plus a gain of 32,000 in January, 1938.

Translate this growth into terms of increased power for your advertising. Visualize the extra buying power for your product represented by 200,000 additional circulation. And keep in mind, also, that increasing circulation means decreasing milline cost.

Every day of the week, the Tribune now has more than 800,000* circulation right in Chicago and suburbs. This is from 335,000 to 500,000 more copies than are sold in metropolitan Chicago by other Chicago newspapers. The Tribune is the only Chicago newspaper which has the equivalent of majority coverage of all the families in metropolitan Chicago.

When you advertise in the Tribune, you reach Chicago's largest, most responsive audience. You make the most effective use of your advertising budget today...and you advertise in a medium which continues to grow. To get the most for your money now...and to build solidly for the future...build your Chicago advertising program around the Tribune.

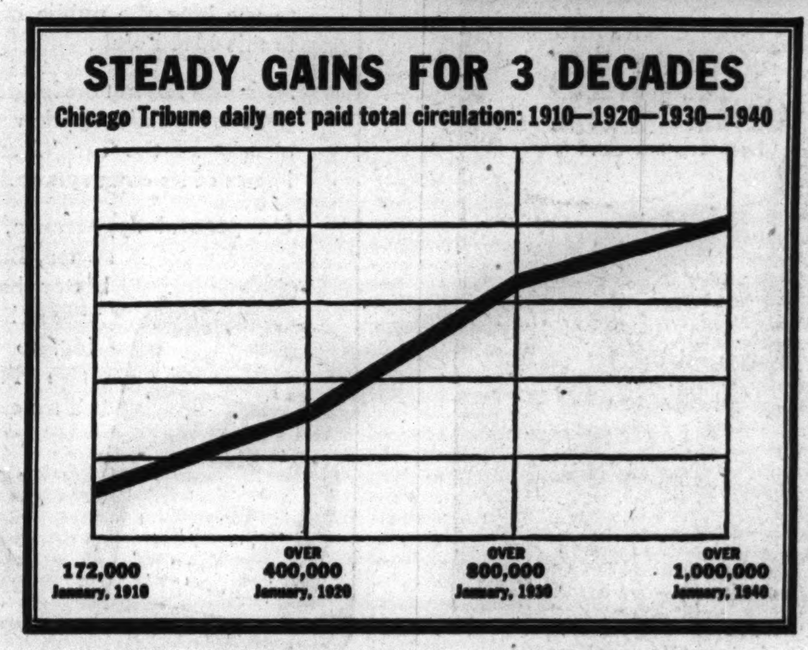
CHICAGO'S ALL-INCOME MEDIUM

As the only Chicago newspaper which has the equivalent of majority coverage of all the families in metropolitan Chicago, the Tribune is the one newspaper which has power in proportion to sales opportunities in the Chicago market. Penetrating deeply into every neighborhood and suburb of Chicago, Tribune circulation reaches your best customers and prospects in all income levels of family life.



WHY TRIBUNE CIRCULATION CONTINUES TO GROW

Tribune circulation continues to grow because the Tribune delivers to readers the finest newspaper available. It is continuously expanding its service and improving its product. It spares no expense or effort to keep in touch with public demand, and, by pioneering in new fields, matches in its mechanical departments the excellence of its news, editorials, pictures, and feature contents.

As a result, year after year more people in every walk of life are attracted to the Tribune and become steady readers.

BIOFF SURRENDER STARTS PROBE OF OFFICIAL CONDUCT

Judge Asks Who Released Bondsmen in 1923.

William Bioff, film union czar, flew back to Chicago yesterday to face an unserved jail sentence for pandering imposed 18 years ago. His first legal step to evade the sentence launched an investigation which may disclose a major official scandal as to the manner in which he originally escaped punishment.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of Criminal court ordered the investigation after reading Bioff's petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

"I notice," Judge Prystalski said, "that there is an allegation in this writ that after the Appellate court affirmed the conviction the responsibility of the bondsman for this man was terminated. I want to know all about that.

Demands Reasons for Act.

"I want to know who in the state's attorney's bond department agreed to it in the face of the record. I want to know why it was done."

James V. Cunningham and Walter McCoy, assistant state's attorneys, promptly replied that they would investigate. Cunningham said he would try to make a report in his answer to the petition for the writ.

The Appellate court issued the capias for Bioff April 4, 1923, after affirming the original pandering sentence. This was during the régime of Robert E. Crowe as state's attorney. The prosecutors said they would learn who was in charge of the bond department at the time and try to determine who authorized disposition of Bioff's bond.

Bioff won his freedom on bond yesterday, a few hours after his arrival on a Transcontinental and Western airplane. He returned to Chicago voluntarily.

Visits Bridewell Briefly.

The labor leader paid a brief visit to the Bridewell, in which he had been sentenced to serve six months. He stayed there only long enough to be recorded as No. 1288—a strange contrast to his imposing title of international representative of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés, an organization of 35,000 members.

While Bioff was being measured for the Bridewell records, State Senator Abe Marovitz [D., 19th], high priced Criminal court lawyer, and his brother, Attorney Harold Marovitz, were wasting no time in presenting a petition for his release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Judge Prystalski finally agreed to Bioff's release on $5,000 bond pending a hearing Friday at 11 a. m. on the writ. The United States Fidelity and Guarantee company of Maryland provided the bond, and Bioff, who was brought back from the Bridewell to sign it, thanked Judge Prystalski and left in the company of his lawyers.

In his petition Senator Marovitz contended that no capias had been issued for Bioff during 16½ years, 10 years of which, from February, 1923, he was publicly a resident of Chicago. Marovitz argued that no effort had ever been made to lock up Bioff on his conviction for pandering and that as recently as March 23, 1932, when he was arrested, he was released with nothing said of the matter.

Gives Officer the Slip.

Bioff arrived here from Los Angeles, Cal., leaving in the lurch Lieut. Charles Egan of the state's attorney's office, who had been sent there to bring him back. Gov. Culbert L. Olson of California ordered Bioff extradited to Illinois last Saturday on his conviction for pandering, and Bioff put the best possible face on the matter by making a "voluntary" return.

He booked passage on the plane under the name of Walter Berg, buying a thru ticket to New York, and was on his way east before Lieut. Egan learned of his departure. At stopoffs he closeted himself in the plane's washroom.

Waiting at the municipal airport were several policemen from the state's attorney's office, Capt. Daniel Gilbert, Frank C. Olson, secretary of the I. A. T. S. E., and the Marovitz brothers.

Senator Marovitz is also the counsel for the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, an association of garage owners which was recently involved in the investigation of the goon murder of Marinus Hvid, a north side garage owner, who died last Dec. 30 after being beaten with baseball bats.

Bioff was wearing a green hat and green tie, a dark blue suit, and dark gray overcoat. He peered thru spectacles at the familiar sights of the city in which he resided before his rise as a labor power in the movie industry.

He had been on the ground but a short time before he gave evidence of a vocabulary which has expanded considerably since the days when police described him as one of "Dago" Lawrence Mangano's hoodlums.

Claims "Plight" Is "Persecution."

"I would call my plight persecution," he said. "Maybe I have been doing too much for the workingman. I think the big interests are after me."

Bioff rode to the state's attorney's office in a squad car. There he sent a telegram to Los Angeles union officials, resigning as chairman of the Conference of Studio Unions, which was to meet late in the day with motion picture producers to discuss pay increases.

[In Hollywood, the conference of studio unions refused to accept Bioff's resignation, passing a vote of confidence in him. Conference officials wired him that he would remain its chairman even if he had to conduct negotiations with the producers by long distance telephone. The conference also adopted a resolution criticizing Gov. Olson for granting Bioff's extradition.]

Served with 1923 Capias.

After that Bioff was served with the capias issued by the Appellate court April 4, 1923, after the original pandering sentence was affirmed. Somehow, no one got around to drawing up the capias until last Nov. 24, when it was pointed out that Bioff had never served a day of the sentence imposed 18 years before.

He was then finger printed and photographed in the bureau of identification adjoining the Felony court. When newspaper photographers took his picture, he demanded:

"Did Dillinger have this many pictures taken?"

Then Bioff said in an interview:

"My reason for coming back is to get this thing cleared up once and for all. I represent 35,000 people who are fighting for better wages, conditions, and hours. Everything was timed pretty well. Who would be interested in going back all these years to dig up a skeleton and make an issue of it?

Blames the "Money Interests."

"This was all brought up at a time when it would cost producing companies a lot of money in increases. The money interests want to see me out of the picture. So do the C. I. O. and the communists."

HEARING BRINGS BACK MEMORY OF FACTOR'S HEYDAY

Character Witnesses Talk in Terms of Millions.

Memories of the "get rich quick" days of the Florida land boom and of the days when John [Jake the Barber] Factor's brokerage accounts had an annual turnover of thirty-five million dollars were revived yesterday in a hearing before Examiner James G. Lewis in the courthouse of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The hearing, in its third day, was called by the federal alcohol administration on Factor's application for a wholesale liquor permit for his Old Oak Bottling and Distributing company. The FAA has filed a contemplated denial.

Two Women Tell of Deals.

Two women who invested—and later lost—part of their savings in Florida lots sold by Factor's Florida Land company in 1925 told of the "boom period."

One was Mrs. Mary Edlund, 6141 North Rockwell street, who said, in reply to questions by John Paulding Brown, FAA attorney, that she paid $20 in July, 1925, as down payments on two lots in a subdivision named "Taft Manor."

"When I took a trip down there, I certainly was disappointed when I saw my lots," she said in sharp tones. "There was no development there—nothing going on at all. Just a little railroad station . . . and the land itself had a few trees and was kind of swampy."

She Speaks to Factor.

Mrs. Anna Helinski, 2053 Humboldt boulevard, eyed Factor as she told of investing $1,800 in Florida lots. After telling her story, which was similar to Mrs. Edlund's, she stepped from the stand and paused beside Factor, who was sitting with his attorney, Joseph A. Struett, at the counsel table.

"That was a lot of money, Mr. Factor," she exclaimed. "I sure would like to get it back."

Factor grinned. "If you show me your receipts, I'll be glad to give you that back—if you really lost so much!"

Indicted and Freed.

Factor and others associated with his land company were indicted for mail fraud after the Florida land bubble burst. The indictments later were dismissed on motion of the federal government.

In yesterday's afternoon session—after Factor had traced his career from immigrant boy thru the successive stages of newsboy, shoe shiner, shoemaker, messenger, and barber to a point where the English government unsuccessfully tried to extradite him in 1932 from the United States on charges of a $7,000,000 investment fraud—Leonard M. Spitzglass, a partner in the brokerage firm of Stein, Brennan & Co., 9 South LaSalle street, was called as a character witness for Factor.

Turnover of 70 Millions.

"Our firm carried on very large transactions for Mr. Factor in 1931 and 1932—a total of more than $70,000,000 was the turnover," he declared. "I might say that his reputation, as far as our firm was concerned, was of the highest order. He was a charitable man, too, having once given $10,000 to a charitable organization."

Factor beamed and looked sharply at Attorney Brown. The latter waved his hand languidly and said, "Oh, I'll stipulate that. I don't think there's much doubt that Mr. Factor is charitable and generous."

Another character witness was Roy Tolzien, formerly cashier for the Union bank of Chicago, in which Factor kept huge sums of cash from 1924 to 1931. Tolzien now is controler for a firm managing restaurants in Chicago.

Speaks of Hundred Thousands.

"In February, 1924, Mr. Factor opened a personal account with a $100,000 deposit. Shortly thereafter, he opened another one with an initial deposit of $250,000. Once, on his order, I purchased $900,000 worth of liberty bonds for his account. I consider his reputation very good."

Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, also testified in Factor's behalf.

Before the day's hearing ended, Charles C. Taul, postal inspector of Little Rock, Ark., testified he made an investigation in 1924 of Arkansas "oil lands" handled by Factor's British realty firms. Other vigorous objections from Attorney Truett, he asserted that in three of the four counties in which the firm sold land, there were no wells.

At today's session, Capt. Daniel L. Gilbert of the state's attorney's police and First Assistant Prosecutor Wilbur Crowley are expected to testify. Subpenas for them were issued yesterday at Attorney Struett's request.

LINKS 2 FORMER PROSECUTORS TO BOOTLEG HAUNTS

Convicted Still Operator Tells of Hangout.

Two former assistant United States attorneys, on trial in the federal District court on charges of operating an alleged case fixing ring, yesterday were described as familiar figures around a west side hangout for gamblers and bootleggers. The testimony was given by John Sebo, one of nine convicted bootleggers returned here from prison to testify for the government.

Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske are the accused former prosecutors. Other defendants are Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a professional bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, a bootlegger. The case is being heard by a jury before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone.

Tells of Going to Hangout.

Sebo told the jury he was arrested in December, 1938, for operating a still on the west side. After he was released on bond supplied by Horton, he related, he was taken by the bondsman and Kretske, then in private law practice, to a barber shop at 1062 Polk street.

The shop, he explained under examination by Prosecutor Martin Ward, was a hangout for gamblers and bootleggers. Chief hangeron, he testified, was Albert Yarrow, who was indicted for bootlegging but never convicted. The Yarrow case is one the government charges was fixed thru connivance of the defendants with the underworld.

Kretske was known at the place, Sebo said. Glasser, who was still in office at the time, drove by and was met by Yarrow for mysterious conferences a block or so down the street on several occasions, he testified.

Testifies of Fix Payments.

Another convicted bootlegger, Edward Dewes, told the jury of several alleged bribe payments. He testified that after his arrest in a raid in 1937 he attempted to deal with Horton and Kretske for a fix but that he was asked to pay too much. Later he was indicted. Then, Dewes testified, he borrowed $270 and paid it to Kretske to fix the case. The case was continued several times, he said.

[Records show that Dewes was convicted by Prosecutor Ward after Glasser had been relieved of bootleg case prosecutions.]

Dewes also told of paying $100 to Krestke in another alleged fix deal.

Dewes is a former state vehicle license inspector and served a short period as a Cook county constable.

James Roosevelt Answers Wife's Divorce Cross Bill

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—James Roosevelt, son of the President, filed answer today to his wife's cross complaint for divorce, thus placing the suit in position for trial. Roosevelt, a motion picture producer, sued Mrs. Betsey Cushing Roosevelt last Thursday, alleging desertion. She countered with a charge of desertion and cruelty. In his answer Roosevelt denied the charges in general terms. Milton H. Schwartz, his attorney, said he had not discussed with his client any arrangement for one party or the other to obtain the decree without contest.

BOWEN DEFENSE BLAMES PLAGUE ON DEAD WOMAN

Movements of Patient Traced at Trial.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

Defense witnesses took the stand yesterday in the trial of A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, and sought to trace to a woman patient the typhoid epidemic which cost 60 lives last year in the Manteno State hospital.

Bowen is on trial in the Kankakee county Circuit court in Kankakee on a charge of omission of duty as an outgrowth of the epidemic. The state said the typhoid came from four polluted wells at Manteno and that Bowen ignored public health department warnings that the wells were contaminated.

Harold Trapp and Hal M. Stone, defense attorneys, endeavored yesterday to show that Mary Ores of Chicago, a patient who died in the Manteno hospital Aug. 30, when the epidemic was at its peak, had brought the disease into the institution. Mrs. Ores formerly lived at 11753 Halsted street.

Spread of Disease Traced.

The attorneys offered in evidence a chart showing the seven wards and hospital rooms in which Mrs. Ores had been placed and sought to show that the first cases of typhoid appeared there.

The first defense witness was Mrs. Thelma Montgomery, supervising attendant at Manteno, who identified records in the case of Mrs. Ores and traced the patient's transfers to various wards in the hospital after her arrival June 12. She also testified to records showing that 26 inmates and employés stricken with typhoid were in the wards where Mrs. Ores was treated and might have had contact with her.

On cross-examination State's Attorney Samuel Shapiro asked whether hospital records showed that Mrs. Ores had typhoid.

Placed in Typhoid Ward.

"Well," Mrs. Montgomery replied, "she was taken to the typhoid ward and she was running a temperature."

"But do the records show she had typhoid?" Shapiro repeated.

"I didn't examine the records in that connection," Mrs. Montgomery said.

"Didn't Mrs. Ores drink the same water the others did?" Shapiro asked.

"No," Mrs. Montgomery answered. "She wouldn't eat or drink. I doubt that she drank any of the water."

"You don't mean that from June 12 to Aug. 30 Mrs. Ores drank no water at all?"

"I suppose she must have had some water," said the witness.

Water from Same Source.

"And if she drank water, she drank water from the Manteno supply, the same as the rest?" asked Shapiro.

"Yes," said Mrs. Montgomery.

On redirect examination the defense introduced a death certificate signed by Dr. M. F. Frank of Manteno showing that Mrs. Ores had died of typhoid.

Six other women employés testified they had attended Mrs. Ores. Two of them, Miss Lucille Rush and Miss Ruth Robinson, said they became ill of typhoid.

Bowen is expected to take the stand today. Another defense witness will be Dr. Lloyd Arnold, a member of the Chicago board of health and bacteriologist at the University of Illinois.

GARAGE RAMP CHANGE URGED IN BUILDING CODE

The city council committee on buildings recommended to the council yesterday that the building code provision on garages be amended to permit more liberal construction of ramps. Ald. Joseph S. Gillespie [29th] discovered several weeks ago that under the new building code an owner erecting a public garage along efficient lines would be forced to follow a patented type of garage design. The amendment recommended yesterday provides that the slope of ramps shall not exceed 20 per cent, or a one foot rise in five feet. Under the new code the slope for a normal rise is 12½ per cent and for a six foot rise 16⅔ per cent. The six foot rise could only be used where floor levels are stagggered, Gillespie said.

BUTCHER KNIFE BANDIT BEATEN BY HIS VICTIM

A bandit entered a fruit store at 1245 18th street last night, brandished a butcher knife and forced the clerk, Bernard Kinney, 1325 18th street, to hand over $35. When the bandit fled, Kinney and a customer, John Martinico, 931 South Aberdeen street, notified the Maxwell street police and then went out looking for him. They found him near an alley at 18th street and Blue Island avenue. When police arrived, Kinney and Martinico were pummeling the robber. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital where he identified himself as Steve Toman, 24 years old, 1903 May street.

PULQUE IS DIVINE TO PEON; VISITORS CALL IT DEVILISH

Mexican Beer Is Brewed from Cactus.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14 [By Mail]. —There are some 400 species of cacti in Mexico. But the important and imposing varieties are limited to about 35—all grouped under the general head of maguey. Of these 35, only six produce pulque fino.

Whether or not this pulque is "fino," and therefore fit for consumption, depends upon your individual taste. Some say yes; some say no. The peons down here insist it is divine; the tourists from across the border insist it is diabolical.

Used by Poorer Classes.

Much has been written about Mexico's fiery liquor, tequila. Not so much is known to the outsider about the rather insipid beer, pulque [pronounced pool-kay]. It has been called the national drink, but that description is scarcely accurate, inasmuch as the poorer classes living on the grand central plateau are about the only ones who drink it. It has had a long story. The Aztecs had a god of Pulque, and, even before that, the Toltecs knew the joys of imbibing and the sorrows of the morning after.

Just what is the drink, and how is it made? "Pancho" Scanlan, who knows his Mexico about as well as does any other American enthusiast for this country, has the answers.

"Pulque has always been looked upon with general disfavor and condemned as an evil habit," he says. "But there are thousands of intelligent and law abiding citizens who are convinced it is not harmful. More than one physician has pronounced it a real remedy for kidney trouble, nervous disorders, chronic and acute indigestion, biliousness, rickets, and half a dozen other ailments. At least one member of the medical profession claims it is the only recognized power to overcome permanently the ravages of Bright's disease."

Supplies Cheap Vitamin.

The main trouble, says Scanlan, lies in the Mexican diet on the grand central plateau. Something is needed to offset the high protein value of the basic foodstuffs—chili, corn, and beans. Pulque is rich in the vitamins and acids that corn and beans lack; it has a great amount of yeast, and it provides the necessary balance. So the peons, unable to afford more expensive fruits and vegetables, reach for pulque.

Maguey has many uses. It provides cordage, clothing, shelter, paper, fertilizer, medicine, food—and pulque. Even the worm that grows on the plant is fried and eaten. [At least, so we were assured the other night in one of those cafés that feature Mexican dishes. Our informant said the maguey worm is a rare delicacy. We didn't investigate further.]

When a plant begins to wither, mecuates, or shoots, spring up. They are out, placed in the sun for two or three weeks, and then replanted. It takes from eight to ten years for them to mature and start giving off the aguamiel, or honey water, from which the beer is made.

Juice Oozes Into Cavity.

At the proper time the heart of the plant is pierced by tlachiqueros, or pulque harvesters. Later the incision is scraped and enlarged with a kind of spoon until a cavity, about six inches deep, is formed. The honey water oozes into this cavity.

Twice a day the harvester extracts the aguamiel. He uses for this process an acocote, which is a long gourd looking like an oversized banana and punctured at both ends. He takes the extract to the tinacal, or fermenting room, where it is emptied into vats made from cattle skins.

Up until that time the pulque has been an inoffensive sweet smelling liquid, with a taste something like that of root beer. It doesn't get its vile taste and smell until after fermentation sets in.

In the center of one wall of the tinacal, and above a row of vats, there is usually a crude shrine in honor of some santo. The saint is encased in glass, with streamers of colored tissue paper hanging from it, and perhaps a few medals or holy pictures pinned to the streamers. The shrine is lighted by a candle or an improvised oil lamp.

Brewmaster Has Secret.

In one corner of the fermenting room is a department to which only the tinacalero, or brewmaster, has access. He makes the others believe that no one else has the secret for preparing the substances that are added when the honey water is placed in the vats. What he adds is—to this day—a matter of pure speculation. But, says Mr. Scanlan, even the brewmaster's most ardent admirers accuse him [when his back is turned] of tossing in everything from his grandfather's shirt tail to his mother-in-law's huaraches [leather slippers].

At any rate, the result, even in the raw, is accepted with fervor by the submerged tenth, and, we are told, it occasionally finds its way to the tables of the best people—but only after it has been highly flavored with pineapple, orange, banana, and strawberry juices to kill the taste [and the smell].

[Do you know that pulque is liquor divine?

CANADIAN MONEY IS CHEAP NOW, TOURISTS TOLD

MONTREAL, Feb. 20 [Special].—In an effort to make American tourists better acquainted with the prevailing rate of international exchange which makes their money worth considerably more in Canadian funds, the Montreal Tourist and Convention bureau launched a drive recently.

In a statement issued by its officials, it was said, "The bureau advises all incoming tourists that their United States dollars are each worth 110 cents in Canadian money. An American walking into any bank or hotel in Montreal with a $10 bill in his hand will be given 11 Canadian dollars for it."

Joining with the tourist bureau, local hotels, too, are doing their bit to spread this information in the United States. Stickers bearing this information are being affixed to all American correspondence.

The drive was decided upon after many Americans arriving here in recent weeks had expressed surprise at the information that their United States funds were worth 10 per cent more in Canada.

Chicago businessmen find the Wabash Blue Fleet convenient for trips to St. Louis. Southbound, they take the noontime Banner Blue, the late afternoon Blue Bird or the Midnight. The same fine service is available on the return trip, but many favor the Blue Bird, leaving St. Louis at 4:25 p. m. and arriving in Chicago in the early evening. Blue Fleet travel offers convenience, speed, safety, comfort.

TRAVEL TO CUBA, STAY A MONTH, SPEND ONLY $50

Couple Visit Places Off the Beaten Track.

By JOHN AND ELIZABETH TEMPEST

A month's travel in a foreign country for $50, inclusive of everything, even of transport to and from the United States!

Off the beaten track in Cuba offers a vacation of adventure, variety, and relaxation in country as yet unspoiled and unexploited.

Few Americans really know Cuba. By "knowing" Cuba we do not mean just the brilliant, sophisticated, and cosmopolitan Havana and surrounding country. For quaintness and quiet medieval charm, hybrid Havana cannot compare with Cienfuegos, Camaguey, and Santiago de Cuba. The real Cuba, the "foreign" and intriguing Cuba and, what is more important to a lot of people, inexpensive Cuba, lies far from Havana.

Passage for 50 Cents a Day.

We spent two days wandering around the quays in Miami, Fla., talking to skippers of freight boats looking for one that was going to Cuba and would give us our passage, say, for the price of our food. Eventually we came to an arrangement with the captain of a 5,000 ton Swedish boat—it was old and rusty, but perfectly clean inside—who agreed to take us for 50 cents a day and we were to make ourselves generally useful. This, we were later to discover, was to consist chiefly of listening to the captain reminiscing!

Early on the third morning of our voyage we picked up the pilot and moved slowly into a big inland waterway, past innumerable small islands glorious in the sunlight beneath an intensely blue tropical sky. We gleaned an impression of leaning palm trees and golden beaches frequented only by pelicans. On the mainland were ancient forts and here and there half a dozen native huts with a single tiny rail track to carry the sugar cane down to four-masted schooners.

From Puerto Tarafa, where we landed, to Nuevitas is only a few miles and having only a rucksack—the most convenient gear for a vacation like ours, with few plans and no schedules—we set off to walk it.

Off the Beaten Track.

Nuevitas we found was a pleasing off-the-beaten-track coastal town, delightfully free from tourists. We obtained clean and adequate rooms at one of the two local hotels for 75 cents each. In other towns of similar size, such as Trinidad and Manzanillo, clean accommodation in typical casas de huespedes rates from about 50 cents a day, and reasonable "all-in" terms can be made, especially by the week or longer.

From Nuevitas we decided to treat ourselves to a train to Camaguey. Train fares are reasonable and the trains themselves are fast, clean, and reliable, at least the newer ones are. We were particularly struck by our fellow-passengers; the bright colors of the girls' silk dresses and the Gilbert and Sullivan appearance of the several uniforms of marine and army officers created almost a musical comedy effect.

We spent several days in Camaguey. Accommodation is cheap and meals can be had from 10 cents upwards. Most memorable of all were the indescribably delicious tropical fruit drinks with wonderful names like bizcochillos, anoncillos, and ochatta-almendra, whipped up with milk, ice, and sugar. Camaguey is a most delightful and historically interesting place to wander 'round, especially the old quarters where it is possible to buy at absurdly low prices direct from the native craftsman, who can be seen working by hand in his own patio or home workshop.

By Bus on Main Highway.

From Camaguey we took a bus along the main national highway thru Sancti Spiritus and Santa Clara to Cienfuegos. Travel by bus is not only cheap but it also brings you into contact with yet another type of Cuban.

On the south coast it is difficult to pick and choose between the innumerable enchanting towns and villages: Cienfuegos, Trinidad, Manzanillo, and Santiago de Cuba, and in between many fishing villages where visitors will find an indifference to hurry and bustle that makes a perfect background for a vacation. The combination of sea and mountain scenery to be found for miles around Trinidad and Santiago, as wild and rugged as you could wish for, should satisfy even the most exacting.

A few miles outside some of the coast towns there are often playas or beaches which provide safe swimming in enclosed waters and a variety of sports, such as sailing, deep sea fishing, shooting, climbing, and walking can be enjoyed inexpensively.

After 10 days in Trinidad we sailed on another freighter for Boston. Our all-too-short month in Cuba had again strengthened our belief that the most stimulating and satisfying way to visit and understand a foreign country is to set off with few plans, no schedules, and to travel wherever chance or whim may lead, taking whatever comes your way of adventure and interest. This method of travel also has the cardinal advantage of being the cheapest!

ANIMATED MAGAZINE SET FOR 'PUBLICATION' IN WINTER PARK, FLA.

Winter Park, Fla., Feb. 20 [Special.]—Arrangements for the "publication" here next Sunday of the 13th annual Animated magazine have been completed. Dr. Hamilton Holt, founder of this unique spectacle, will preside over the outdoor "editorial office," where contributors appear in person to read their own manuscripts.

Approximately 10,000 are expected to gather in the temporary amphitheater erected on the Rollins college campus to listen to such eminent contributors as Dr. John H. Finley, editor emeritus of the New York Times; Carl Sandburg, poet and biographer; Owen D. Young; Cecil Roberts, British novelist-poet; Rex Beach, author, and many other notables.

REPLICA OF LOURDES SHRINE A MECCA FOR CALIFORNIA VISITORS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20 [Special].—One of southern California's major attractions for travelers this winter is a replica of the world famous shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. It was built last fall in Altadena, at the foot of Mount Lowe.

St. Elizabeth's church erected the replica in the hope of bringing to this region some of the benefits attributed to the original shrine in the town of Lourdes, France. More than 4,000 cures are claimed for the Lourdes grotto. Fred Snite Jr. of Chicago made a pilgrimage there last year in his iron lung.

The Altadena grotto is 25 feet high and was made of 135 tons of volcanic rock and 90 tons of cement. Deodar trees form the background. Spring water from the original shrine has been brought here.

Inside the grotto are two Carrara marble statues imported from Italy. One is of Our Lady of Lourdes, the Virgin; the other is of St. Bernadette, the little shepherdess who is said to have had a vision of the Virgin on 18 occasions more than 75 years ago.

SKI CHAMPIONS WILL COMPETE AT BANFF PARK

Snow in Banff National park is between 21 and 88 inches deep. The dominion championship downhill ski meet will be run on Mount Norquay at Banff during the national championship events, Feb. 29-March 3. The course starts above the timberline and drops 2,600 feet in a mile and three quarters. The course record was set in 1938 by Franz Machler of Germany, who covered the distance in 2 minutes 15 4-5 seconds.

A TANGLED SKEIN OF VIOLENCE AND DEATH UNFOLDED

Art Dealer Kills Self After Partner Is Bludgeoned.

New York, Feb. 20 [Special].—Two business men who bought the nation's most famous art auction gallery two and a half years ago on a shoestring, only to be indicted later in a $65,000 art sales fraud, were the key figures tonight in a mysterious chain of events which led to the suicide of one and the nearly fatal bludgeoning of the other. Under arrest as the assailant in the strange case was a barrel-chested newsstand owner of uncertain background.

John T. Geery, former secretary-treasurer of the American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, Inc., was dead by his own hand.

John [Red] Poggi, a brawny lower Broadway newsstand proprietor and a cousin of Louis [the Lump] Poggi, notorious killer of prohibition days, was in jail as Logan's attacker.

Meet Attorney in Restaurant.

The tangled skein of events began at 5 o'clock last night when Geery and Logan met their attorney, Herbert

Plaut, in a restaurant at 120 Broadway.

After discussing a motion to dismiss the indictment, Plaut left and the other two departed a few minutes later. Outside the restaurant they were hailed by a man who, Logan said, was a friend of Geery and whom Geery described as a friend of Logan. Police said the man was Poggi, whose newsstand is outside the restaurant.

The man offered to take them uptown in his car but said he didn't like to drive in the rain. Geery offered to take the wheel. Logan sat beside him and the man took the rear seat.

Two Accounts Conflict.

When they reached the East River drive, according to Logan's story, he was struck twice from behind with a piece of pipe. In the ensuing struggle, he said, the bludgeon was thrown out, and a door opened and he fell from the car as it sped on.

Geery's account of the attack was entirely different. He arrived soon afterward, his face splotched with blood, at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where his wife was waiting to dine with him in celebration of their 21st wedding anniversary.

"I was driving along the East River drive and suddenly heard Logan gasp," he was quoted as saying to police in reporting the case over the telephone. "I looked around and got an awful blow on the head. I saw Logan had been struck, too. I stopped the car and got out and ran. Then I hailed a cab and came to the Waldorf-Astoria."

Goes Home; Ends Life.

After dining at the hotel, the Geerys arrived at their Long Island home at 9:30 p. m. Geery went to the basement and shot himself.

Beside his body was a five page typewritten letter, apparently started last April 12 and added to at intervals. At the end was this penciled paragraph:

"This is the limit. I have lived in hell since May thru some one else's deception. Plaut knows all."

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Place a check mark in front of the best answer to each of the following problems. Then look for the correct answers on page 29.

1. Dr. E. B. Hurlock divided an arithmetic class into three sections, praising one group every day, scolding the second, and ignoring the third which, however, heard the praise and reproof of the first two groups. A fourth section in another room was used as a control. The average score of each group was 11 on the first day. At the end of a week the scores varied, being 11, 12, 14, and 20. See if you can write the proper score before each of the following:

........Scolded group.
........Ignored group.
........Praised group.
........Control group.

2. An attractive young woman came to see me last week, heartbroken because her husband had fallen in love with his secretary. The wife was very proud and very much in love with her husband. Do you suppose I advised her to ........Try to win his love back?

........Offer him a divorce?
........Have an affair with another man?
........Commit suicide?

3. If you were to adopt a baby, what would be the best procedure in regard to telling him of his being a foster child?

........Never tell him?
........Tell him at age 3 or 4?
........Wait till age 14?
........Wait till age 21?

4. If you want to keep your hands from trembling excessively when holding your speech notes or music, it is best to ........Drink a cup of strong coffee beforehand.

........Take an aspirin tablet.
........Pull gently in opposite directions on papers being held.
........Tell yourself not to get nervous.

FEDERAL AGENCY WOULD ABOLISH CUTOVER COUNTY

Madison, Wis., Feb. 20 [Special].—The abolishment of Forest county in far northern Wisconsin as a separate governmental unit and its operation by a federal bureau has been recommended by the United States department of agriculture, it was learned today.

The departmental bulletin was prepared by V. W. Johnson, James H. Marshall, and Sidney Henderson of the federal bureau of agricultural economics. It recommends that the United States forest service take over the cutover lands, relocate families now living in those areas, set up a rehabilitation plan for those remaining, and begin a reforestation program.

WRANGLE CAUSES MISTRIAL; WOMAN JUROR DISMISSED

TablePoundingDebate at Trial Told.

Details of Cook county's noisiest jury trial were disclosed yesterday when one of the 11 women on the jury was excused from further service as a juror in the group now hearing cases in the Superior court. The trial, an assault and battery case in which $10,000 in damages was sought, began a week ago. It was cut short Friday night when a mistrial was declared and the jury was discharged.

The juror excused was Mrs. Ernestine K. Siegelman, 49 years old, 907 Margate terrace. Bailiffs who were summoned to the jury room by screams and shrieks said they had to separate Mrs. Siegelman and another juror with whom she disagreed. Other jurors, interviewed yesterday, denied there had been any physical combat but admitted names had been called and tables had been pounded with unladylike fists.

Quarrel Basis of Suit.

The case was the suit of Robert Anderson, 4357 North Western avenue, against Mrs. Pearl A. Herman, operator of a rooming house at 4530 North Oakley avenue, and a roomer, Erwin Scheef. Anderson formerly lived at Mrs. Herman's. He charged that Scheef threw him out of the house Sept. 3, 1938, after he had a quarrel with Mrs. Herman. Anderson testified he had suffered a broken arm.

Testimony was completed Friday morning before Judge John P. McGoorty. The jurors retired and in half an hour stood 11 to 1 for a finding of guilty, with Mrs. Siegelman dissenting. At 5 p. m. she yielded and the question of damages was taken up.

Mrs. Siegelman thought $50 was sufficient. The others favored sums ranging from $500 to $3,000. The evening calm settled over the rest of the county building, but voices rose as the debate grew hotter in the jury room. The shouts could be heard in the adjacent city hall.

Bailiff Summons Judge.

Bailiff John MacLachlan and Deputy Bailiff Bess Hundley rushed into the jury room and attempted to soothe the combatants. Then they called Judge McGoorty, who declared a mistrial. A new trial will be necessary.

Mrs. Siegelman was surprised last night that her fellow jurors still were serving at other trials. "I thought we all had been excused," she said, "but I can't say I'm sorry. I thought the whole trial was ridiculous."

She said there was serious dissension among the jurors, but she didn't see any hair pulling.

"Certainly nobody pulled mine," she said.

All the women jurors agreed on one point: The conduct of the lone man in the jury box, Donald D. Dick, of La Grange. "Meek and mild," said Mrs. Siegelman. "Polite and considerate," said the others.

Emma Goldman Seriously Ill in Toronto After Stroke

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 20 (AP).—Emma Goldman, famous 70 year old radical lecturer and writer, is seriously ill in a hospital here. She suffered a stroke Saturday night at the home of friends. She has been in Canada since May. A Russian born philosophical anarchist, she was deported from the United States to Russia in 1919 after serving prison terms for opposing the world war draft and "urging revolution."

BLOOD ON THEIR HANDS.

The aldermen appointed to the superhighway committee of the city council had their great opportunity to be of service to the people of Chicago. A thousand lives are sacrificed every year for lack of a modern highway system through the city. Twenty thousand persons are maimed every year in automobile accidents. The growth of the city has been greatly retarded by the lack of adequate motor roads.

The committee had its chance to give this community a fair start toward a safe superhighway system. Instead, the committee played a cheap political trick. With only limited means at its disposal, the committee nevertheless gave its approval to a couple of hundred million dollars' worth of construction. Instead of singling out the one or at most two projects which might reasonably be undertaken in the near future, a blanket endorsement was given to a great network of roads which, under the most favorable of circumstances, will require a generation to complete. Instead of boldly making its choice, the committee reached a decision which will only serve to excite local jealousies.

The reason for this maneuver was not obscure to some who have devoted their time and thought for years to the traffic problems of Chicago. Mr. Charles Hayes, the president of the Chicago Motor club, put the matter bluntly when he accused the majority of the committee of conspiring to promote the Congress street scheme. This project is distinguished for the fact that it promises the minimum of advantages for the maximum of expenditure. It commends itself to a certain type of politician because it is essentially a real estate promotion. The aldermen appear to have concluded that if no other and more practical highway were recommended, the Congress street scheme could be put across. Even if the community as a whole failed to reap any such advantage as the huge expenditure would warrant, individuals would profit.

The committee's conduct was a model of bad management of important public affairs. Instead of proceeding intelligently, on the basis of careful studies of the flow of traffic and the costs of construction and maintenance, the members undertook to tell the engineers how and where to build. Routes were altered with a wave of the pencil, without consideration being given to increases in costs or inconvenience to motorists or property owners.

Alderman McDermott was the only member of the committee to oppose this stupid and wasteful procedure. He raised his voice against the building of depressed motor roads which would disrupt neighborhoods, add to the costs of highway construction and upkeep, and be unserviceable after heavy snows. With admirable common sense, he recommended the construction of elevated highways which, so far as possible, would parallel existing railroad embankments and would therefore add no new obstacles to movement about the city. He reminded his colleagues that the Chicago Plan commission had not been fully consulted and that the owners of property on scores of stub-end streets to be created by the committee's plan would suffer serious loss.

No heed was given to these considerations, weighty as they were. The committee knew what it wanted to do and did it, ruthlessly and hastily. The members have blood on their hands, the blood of the victims of future traffic accidents.

LAWS TO MAKE SLUMS.

The absurdity of Chicago's existing zoning regulations is demonstrated by Assessor Clark's statistics, recently released, on areas zoned for skyscraper apartment buildings. There are 34 square miles so zoned in Chicago, and if all the land were put to such use quarters would be provided for some 42,000,000 people, nearly a third of the population of the United States. At the rate at which building has gone on since the zoning ordinances were passed in 1922 it would be 2920 before all these structures would be built—some of them amid the stockpens of the Union stockyards.

The absurdity of the zoning regulations would be sufficient reason, in itself, for replacing them with a sane zoning code. But their ridiculous provisions have a destructive effect, to which the assessor calls attention, on the whole real estate plant of the city.

Castle in the sky zoning puts fictitious values on property, with the result that buying and selling of the properties approaches a standstill. It causes serious deterioration in property. Owners do not keep it in repair, either because they are fooled into thinking that it will be sold for apartment house sites and the existing buildings will be wrecked or because they fear that the erection of tall buildings on adjoining sites, cutting off light and air from their property, will destroy its value.

That is the economic process that creates blighted neighborhoods and, eventually, slums. Chicago has a serious enough problem in reclaiming the slums it already has. That it should make new ones by legislation, which got on the statute books thru a combination of public officials' ignorance and real estate speculators' avarice, is intolerable, but the zoning code is that kind of law.

The zoning code will continue to make blighted areas and slums as long as it remains in force as it is. It will continue to depress the real estate market, and by its failure to protect neighborhoods of detached dwellings from invasion by structures that destroy their attractiveness for single family residence, will be a major factor in driving thousands of the city's most energetic citizens to the suburbs.

AMERICA AND OTHER NEUTRALS.

When a British destroyer forced the German supply ship Altmark aground in Josing fjord, boarded it and took off the British sailors captured on merchantmen the violation of Norwegian neutrality was more than an offense to national dignity and sentiment. The act endangered Norwegian peace and security. The small neutrals are caught between powerful belligerents and they cannot hope to fight off invasions successfully.

Norway, for instance, has been warned by Germany, as have other small neutrals, that respect for its neutrality is conditional. Nazi regard for small nations is light enough in any case, but the British profess to be at war for the protection of such nations against aggression and destruction. The exploit of the Cossack brought the anger of Germany down on Norway. Such incidents can be used as justification for the seizure of a small country. The Nazis will say that if the British do not respect the neutrality of a small country Germany will not. That the Nazis are offenders of the worst type does not add to the Norwegian peace of mind or the durability of Norway's peace.

The raid was not ordered by a reckless British naval officer, but by the British government at the demand, no doubt, of Churchill, the head of the admiralty. If no one is to respect the rights of nations at peace the war will soon write its own revision of the alleged war aims. It will be a brutal one. Every one knows that it is the object of a blockade—of the British and French and of German alike—to win by starving the enemy. When it was said by some clergymen in England that it was not right to starve babies and that food should be allowed to go into Germany the Archbishop of Canterbury demurred. His sentiments would have come better from the relentless Mr. Churchill, whose business is to fight with everything the navy has.

In a conflict of such ruthlessness the small neutrals, whose right to peace should be supreme, are endangered by the violence of the belligerents to whom alleged necessity has become the highest law. It's the old story of powerful belligerents making sea laws as they please, treating small neutrals without regard for their supposed rights, and crowding powerful neutrals up to the extreme limit of patience and endurance.

The British occasionally attempt to soothe the injured feelings of the little fellows, but in handling the United States they remark that we should realize that they are fighting a desperate war for humanity against a ferocious enemy and that we should not impose technicalities and raise small objections. They tell us now, as they told us in the other world war, that they are treating America with all the consideration possible in such a great emergency and that they never do as the Germans do; they are never indifferent to human suffering and they never expose neutrals to danger or loss of life.

Protests against interference with mails, passengers, and cargoes supposedly protected by international law are swept aside as being unworthy complaints which would not be made by a great people standing aloof from a great struggle, the outcome of which must concern civilization everywhere. Thus far American experiences with Nazi tactics have been confined to the sinking of the Athenia at the very outset of the war and the taking of the City of Flint, which was restored to its owners by the Norwegian government. Therefore, the British sea control with its consequences has given America its principal controversies. The repealers of the embargo on war supplies had to enact the cash and carry provision of the neutrality law in order to pass their bill. That may keep us out of war. It is, at least, one of our best protections.

We are not protected by our neutrality law against the British assumption that we have no rights on the sea or in foreign trade which can stand against the rulings of their admiralty. We are not only back in the other world war but back in the Napoleonic wars with their commerce harrying. Chamberlain and Hitler are fighting each other at sea just as Pitt and Napoleon did and with as little scruple for neutral rights and neutral property.

American sentiment will and should be affected by the British interference with mails, passengers and cargoes such as takes place not only in remote waters but off our coast at Bermuda, one of the islands which should be American. Sentiment will be further affected by a diplomacy which intimates that we are derelict in duty and should at least have the moral grace to take what is handed to us and like it. And matters are not improved by the feeling that the American government again is merely shadow boxing when it makes its protests.

Editorial of the Day

FAIRY TALE OF THE TRENCHES.

[Richmond [Va.] News Leader.

The Germans are not really going to plant rose bushes along the west wall to cover the pill boxes, trenches and barbed wire. It was only a rumor, though a very lovely one at that.

It all grew out of a B. B. C. broadcast to the effect that some little Dutchman had sold 100,000 plants to the Nazis. He had not, as a matter of fact, but a foreign correspondent of the New York Daily News hastened to Limburg, where he found a twinkle in the eye of Mynheer Richard Van Loo, tulip raiser and practical joker.

It was his own idea, said Mr. Van Loo: "They might as well dig beds for roses as dig holes to stand in. It's more sensible." So there will not be any roses.

This depresses. The thought of flowers blooming in No Man's Land with the approach of spring is irresistible. Imagine talisman roses in the trenches and Paul Scarlettes climbing up the antiaircraft guns. The men would stop their checker games, turn off the propaganda broadcasts from home, and go out to tend the flowers in the sunlight. They would scratch around in the earth and feel pretty good about life. Perhaps the French and the Germans could compare notes on clipping and trimming and spraying and fertilizing the plants. Gardeners have always been a fraternal lot.

But no. It is too simple and too neat to be true. It's like a Walt Disney cartoon which makes one cry because the little animals are so sweet, and because the Canterbury bells can talk to the snapdragons. Men do not have the souls of an animated cartoon.

That does not mar the wisdom of fairy tales. Mickey Mouse could fix this war. So could Mynheer Van Loo.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MR. PEPYS AT THE PLAYHOUSE.

21st Feb.—Did go to see the Blackstone theater throw off its shroud and arise from the tomb after seven years, and found it roaring with laughter over a merry play called "Life with Father." This frolic among our ancestors of the 1880s is new, and much in the fashion, and yet it belongs to the glorious age of the drama, before authors began to wallow in ideologies and social significance and dirty stories.

And I did think, "If John Barrymore, in his rattletrap show, could please the populace for six months this play should run for as many years." All around me I did hear people declaring the father in the story was like their husband or their father, and others that the mother was the counterpart of their wife or their mother, and I did think this will become a favorite family joke or jeer.

But to me Father Day, with his shouts and oaths and complaints and handlebar mustache, was like nobody more than one George Wheeler Hinman, who used to be a newspaper editor here. I did remember that when Editor Hinman of the Inter Ocean spoke, the plaster fell off the walls, and when he sneezed, the water tower a mile away teetered on its foundations, and when he cursed, all the cockroaches in the building died as if poisoned by vitriol.

I did think Miss Gish, who acts the fluttering mother, as pretty as the painted picture of her that hangs, unknown to most, in the foyer of the Goodman theater, and that in her last act dress she was like a lace valentine. If any of the scriveners called criticks make sour faces at this play I will denounce them as false, for I did hear them laughing like all the rest.

MAGIC IN THE ICE.

The boys said, "It's dandy ice cutting weather;
Now Ed's home, let's do the job together."
Then they all fell into the old bobsled,
James and Willard, Arthur and Ed.
They cut the ice cakes from the old swimming hole,
Where the sycamore leaned with its ancient bole,
And the cubes they sawed were shot thru and thru
With June day suns when skies were blue,
Sealed in the ice cube's prism clear,
Where a rainbow bridge flings its dartling span
To lure the pixies from mortal man.
So the wondrous crop that they harvested—
James and Willard, Arthur and Ed—
Were the suns and stars and northern lights

S'Amuser.

In an 18th Century Drawing Room.

Crystal chandeliers, lit by waxen candles, scintillate upon a moving scene. Beauty and wit are here, and rustling crinolines, and gallant men in periwig and ruffle. The room designed by Adam throws into rich relief an animated, multicolored throng.

A heavy, shabby figure, incongruous with the rest yet dominating all, shuffles across the room to peer more closely at a picture newly hung. A portrait of Milady done by Reynolds. "I think the likeness excellent," says one. And from the ponderous man a brusque rejoinder— "Sir, you may think it excellent, but that does not make it so."

And then a general hum of conversation; of politics and places and the play. Of Ranelagh, Vauxhall, and the "Wells," with talk of Garrick at the Lane, and Mrs. Siddons; of Goldsmith's newest play. And how Peg Woffington's nose, poor dear, is out of joint since Garrick's fancy looked upon Kit Fisher. . . . And "Have you heard about old Fox at Almacks? He lost 2,000 guineas playing hazard." . . . And "Did you hear Burke's speech before the house? Conciliate America, b' gad!" The talk grows loud. . . .

A hush descends. Milady at the harpsichord. The audience sits mute, and candlelight plays hide and seek with soft revealing shadows. The music fills the air melodiously. "What is that pretty thing?" a dowager whispers. . . . "'Tis by Mozart! His Sonata in C Major." Shandy Gaff.

The Hill of Stout Hearted Men.

A Huguenot family by the name of Boncœur emigrated to New England about 1687. Eventually they became the Bunkers. If they had not changed the name, Bostonians would celebrate June 17 as the anniversary of the battle of Boncœur Hill.

G. WASHINGTON, BUSINESSMAN.

G. Washington was a businessman,
With a good, sound business head.
He thought about things he was going to do
And of everything that he said.

The word "ideology" never had dawned
Upon his political ken.
He strove to make this Republic safe
For American women and men.

He thought about people of other lands
As probable friends and as neighbors,
And never tried to boss their affairs
With threats and the rattle of sabers.

With more businessmen like G. Washington
And less panacea peddlers,
There would be small danger from alphabet doles
And slick international meddlers.

A Philosopher Asserts Himself.

Altho outwardly docile enough, I have inwardly fumed while waiting for the supercilious Cerberus at all the movies I've attended to tear my freshly purchased tickets in two and condescendingly bestow one of the halves on me. I have found these mutilated pasteboards in various pockets months, even years, later, but I have never found a practical use for them. However, I am again a free soul, having discovered that by the simple means of merely keeping moving after handing over my tickets, I am at one stroke relieved of the delay and the stubs, and also derive much grave amusement from ignoring the plaintive but futile pleading behind as I nonchalantly proceed into the inner darkness. BREATHE THRU THE NOSE.

AMERICAN Indian mothers insisted that their children should breathe thru their noses. For the most part, these little ones—living under "primitive conditions"—were healthy. They grew in stature and strength with but few digestive difficulties, and what we term "colds" were rare. Based upon his observations among the plains tribes, George Catlin, the famous Indian painter, wrote his famous little volume on hygiene, "Shut Your Mouth and Save Your Life."

Now, most of us take advantage of the air conditioning apparatus within the nasal passages. It is so designed that every particle of air that is taken into the lungs is warmed, moistened, and filtered. When we inspire, it immediately starts on an upward course, passing over the surface of the inferior turbinate bone, and bathing the top and bottom of the middle turbinate. Next it enters the pharynx, the tissues of which perform in much the same manner as those of the nose. Currents that are cool and dry take up moisture and heat while, at the same time, a goodly amount of dust is caught and retained. Another reason why we must use the nasal apparatus in this fashion is because the sinuses must be drained and we are obliged to depend upon the sucking action of the passing streams to force these spaces within the skull to disgorge their secretions.

Because of our frequent infections some one may remark: "Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could limit mankind to those portions of the earth where the weather is warm and where there are few shifts in temperature—and those not abrupt." Should we attempt to do so, not only would that particular part of the world be grossly overcrowded but the entire population would be likely to degenerate physically. Superior health is achieved by those who face rugged climatic conditions—assuming, of course, that they have learned to protect themselves against wet, chill, and extremes of temperature. As we all know, there is far more illness in those localities where both heat and humidity are excessive and where the air movements are sluggish. Almost every one feels better on a crisp, cool morning with the atmosphere cool and dry and enough breeze to keep it in motion.

What should be the normal contour of the structures within the nose? Well, this varies. As the external appendage is an individual characteristic, so its internal configuration fails to conform to a set standard. All that is necessary is to make certain we can properly modify each lungful of air. Out of door workers who use their nasal equipment industriously suffer far less than do the stay at homes. This means that a type of resistance has been developed which stands the farmer, for example, in good stead. The latter does not keep his house as warm as the office worker, who is all too often a sitter. In consequence, there is less of a sudden change for him when he comes in from the field and sits down to a meal. In fact, he may find an indoor reading of 70 to 72 degrees Fahrenheit exceedingly stuffy.

It is this lack of adaptability that is responsible for much of our trouble. There is no sound justification, therefore, in remaining all day in an office with the mercury at 72 or higher and then sleeping at night on a porch with the thermometer at 20 above zero. Such a plan will not harm those who are inured to it but it is not recommended as an occasional experience.

The purpose of this discussion then is to insist that the proboscis is a useful organ, one that nature intends shall function constantly. If obstruction is present—forcing one to become a mouth breather—all sorts of symptoms may ensue. The barriers against bacteria are absent. Dryness of the oral cavity—a place that should be kept moist constantly—is bound to invite trouble. Resistance of the tissues is lowered appreciably and diseases of the throat, tongue, gums, and teeth will be accentuated.

If the lower jaw insists upon dropping—why not join the ranks of those who have dedicated their energies to the prevention of snoring? Chin straps will be helpful and we will enhance good health by forcing the mucosa to do its duty.

PREGNANCY COMPLICATION.

Mrs. J. S. writes: What is toxemia or eclampsia which set in two days after childbirth? The young mother had convulsions.

REPLY.

Eclampsia is an unwelcome complication of pregnancy. The blood pressure may be high and the kidneys may fail to function properly. Convulsions occur occasionally. The exact inciting cause is unknown.

TEETH STRAIGHTENING.

A. K. writes: Is it possible to have two teeth straightened at the age of 18?

REPLY.

At this age good results are not achieved easily. If your dentist thinks a trial worth while—well and good. For cosmetic reasons, removel—followed by a bridge—may be considered.

MILK SUGAR IN COLITIS.

H. A. A. writes: Is milk sugar—plus the regular bland diet—helpful in colitis?

REPLY.

Yes, when additional nutriment is needed—that is, if you are underweight. If constipation is present at times [spastic colon] the preparation may be useful.

FIFTY YEARS IS A LONG TIME.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Sunday's letter of Controler E. L. Kohler, opining that TVA electric rates will repay all TVA costs in 50 years, makes one glaring assumption which your editorial [perhaps intentionally] ignored. He assumes that present types of hydro-electric generating construction will continue for 50 years to have any value—to be worth using at all. Admit that their mechanical efficiency does approach 100 per cent and that they seem today like a solid investment. So did the railroads 50 years ago—and now look at them! As railroad investment has been undermined by the explosion engine, so electric generating investment may yet be undermined by the appearance of a really good primary battery—not to mention atomic power.

It is contingencies like this which refute the claim that government can generate power more cheaply because it can borrow money at lower interest. In doing so, government is simply piling upon unconscious taxpayers instead of upon semiconscious bondholders the unknown risk of heavy losses by obsolescence. The reduction of bond interest, thru governmental guaranteeing, simply measures the investment market's best guess as to the danger of such technological catastrophes—as well as of political ones. HARRIS K. RANDALL.

MUSIC FOR SKATING.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—This is in answer to the letter from Henry S. Levin regarding skating to music. I have been providing music for ice and roller skating for the last five years. A visit to this and other parks in the Chicago Park district will show that 80 per cent of the park supervisors work on the same plan, without expense to any one. May I extend you an invitation to skate to music at this particular park during the summer as well as the winter?

MR. WELLES' MISSION.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—In my opinion President Roosevelt's sending of Sumner Welles to meddle in European affairs is just part of the plot for the nomination of Roosevelt for a third term.

The New Deal strategy is to try and keep the public mind upon the war, and try and make them forget the deplorable state of the nation after seven years of Roosevelt and New Deal experiments.

It will be very difficult to make the people forget a 45 billion debt, oppressive taxes and 10 million unemployed.

H. B. F.

A BOAST EXAMINED.

River Forest, Ill., Feb. 9.—One of the New Deal boasts was that they would iron out the peaks and valleys, so depressions could not happen, at least, not often. The plan must have worked in reverse. After seven years' effort the President is reported to have warned that drastic cuts in expenditures might cause another recession. Every nation got out of the depression long ago except the richest country in the world, and if we use any sense in spending a new recession will be piled on the others. Great work. E. W. C.

THE CENSUS.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 16.—I am a long way from Chicago but I still read the best paper in America, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and now I wonder if it will add to its many good services by publishing the government's list of census questions that will be asked. It will help us to know what questions the government has sanctioned, and keep us from being bullied by those census employés who want to exceed their duty and pry. One wonders why the government has not made public the list of questions before now if it wants to treat people right. Shall we get forms to fill out?

L. PRATT.

GEN. HALLER ON THE AIR.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Permit me to use this column to express my appreciation to the Mutual Broadcasting company, as well as to the management of Radio Station W-G-N for the courtesy extended to the representative of Poland, Gen. Joseph Haller. It is with such coöperation that we may proudly say "Poland is not lost."

JOHN J. JANKOWSKI.

WHIPPING BOYS.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—The police know and the judges know that the men arrested as bookmakers are merely sheet writers who write the bets. Sometimes they occupy even less important positions. The point is this: Why don't the police arrest the owners of the book, or at least the managers? Why make the poor dubs who get 3, 4, or 5 dollars a day stand for the pinches and the resultant publicity? If arrests must be made, why not arrest the principals? And if arrests must be made, why not arrest all employés instead of two or three? V. F. HINSON.

A GIFT TO FINLAND.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—If we Americans want to play the Good Samaritan must we require an I. O. U. to protect the penny a week that the Finnish war will cost us? Political loans are hostages to fortune. As an investment the project is harebrained; as a gift it makes sense. We have hung our clothes on the hickory limb and are edging into the water. Let us at least set a course that will save us from the undertow in case we get in deeper. LINCOLN EDMANDS.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

WIFE'S ESTATE.

Chicago, Feb. 15 [Legal Friend of the People].—Would you kindly inform me if I have any legal rights in this matter? I left my wife 10 years ago, but we were never legally separated. I have not contributed to her support since, as she was better able to support herself than I was. Since leaving her she has come into some property, etc., and she died last week without leaving a will. We have two sons alive, and one dead who left six children and a wife. A farm that my wife inherited from her mother is located in Wisconsin. I don't know what her assets are but would like to know how I can find out. G. H. D.

You would be an heir on the facts stated. We suggest that you try writing to the clerk of the Probate court of the county seat of the county in which she resided at the time of her death and see if the estate is being probated there.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ADOPTION.

Chicago, Feb. 15 [Legal Friend of the People].—My mother married a man when I was 7 years old and he has been going to adopt me ever since but has just neglected to do so. Last fall I became 21 and my stepfather decided that we shouldn't put off this matter any longer. Much to our surprise, we found that I couldn't be adopted in Illinois, as I was over 21.

My folks expect to move to Wisconsin by the next year or two and I would like to know if the Wisconsin law prohibits or allows adoption of people over 21 years of age. Is there any way that you know of that I can be adopted?

R. C. W.

In general, the results of adoption can be attained by other means. For example, the child can use the name of his choice and the persons who would adopt him can leave their property to him by will. In view of the fact that you have become of legal age, it would seem preferable to rely on such devices. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

How Our States Got Their Names

This state, like North Dakota, was named after the Dakota Indian tribe. The word "Dakota," historians say, meant "friends" or "allies." South Dakota was admitted to statehood on Nov. 2, 1889. South Dakota is called the Artesian, Blizzard, Coyote, and Sunshine state, and the Land of Plenty. There are many artesian wells in the state. The other nicknames explain themselves. The two Dakotas together are sometimes known as the Twin Sisters, according to Shankle in his book on state names. The state motto is "Under God the People Rule." The state song is "South Dakota," and the state flower the American pasque.

SUPERHIGHWAYS PLAN RAPPED ON EVE OF CITY VOTE

Call 207 Million System Congress St. Subterfuge.

BY HAL FOUST.

The city council this afternoon will vote on adoption of a 63 mile superhighway system estimated to cost $207,000,000. The system is more extensive than are intentions to build, according to the Chicago Motor club, and the total estimated cost is far greater than anticipated revenues for this purpose.

Cook county has planned to build a route 9.6 miles northwest from the central business district at an estimated cost of $40,000,000. Engineers have made a detailed study preliminary to the construction by the city of eight miles of superhighway in Congress street estimated to cost $36,000,000.

Object to Extensiveness.

Yesterday, letters and telegrams were addressed to Mayor Kelly and to aldermen by numerous civic groups objecting to the comprehensive system, as it has been called.

In addition to the two routes which have received detailed surveys, one by the county and one by the city, the city engineers have added 48.4 miles estimated to cost $131,000,000. It is charged that these additions were made solely to win favorable votes from aldermen so the city might proceed with the Congress street construction.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, made a further charge that the organized promotion of Congress street was also an influence in locating the northwest route, Cook county's single project. The county board approved a location paralleling Clybourn and Elston avenues for most of its distance. The express roadways would be depressed with some cross streets on viaducts and other cross streets dead ended.

"Residents of the northwest side," said Hayes in a letter to the council, "want an elevated highway on the Avondale route, paralleling the Chicago and North Western railroad. If this were to be built, it would effectively demonstrate the fallacy of the Congress street location and of its depressed design.

Leaves Streets Unblocked.

"The Avondale elevated highway would demonstrate the superiority of a location beside an existing railroad embankment. Such a location, calling for the elevated type of design, does not disrupt the present street pattern. The depressed roadways, such as proposed for all sections of the city, would create new barriers to pedestrian and vehicular use of the streets at normal grade.

"This same principle applies to all sections of the city as well as to the northwest side. Another branch of the North Western railroad, with an existing embankment, goes to the west side. On the south side is the Rock Island railroad embankment near Dearborn street. On the southwest side the Santa Fe shares a valley with the I. & M. canal that is a logical highway site.

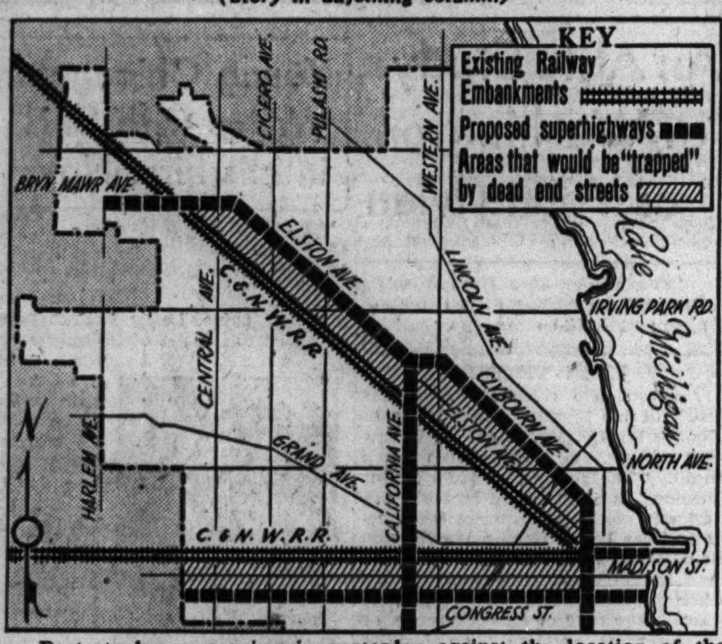
New York Needs Different.

"New York built a large portion of its superhighways near its many water fronts where the depressed design is appropriate. Lake Michigan is Chicago's lone natural barrier to travel. Along it we have the outer drives. Chicago, in addition, has existing man-made travel barriers, the railroad embankments, and these are the logical superhighway sites."

Others who said they were communicating with the mayor and the council, urging the Avondale superhighway, included the following: John H. Kerr, Norwood Park Citizens association; George Eckhoff, Norwood Park Chamber of Commerce; Otto Schulz, West Side Commercial league; Edward Greenstone, Milwaukee Avenue Chamber of Commerce; Melvin Nelson, Chicago Avenue Chamber of Commerce; Christman Minneci, Grand Avenue Business Men's association; Clarence Oakley, Near Northwest Side Community council; Richard Maske, Northwest Town Kiwanis club; Ralph Manno, Halsted and Milwaukee Business Men's association, and Harry G. Weimer, Logan Square Kiwanis club.

Why Superhighway Plan Is Assailed

(Story in adjoining column.)



Protests began pouring in yesterday against the location of the Congress street and the Elston-Clybourn avenues superhighway projects on which the city council will vote today. The express roadways would cause several streets to be dead ended. Residents are demanding an elevated highway system on other routes.

SUES TO UPSET NEW STATE ST. WIDENING PLAN

A suit was filed in federal court yesterday in behalf of Donald M. Campbell, owner of three buildings at State and Superior streets, seeking to enjoin the city from carrying out its present plans for widening State street between Kinzie and Division streets. Campbell's attorney, Howard F. Bishop, said the suit is backed by the North Central association, a group of property owners on the near north side.

The association wants the city to carry thru its plan of 1931, calling for an 88 foot roadway with 13½ foot sidewalks. The new plan would widen the present 38 foot street to 51 feet by cutting the sidewalks down to seven and a half feet in width.

The suit contends that when the new plan was adopted by the council last summer, the 1931 plan had not been repealed, and that it is still in effect.

THREE DRUNKEN MOTORISTS GET JAIL SENTENCES

Three motorists charged with driving while intoxicated were sentenced to 10 days each in the county jail yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Safety court.

Stanley Kasper, 46 years old, 3435 Wallace street, was in jail two days awaiting trial and will serve eight days more. On Sunday he drove his automobile into a car parked in front of 3807 Emerald avenue.

A bottle half full of whisky was found in the pocket of Conrad Talbert, 46, colored, of Barrington, when he rammed a parked car at 49th street and South Park way Jan. 25.

The third defendant sentenced was Fred Jones, 29, colored, 5522 South Park way, a WPA worker accused of driving on the wrong side of the street and colliding with another car at 54th street and South Park way Sunday.

CHARGES WIFE HE MARRIED IN '11 IS HIS FIRST COUSIN

Chicago Husband Asks for an Annulment.

On Sept. 5, 1911, Jane and Arthur Spencer eloped to Crown Point, Ind., and were married. For nearly 29 years they lived happily together in Chicago. Yesterday, however, they appeared before Judge Grover C. Niemeyer as principals in one of the most unusual annulment suits ever filed in Cook county.

Spencer, now 52 years old and living at 443 Wrightwood avenue, is seeking the annulment decree. He charges in his petition that he and his wife are first cousins. Under Illinois law marriage between first cousins is prohibited. Spencer asks the court to declare his marriage null and void, despite the fact that it has lasted nearly three decades.

Wife, 72, Fights Charges.

Mrs. Spencer, who is 72, has filed a formal answer to her husband's charges, in which she denies at the outset that she is his first cousin. A second paragraph, however, declares that, even if she is Spencer's first cousin, the court should not disturb the marriage, because he was an active participant in violating the state laws.

The hearing yesterday involved two supplemental petitions, one filed on behalf of Mrs. Spencer, who seeks temporary maintenance, and the other by her husband, who asks that the date for final hearing of the suit be advanced as rapidly as possible.

"There is a vital reason for hearing this suit as soon as possible," said Attorney Irving Eisenman, appearing for Spencer.

Cites Age of Witnesses.

"My client's suit depends entirely upon his ability to produce proof that he and Mrs. Spencer are first cousins. In their instance their fathers were brothers. And the only witnesses we can find to prove these facts are Mr. Spencer's mother, who is 90 years old, and another family relative who is over 80 years old.

"The uncertainties of old age may remove both these persons as witnesses and therefore leave Mr. Spencer without vital proof. We are also asking that any ruling on maintenance for Mrs. Spencer be reserved until the court determines whether the Spencers ever were legally married."

Judge Niemeyer agreed to both pleas, setting March 1 for a hearing on the original petition. He postponed a ruling on the maintenance order.

The fact that the Spencers were married in Indiana will have no bearing on the case, it was said. Both were Illinois residents at the time of the wedding. Due to the comity of states, Illinois laws control Illinois residents even in out of state marriages.

BERWYN LIMITS STREET CARS TO 10 MILES AN HOUR

Berwyn street cars are prohibited from moving more than 10 miles an hour under an ordinance passed last night by the suburb's city council. Violation of the ordinance is punishable by a fine of $25 to $200 for the Chicago and West Towns railway, operator of the street cars, and a fine of $5 to $100 for the motorman. The ordinance is believed to be designed to force the street car company to build new tracks in the suburb. The company agreed to do this a year ago, but has not done so yet.

NURSE IS KILLED BY CAB ON WAY TO SEE PATIENT

Miss Sophie Cannemeyer, 66 years old, 6733 Green street, a practical nurse, was killed last night when she was struck by a taxicab in front of 9850 Michigan avenue. She was on her way to a patient's home. John Wardzala, 10638 Indiana avenue, the driver, was held by Burnside police for an inquest today.

James P. Mooney, 58, 3559 Archer avenue, was injured fatally when he walked against a car in which Fred Koski, 46, was drawing to a stop in front of his home at 3251 South Wood street. Mooney, a street car conductor, died in the county hospital.

Struck by a hit and run driver at Lincoln and Montrose avenues, Walter Falk, 51, of 2150 Windsor avenue, suffered a fractured leg and other injuries. Falk, a salesman, was taken to Ravenswood hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 137 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 103 were killed in Chicago, where 3,008 were injured in the same period.

That Old American Custom—Hero Worship—Is Theme for Latest Novel by Pearl Buck

"Other Gods," by Pearl S. Buck. [John Day, $2.50.] Published today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Pearl S. Buck, Nobel prize winner in 1938, author of "The Good Earth" and other noble books about China, takes a peculiarly American phenomenon as the subject of her latest novel. It is the phenomenon of the national hero, at once the public's god and its slave, created by mob psychology but kept an idol only by a clever press agent's unerring knowledge of that psychology.

However often heroes are made and destroyed in other countries, here the process is as eternal a sequence as sun and moon, the rotating seasons, nature's perpetual mutations. In our sentimental land some one is always being worshiped. There are also, ironically, immutable laws in the waxing and waning of their popularity.

Pearl Buck has made a synthesis of popular American heroes, a gesture from this one, an attitude from that, a background from another, a wife's background from another. Her hero has taken the fancy of his countrymen by climbing a mountain in the Himalayas, dashing to the top alone after the members of an English expedition have had to turn back because one of their number became helpless with pneumonia.

The cause of her hero's fantastic popularity may seem a trifle farfetched. Americans have not usually gone so utterly mad over an exploit of mountain climbing. But a nation that can get excited over champion gold fish swallowers might lose its head and its heart over anything. At any rate, "Other Gods" is a keen and subtle study of American psychology, satiric only in its implications and not at all in its writing. It is tragic rather than comic, in fact, for it is really the story of the incessant insinuation of publicity into a sensitive woman's vital privacy.

After you have read "Other Gods" you will know what horror can be at the core of the seemingly golden apple of the public's adulation. You will understand how idols are not only originally fashioned but refashioned by the public.

Incidentally, the most interesting character in the book is not the mountain climbing hero, Bert, nor his sensitive wife, nor her slightly skittish sister, nor her parents who administer their lives with kindliness and dignity and common sense, nor Bert's unsensitive, publicity loving mother and his honest, farm grubbing father. The most interesting character is the public relations counsel, Brame, whose diagnosing finger on the pulse of American sentiment is as sure and as scientific as any doctor's on a jumpy patient's.

In almost any one else's hands this tale of idolatry of Bert Holm, of his floundering idleness, of the buildup for his second expedition, of the expedition itself, might have been made into pure satire. Pearl Buck treats it with the utmost seriousness and writes a distinguished novel in markedly beautiful prose.

A Fictionized Aerial Epic

"An Old Captivity," by Nevil Shute. [Morrow, $2.50.] Published today. March choice of the Literary Guild.

The author of "Ordeal" and "Kindling," both popular tales, will probably top their popularity with "An Old Captivity," a story of an airplane trek into the wilds of Greenland to gather proof of an Oxford Don's theory that Celts as well as Vikings went to Greenland and settled there.

Captivity there is here for many types of readers, for in this tale are interwoven: the thrilling record, highly detailed, of an air expedition, from the moment of its contemplation, thru the intricate minutiæ of its planning, to the actual flight with enough narrow squeaks to make readers' spines chill; a record of the peculiar integrity and courage of the pilot to whom fate gave almost too great a load; a mysterious dream linking the mythical past and the present fantastic reality with a dash of Eskimo superstition to add to the mystery; and a love story. Readers pay their money [gladly] and take their choice. All of the threads are brightly colored and skilfully woven into tenseness.

To this reader the most fascinating part is the record of the infinitude of details which Donald Ross gathered into his capable hands, to make the web of safety for the expedition—a fragile thing at best, perhaps to be destroyed by a whiff from fate, but in its gossamer strength, the best that man's care could make. We have read classics about flying—Anne Morrow Lindbergh's and Antoine de St. Exupery's beautiful spiritual records—and there have been excellent technical records of the mechanics of planes and their operation, but here for the first time in a popular novel has the individual pilot's technical task of preparation and his spiritual responsibility toward it been fictionized.

The pilot's drugged dream of the past, it seems to me, is much less convincingly done and the love story is merely stated, not lived, in these pages. The adventure itself is an epic of daring and of menace.

"Windless Cabins," by Mark Van Doren. [Holt, $2.50.] Published yesterday.

This second novel by Mark Van Doren, whose "Shakespeare" was one of the important nonfiction books of last year, is primarily a love story. But it is one with a macabre tinge.

It concerns a young helper in an auto camp in the town of Windless who unintentionally commits murder, buries his victim, eludes detection, is harassed by fear of discovery, and finally shares his secret with the young girl he loves. With her he escapes his own fear and releases her from her psychological traps.

Madness tinges the life of the girl—her father, a suicide; her aunt so strange that all her friends fear to visit the house. Hatred of his brother is like a burr in the boy's spirit, and his father's possessive invalidism and his mother's prying are added rasps.

Mr. Van Doren has written in such exquisite prose this tale of warped, twisted, psychologies that even the horrors have a gentle quality.

Interesting Study Shows Chicago's Library in Action

"A Metropolitan Library in Action," by Carleton Bruns Joeckel and Leon Carnovsky. [University of Chicago Press, $3.]

In this brilliantly minute survey of the work of the Chicago public library there has emerged a book which may well take its place as a textbook in public library administration, for there has been to date no general textbook in that field. It was not written as a textbook, however, but as a scientific survey—data gathered and collated. Whenever recommendations were feasible, they were included.

You as a beneficiary of the Chicago public library will be especially interested in the parts which tell how variously and how intimately the library serves you. You'll be surprised at some of the help you have missed using. You'll be proud of Chicago's incomparable services.

Mr. Joeckel and Mr. Carnovsky are professors of library science in the University of Chicago's graduate library school. F. B.

Important New Books

Story of the Wabash River.

"The Wabash," by William E. Wilson. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.]

An interesting new addition to the Rivers of America series is this book on the Wabash, which begins by describing a warm summer evening in one of the typical little towns along its banks, an evening when all the family, at moonrise, goes down "to take a look at the river."

Then, from the time of the mysterious Mound Builders, men whose origin is shrouded in the mists of antiquity, but who were definitely not Indians, the history of the meandering stream is traced to the present day, when the fertile midwestern valley with its farms, cattle, and produce totals a value of 2 billion dollars. High lights of the book are the chapters on La Salle and the coureurs de bois, French fur traders who lived with the Indians and "went native"; on the fall of Vincennes to George Rogers Clark, who took it without firing a shot and kept it by stationing only two of his men there.

Mr. Wilson also writes interestingly of the youthful Lincoln and his life in Indiana from 1816 to 1830, which he calls Lincoln's "formative years." The book ends with a chapter on "A Bumper Crop of Writers" and with a eulogy to the Wabash. E. W.

Two Items of Americana.

"Body, Boots, and Britches," by Harold W. Thompson. [Lippincott, $3.50.]

"Cherokee Cavaliers," by Edward Everett Dale and Gaston Litton. [University of Oklahoma Press, $3.]

In "Body, Boots, and Britches" Thompson adds his own charming wit to the natural humor of the early New York staters whom he portrays and produces a volume that has not only a vast historical interest but also an even more widespread entertainment appeal. Tall stories of the Paul Bunyan school, yarns about the early Robin Hoods of New York, chanties and tales of Capt. Kidd, and tidbits of mountaineer philosophy are the stuff of which his book is made. It is a fine collection of Americana.

"Cherokee Cavaliers" is a no less valuable contribution to the field of Americana, altho in a more restricted field. The correspondence of the Ridge-Watie-Boudinot Indian family—young, old, and in-between—is compiled and carefully edited into a sometimes cumbersome but more often fascinating chronicle of those important years in the history of the Cherokee nation at the time of the civil war. Maurice Hindus' New Novel.

"Sons and Fathers," by Maurice Hindus. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.50.]

Just as Maurice Hindus reverses the title of Turgenev's "Fathers and Sons" so he reverses the traditional rôles of the two generations in his novel, "Sons and Fathers."

Kolya Mitosa, a young medical student and intellectual, is the son of Nicolai Mitosa, bolshevik leader. Kolya loves Irina, the daughter of a czarist colonel. Their story concerns the inability of the humanitarian son to compromise with the impersonal cruelty of his fanatical father. Characteristic of Mr. Hindus' talent is the brief glimpse of a Petrograd brothel with its banter and near hysteria. Here he makes the tragedy of the revolution seem real.

Authors and Their Work

Nevil Shute's vocation is designing and building airplanes. In 1924 he went to work for the airship company that was building the British dirigible, R-100. When the chief engineer died he supervised the completion of the ship and flew to Canada and back on its test flight. He was thus one of the pioneers of trans-Atlantic flying. When the R-101 met disaster, the R-100 was scrapped and airship building in England came to an end. Mr. Shute started his own airplane company, but resigned less than two years ago to devote himself to writing and to sailing, which is his hobby. Since September he has been doing important government work in London. His new novel is "An Old Captivity."

Edna Lee Booker, author of "News Is My Job: A Correspondent in War-Torn China" [Macmillan, $3], was given the Chinese name of Bo Ai-li, which means "Precious Love Lotus," a slightly exotic title for a newspaper woman.

Between now and June 30 some unknown author will be paving the way to fame by completing the prize winning manuscript in a contest for a first novel in the great romantic tradition. The contest is being sponsored by the J. B. Lippincott company of Philadelphia and Hodder & Stoughton of London. The first prize will be $2,500, plus a travel award and a guaranteed income of $2,500 a year for four years.

F. E. Sillanpaa, Finland's Nobel prize novelist and author of "Meek Heritage" [Knopf, $2.50], is reported to be in Stockholm. His son is in the Finnish army and to him Sillanpaa has dedicated the new marching song he has just written.

An Able Study of Washington as Young Man

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

Appropriately released during the week of his birthday, this study of George Washington is unique in several aspects, and well worth reading in all. "The Young Man from Mount Vernon" is a fictionized account, historically accurate in almost every detail of the life of George Washington as a young man during the French and Indian wars. Wherever the author deviates from the record, to change the date of an occurrence, or to interpret creatively an obscure point, the reader is informed by an ingenious device in the narrative.

Here is not the austere Washington of textbook and picture, always sure, always right, always heroic, but the young man who had his weaknesses, who made his mistakes, and who, in romance, could yield to temptation. But the result, as it is in Rupert

In these pages are the formative years when Washington was being molded on the battle forge to assume his destiny of the revolutionary years. The narrative is told by Washington and by those men and women who knew him intimately, the emphasis thus shifting from subjective to objective viewpoint.

Thruout the evolving thread of character in his duties as surveyor, planter, and soldier is entwined the powerful love he bore for the wife of his best friend. Pier's treatment of his relations with Sally Fairfax and his oddly practical courtship of Martha Custis is most plausible.

Both on his plantation, in public life, and as a soldier Washington emerges here as a man who always tempered justice with mercy, who was resolute, fearless, and keen minded; who saw and adhered to first principles. But beyond his selfless patriotism he is here portrayed as a man in every sense of the word,

Early Growth of Illinois

"The Years of Growth," by Harold Sinclair. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.75.] Published last Friday.

From colonial America the scene shifts in "The Years of Growth" to the time of another great American whose birthday has just been observed. This is the time of Lincoln, altho he does not appear as a central character in this historical novel.

Instead, the growth of Everton, a small Illinois community, and that of the entire state appear for us thru the eyes of many typical characters of the era, principally John Ransom and his son, Blair. They lived thru the bitter first years of the civil war and were part of the fast changing rugged times, when the growth of Illinois was unbelievably swift and exciting.

Young Chicagoan Writes with Skill in His First Novel

"No Birds Sing," by Leslie Edgley. [Farrar & Rinehart, $2.50.] Published Monday. A selection of the Discoverers.

A new name, Leslie Edgley, must be added to the list of Chicago novelists. In his first novel, with an Indiana steel town as background, he writes vigorously, honestly, and with a deep understanding of his characters.

Leslie Edgley.

His hero in "No Birds Sing" is a young man, just back from two years' escape from the complacency of the steel town bank in which he had worked. New York had proved untenable and he had gone to fight in Spain.

The heroine is a Lithuanian girl. The essential foreignness of her family life is very well done. The author skilfully shows them at the same time a part of and apart from the life of the community.

"No Birds Sing" is primarily a love story. It is heavy with the tragedy of the denial of love's natural flowering, marriage, because it costs money to have a wife and a home and the hero couldn't find any job from which to wrest that money. But it is also light with the happiness of love—like a marble cake, the black and the white mingled, but distinctly separated. And the simile of the cake holds beyond that, for the book is, despite its ending, despite the privations of its characters, despite the tragedies in their lives, somehow sweet. F. B.

'Life with Father' Out in Book Same Day as Chicago Play Opening

The deliciously funny play, "Life with Father" [Knopf, $2.50], which Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse made from the deliciously funny books by Clarence Day Jr. about his crochety, bullying, but somehow tender father, was published on the same day as the Chicago opening, last Monday, an evening, incidentally, which ushered in a certain era of joy for Chicago playgoers, for the play is, as were the books, classic in its own right. Brooks Atkinson writes an introduction in which he says "People will remember 'Life with Father' with amusement and gratitude all their lives."

Two People You'll Remember...

THE Wabash

by WILLIAM E. WILSON

● The story of the Wabash is the story of people of imagination and daring—of La Salle in search of a waterway to China, of George Rogers Clark and his desperate band of wilderness fighters, of Tecumseh leading his people proudly in a last stand against the invading whites, of George Rapp and the pious Germans of Harmony, of Robert Owen's "free and equal society", and of young Abe Lincoln who lived in the Wabash country with his family for fourteen years. Down to the present the story is carried—the story of a rich land, an independent and exuberant people, and a wide-flowing river. The author is Hoosier born and bred. 339 pages, superbly illustrated by John de Martelly, and with a bibliography. $2.50

"Capitalism the Creator," by Carl Snyder. [Macmillan, $3.75.] Published yesterday.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

How the growth and concentration of capital has made possible the remarkable economic development in the United States and other industrial nations in the last 150 years is told by a former chief of statistics and research of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Carl Snyder, the author of "Capitalism the Creator," sets forth statistical data to prove his thesis that it is solely by accumulation of capital that the modern industrial countries have arisen.

Countries have risen to affluence and culture as the increase and concentration of capital has permitted a highly organized system of production and exchange. The economic development, the author seeks to show, has been directly proportional to the rate of capital growth and the degree of its concentration.

The rise in the wages of labor in the last 150 years has also been the result of the increase in the capital invested in industry. The larger capital investment, bringing an addition to the value of the output, has made possible the higher wages, the author says.

The individuals who possess unusual ability to accumulate and control capital, instead of being enemies of the common good, as frequently portrayed, have been of peculiar use to society, Mr. Snyder says.

The income of the rich that is used by them for actual "consumption" is of little importance, he says, because all the rest of income is turned back into industry for the development of the country, which contributes to the advance in the general standard of living.

In recent years, Mr. Snyder points out, the accumulation of capital has been largely the work of the big corporations which now carry on 80 to 90 per cent of the industry activity of the country. It is the corporations, rather than individuals, he says, that are carrying on the research activities that will bring on the creation of new industries and the spread of benefits that otherwise would be impossible.

The periods of depression, during which the capitalistic system has been the target of criticism and abuse from the uninformed, have been preceded in every instance by a period of overexpansion in bank credit. It is the author's contention that if existing controls in the hands of the banking authorities are used to prevent a repetition of unsound credit expansions the principal problem of capitalism will be solved. It is only recently, he claims, that economic knowledge has reached a point that makes possible the use of such controls.

A Fine Interpretive Biography Depicts James Joyce, the Man

"James Joyce," by Herbert Gorman. [Farrar & Rinehart, $3.50.] Published last Thursday.

This biography of James Joyce performs the inestimable service of documenting and interpreting the man. There have been many books and thousands of critical articles about the author of "A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man," "Ulysses," and "Finnegans Wake," three books which have been like pebbles dropped into the literary lake whose circles of influence have spread to perimeters that even the most knowing may not yet guess at.

"Ulysses" has been accepted as the most original creative work of the generation. From it stemmed the whole modern stream of consciousness school of writing. "Finnegans Wake" is too recent, and its method too radical, for us to know yet what difference it will make in English literature, for it creates not only new thought patterns but new patterns of language. There is so much to write about James Joyce, the artist, and James Joyce himself has recorded so minutely his own thoughts in his highly autobiographical fiction that no one before has taken the trouble to do the detailed factual record of his life.

Herbert Gorman's "James Joyce" is not a critical biography, nor is it one of those psychological life stories in which the author takes his hero apart to see how and why he ticks. Mr. Gorman tells us all the facts illumined by Joyce's correspondence that he has been able to gather about the most mysterious and, many think, the most heroic literary figure of our day.

One of those facts, which few of us knew, will be especially interesting to Chicagoans. The late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick for many months provided Joyce with an income in Zurich and then mysteriously withdrew her support when Joyce sent her part of the manuscript of "Ulysses" as a gift of gratitude. Why she did not continue her help and share honors as patroness with Miss Weaver in the history of literature is, Mr. Gorman says, an unexplained and unexplainable mystery—as unexplained as why Mr. Gorman omits her name from his index.

This biography is the story of a man whose life, as Mr. Gorman points out, "was a constant struggle against horrific odds, prejudices, mob smugness, poverty, and physical disability," a man almost never out of physical pain, practically blind for most of his days, trying to support his wife and children by teaching English to foreigners for a pittance, but never wavering in his creative ideals—a courageous man, a great man. No reader will have difficulty understanding this "James Joyce" and this biography will make his esoteric work infinitely more comprehensible.

Scandinavia's Neutrality and Its Explanation

BY GILBERT TWISS.

Scandinavia—Sweden, Norway, and Denmark—together with Finland, which won its independence from Russia, and Iceland, which was granted independent status by Denmark after the world war, compose the five countries of the new north.

The Scandinavian conception, Miss Olson says, is "of a state evolving out of law and order. Given that conception, national sovereignty as such can never become a menace, and love of country is only an incentive to exuberant endeavor."

Their common bond is their idea for "union and neutrality—in other words a design for civilization and decency." Their guiding principle is the seeking of "a center of gravity in union as a peace time cultural endeavor."

Their idea of neutrality is of "a continuing and inviolate principle, whatever the crisis" and the new north's basic rule has been the freedom of action of each of the five.

Miss Olson's book has evidences of being rushed into print on the crest of the present interest in the northern countries, but it can easily be a handbook for those who seek to learn of the background which motivates the present policies of the northern countries. The book amply supplies that background.

Miss Olson devotes a separate chapter to each of the five countries and others to their group actions. She traces the larger movements of their separate histories; tells of their great men of history and their great men of today; gives short descriptions of their lands, and tells of their sagas and economic accomplishments.

Particular attention is paid to an exposition of the national character of the people of each of the lands and the common beliefs which cause them to choose a course of neutrality within a group of small nations, resisting the power politics of the great powers.

"Old loyalties persist, and the strength of the new north can be gauged largely by the way it respects the differences that are basic in each of the five national patterns," Miss Olson writes. "Group allegiance is too deep rooted to be altered by force or swayed by persuasion."

Scandinavia's present policy of giving great material aid to Finland, but refusal to give direct military assistance, is the result of the "permanent neutrality policy" of the new north, but its roots are found in the character of the peoples and their traditions of centuries, the author explains.

In the chapter on Finland Miss Olson tells of its struggle to achieve freedom and a language of its own, of its great composer, Jean Sibelius, and its great writer, F. E. Sillanpää, and how its great athletes like Nurmi have played a great part in the forming of a national character.

ALFRED · A · KNOPF · PUBLISHER · N · Y ·

TODAY she is the most talked-about woman in all America!

WHEREVER smart conversation is the vogue you will find people talking about KITTY FOYLE. And it was Kitty who started all the talk! The book is a conversation piece of a girl talking to herself—a vivid girl with a gift for salty expression and an extraordinary capacity for experience. KITTY FOYLE is the intimate confession of a woman to her mirror—one of those women who were children in the 1920's and girls in the 1930's, and who have known a special kind of joy and trouble.

It is incredible that such a confession should find its way into print. But when the incredible happens, it is no surprise that Christopher Morley has a hand in it. With what understanding this man has invaded a woman's world is indicated by the letters pouring in. Writes a prominent woman: "It's a joy to be able to say, without qualifications or reservations, that I have thoroughly enjoyed the book . . . but damn a man who knows so much about women!"

The nation's leading critics agree with the general American reading public. Says Margaret Wallace in The New York Times: "Something on almost every page clamors for quotation. 'Kitty Foyle' seems destined to be the most-read-aloud book of the current season." Dorothy Randall writes as follows in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph: "A woman will love it . . . because she will go hand in hand with Kitty through many of her experiences. A man will enjoy it because he will discover a number of things about feminine psychology he probably only dimly suspected. Don't miss it!" "So perfect his portrayal and tender his understanding," says the New York Herald Tribune, "that to call it his (Christopher Morley's) book is to reduce its magnificent stature. It is Kitty Foyle's book, as he intended."

The upshot of all this talk is simply: If you want to undergo one of the most delightful, yet poignant reading experiences of our time, read KITTY FOYLE, The Natural History of a Woman.

W-G-N TO STAR LILLIAN GISH IN SUNDAY DRAMA

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Lillian Gish, one of the brightest stars of the silent movie era and now a stage headliner, and Percy Waram, distinguished veteran of the theater, will be featured in a radio adaptation of Richard Brinsley Sheridan's classic comedy, "The School for Scandal," on the Fifth Row Center production over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 5 p. m. Sunday.

The show will be presented before a studio audience. The musical setting will be provided by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra. Miss Gish and Mr. Waram are appearing in Clarence Day's comedy, "Life with Father," in the Blackstone theater.

Cast as Lady Teazle.

In "The School for Scandal" Miss Gish will portray the rôle of the mischievous Lady Teazle and Waram will play that of her blundering husband, Sir Peter Teazle.

When she steps before the W-G-N microphone Miss Gish will be following in the footsteps of her sister, Dorothy. Dorothy came from New York three years ago to play the leading rôle in the serial, "The Couple Next Door," on W-G-N. Harold Vermilyea was co-featured with her.

Lillian Gish established herself as a theatrical performer in those trail blazing movie epics "The Birth of a Nation," "Orphans of the Storm," and "Intolerance."

Stage Work Follows Movies.

Since her retirement from pictures she has proved her versatility as an actress in "Hamlet" with John Gielgud, Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya," and Maxwell Anderson's "The Star Wagon" with Burgess Meredith, in which she last appeared in Chicago.

English born Percy Waram's most recent notable rôle was that of the stern father in "Pride and Prejudice." He has distinguished himself in numerous Theater Guild productions, including "R. U. R," "Elizabeth the Queen," and "Mary of Scotland."

OBITUARIES

Warren L. Ingraham.

Warren L. Ingraham, a native of Chicago and a banker in the South Chicago district for years, died yesterday in his home at 2739 East 80th street. Mr. Ingraham, who was 56 years old, had been ill for more than a year. He was associated with his late father, Abijah C. Ingraham, in the Commercial Savings Bank of South Chicago, but retired from business 20 years ago. Mr. Ingraham is survived by his widow, Kathryn; a daughter, Phyllis, and a son, Warren. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Friday at the chapel, 2700 East 75th street.

Sam W. Sincere.

Sam W. Sincere, former Danville hotel operator and a resident of Chicago and Danville for 50 years, died yesterday in Milwaukee. He had lived there for the last five years with his son, Jack. Mr. Sincere was 78 years old. He was a brother of the late Charles and Harry Sincere, Chicago brokers, and of Benjamin E. Sincere, present head of the brokerage house of Sincere & Co. He also leaves another brother, Frank E. Sincere, and two sisters, Mrs. H. J. Wurzburg and Mrs. Albert Herz, all of Chicago. The funeral will be held in Milwaukee Friday at 1:30 p. m.

George W. Deegan.

Funeral services for George W. Deegan, who died Monday of a heart ailment in St. Joseph's hospital, will be held Friday from St. Thomas of Canterbury's church to All Saints cemetery. Deegan, who was 52 years old, at one time was general manager of the Kingsbury Breweries company, and later was chairman of the Patrick Henry Brewing company. He is survived by his widow, Ann, and a daughter, Mrs. T. J. Leonard. He lived at 5048 Marine drive.

L. Harry Freeman.

L. Harry Freeman, a member of the Board of Trade for the last 46 years, died in New York City Monday. He was 71 years old. He entered the local exchange with the old firm of Boyd, Lunham & Co., and later became a partner in the grain house of Rumsey & Co. Altho he moved to New York nine years ago, Freeman retained his membership in the Board of Trade. He is survived by his widow, Jessica, and a daughter, Mrs. Florence Freeman Bixler.

Mrs. Nell Hayes Houser.

Mrs. Nell Hayes Houser, widow of Edward W. Houser, president of an engraving concern, died yesterday in her rooms at the Georgian hotel, 422 Davis street, Evanston. Mrs. Houser, who was 70 years old, had been in ill health for several years. Three sisters, Mrs. John J. Jacobson, Mrs. Dow Guthrie, and Mrs. L. R. Kelly, survive. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue.

Mrs. Mary Healy.

Mrs. Mary Healy, a resident of the Woodlawn district for 45 years, died yesterday at the age of 80 in her home at 6433 Drexel avenue. Surviving are her husband, Jerry; two daughters, Mrs. Fred A. English and Mrs. Frank H. Walker; and five sons, Jerome, John, Raymond, Homer, and Vincent. Funeral services will be at 9 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 7705 Cottage Grove avenue to Holy Cross church.

Dr. John Akester.

Chicago friends were informed yesterday of the death of Dr. John Akester, an employé of the Chicago board of health for 20 years, who died last Wednesday in his home at Hardinsburg, Ind. He was injured in a fall at the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital on Feb. 19, 1938. He was 73 years old.

N. A. GREVSTAD, NORWEGIAN NEWS EXECUTIVE, DIES

Former Minister to Uruguay, Paraguay.

Nicolay A. Grevstad, managing editor of Skandinaven, largest Norwegian language newspaper in the United States, died early yesterday in his home at 1531 Touhy avenue. He was 88 years old, but vigorous and active in the management of his paper until his death.

He remained late at the office of his paper Monday night, writing editorials. He arose at 7 a. m. yesterday, breakfasted with his wife, Maren, and retired to his study to read. An hour later Mrs. Grevstad found him lifeless in his chair. Death was attributed to heart disease.

Mr. Grevstad was born in and educated in Norway, where he started his journalistic career as editor of a liberal newspaper.

In 1887, four years after his arrival in America, he joined the editorial staff of the Minneapolis Tribune. Several years later he came to Chicago and to the Skandinaven, where he first wrote Minnesota news. Within a year or so, however, he became editor and his efforts were considered the chief element in enlarging the paper's sphere of influence.

Mr. Grevstad was a staunch Republican and, with the paper, played a strong part in national political campaigns. In 1911 President Taft appointed him minister to Uruguay and Paraguay, a post he held four years. From 1920 to 1925 he had charge of all foreign language publicity for the Republican national committee.

In 1925 he returned to become managing editor of the Skandinaven, He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Dagny Van Maarth; four grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday at 5200 North Western avenue.

EXTEND INQUEST IN QUARRY DEATH OF NUDE YOUTH

The coroner's inquest into the death of George E. Zeiss, 17 year old Herzl Junior college pre-law student who was found dead in a stone quarry on Joliet road in McCook Sunday, was continued yesterday to Feb. 29 to allow police to make a further investigation.

Zeiss' underclothing was found 150 feet from the body. Deputy John B. Gange of the Willow Springs county highway police told Deputy Coroner James J. Whalen police were unable to find the rest of Zeiss' clothes. After the hearing Gange said another person "may have carried them away or destroyed them."

A coroner's physician testified that Zeiss, who lived at 7649 Emerald avenue, died of exposure to the cold. The youth left his sister, Miss Evelyn B. Zeiss, and their mother, Mrs. Howard H. Williams, in the loop Saturday night, saying he planned to go home. He did not return home.

COUNTY POLICE RADIO FINDS BOY IN LOS ANGELES

The new two way county highway police radio at Morton Grove played an important part yesterday in ending the wanderings of Hjalmer Hackert, 16 years old, who ran away from his home at 1627 North Merrimac avenue about two weeks ago. Today Hjalmer is being held by Los Angeles police for his father, Henry, who is on his way there to bring the boy home. The boy ran out of funds in Los Angeles and on Monday evening wired his father for bus fare to Chicago. The elder Hackert, fearing his son might use the money for further travel, asked help from Chicago police. It was recalled then that the new Morton Grove station operated on the same frequency as KOBI, the Los Angeles police station. A message was sent from Morton Grove to the Los Angeles police and Hjalmer was found at the bus station.

Patrick Mulqueen, Retired Policeman, Is Dead at 85

Patrick Mulqueen, 85 years old, a retired policeman, died last night at his home, 8117 Vernon avenue. Mulqueen was a veteran of 30 years of service, 26 of which were spent at the Stanton avenue station. He retired in 1924. Surviving are a son, Policeman James Mulqueen of the Burnside station and a daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Manges. Funeral services will be from the home to St. Dorothy's Catholic church Saturday morning, with mass at 9:30 o'clock.

ADVANCE CRANE DIVORCE SUIT TO HEAR ADMIRAL

In order to allow Admiral Clark Howell Woodward, U. S. N., to testify on behalf of his step-daughter, Mrs. Cathalene Parker Browning Crane, in her divorce suit against Cornelius Crane, Judge Cornelius J. Harrington yesterday set the trial of the case before him for this morning. The judge's action came on a petition filed by John Martineau, Mrs. Crane's attorney, who reported that Admiral Woodward is now in Chicago on leave from the Brooklyn navy yard, but that he might not be able to appear later.

Cornelius Crane is the son of the late Richard T. Crane Jr., president of the Crane company, who died in 1931. The Cranes were married in 1929 at Newark, N. J. They met at Balboa in the Canal Zone the year before during the voyage of his yacht Illyria, which he took to the South seas on an expedition for the Field Museum of Natural History.

Mrs. Crane is the daughter of the late Rear Admiral Edward G. Parker, U. S. N. She charges desertion and asks custody of Cathalene, her 16 year old daughter by a former marriage, whom Crane adopted.

STOPS MILK TRUCK AND DIES.

Anton Arndt, 59 years old, died of a heart attack yesterday a short time after he stopped his milk truck at the rear of 840 East 57th street. He lived at 7127 Wabash avenue.

Suit Against Mae West for Million Thrown Out

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—Mae West won a $1,000,000 law suit today without having to put up a defense. Superior Judge William S. Baird threw out of court the claim of Mark Linder, co-author with Miss West of the stage success, "Diamond Lil," that the actress had made millions "on the side" from the sale of their play to a movie studio which filmed it as "She Done Him Wrong." The judge sustained a defense motion for dismissal.

City to Open Bids Feb. 29 for Loop Subway Stations

Bids for constructing eight mezzanine stations on the Dearborn street section of the subway will be opened Feb. 29, Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and superhighways, announced yesterday.

FLOWERS FORM PARK TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

A birthday memento to George Washington has been written in flowers at the Garfield Park conservatory. In the east end of the showroom the horticulturists have inscribed the initials "G." and "W." in white hyacinths with a red border of primulas against a background of white begonias. A cherry tree and a hatchet rise from the center of the display. William Blaesing, acting chief horticulturist of the Chicago park district, announced yesterday that both the Garfield and Lincoln park conservatories would be opened to the public without admittance fee from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. tomorrow in observance of Washington's birthday anniversary.

Johns-Manville Executive Falls Under Train; May Die

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 20 [Special].—Philip A. Andrews, 41 years old, vice president of the Johns-Manville Sales corporation of New York City, was near death in New Rochelle hospital this afternoon after having been run over by a passenger train at the New Rochelle station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford. Both legs were cut off below the knee and he incurred severe body lacerations. The train, bound for New York, was just pulling into the station when Andrews fell under the wheels.

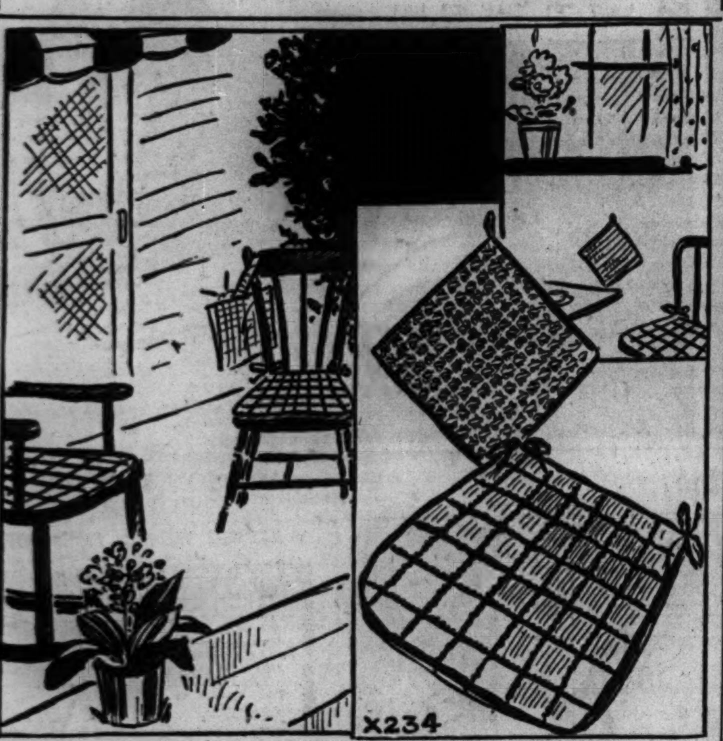
Chair Seat and Pot Holder



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Decorating the kitchen chairs with colorful, crocheted seats is another way of adding a touch of individuality to the home. If the color scheme is green and white, for example, the chair seats of the same shade may be used on white or green chairs. The pot holders are crocheted of the two shades together, to create a mottled effect, while the chair seat is created in white and striped in green.

For instructions in crocheting the chair seat and pot holder, No. X-234, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Mr. Webb's Luncheon Guest.

The woman in the tailored clothes and brimmed hat who was lunching with Clifton Webb yesterday was Alice Duer Miller, on her way back to New York after seeing Alexander Woollcott in the west coast production of The Man Who Came to Dinner. Her lowdown on Woollcott's performance probably was very interesting to the Chicago Sheridan Whiteside.

Mrs. Miller, who with others has wondered as to the real identity of Ethel Vance, author of the thrilling and beautifully written novel, Escape, happened to mention to a woman she met on the coast that she had just finished reading it.

"I couldn't put it down," she told her. "It is thrilling."

"But you wrote it, didn't you?" she inquired.

Period Piece.

The opening night audience at Life with Father at the Blackstone recognized, with nostalgic delight, the lamps, and furniture, and bric-a-brac in the Day home of the late '80s as depicted on the stage. Mrs. Clarence Day Sr., who sat in the audience, her pale reddish hair shining above a pale green gown, was probably one of the few who knew that several of the photographs in frames on table and mantel were actual Day photographs. The woman in a fichu in an old fashioned gold frame on the table is Mrs. Day Sr., the real Vinnie portrayed in the play by Lillian Gish. The pictured small boy in Scotch kilts is the youngest Day child, whose prototype appears in the play, also wearing Scotch kilts.

"Little boys never wore kilts," protested some one when the costumes for the production were being planned.

• • •

Mrs. Day and personalities of the play went to the Pump room after the opening night's performance for the party given by Edwin Embree, long time friend of the Day family. Percy Waram, the father in the play, his own mustache the same one he wears on the stage except for color. Miss Lillian Gish, in supple, long-sleeved, basque-waisted white brocade, carrying a hand bouquet that was like a sonnet and looking as young as the Gish of Broken Blossoms. Dorothy Gish, her hair piled high and a pink carnation from her corsage thrust into it. Oscar Serlin, the producer, a maroon carnation in his buttonhole. He's off for Mexico and a holiday shortly. The author, Russel Crouse. He is about to produce a play about a murderous spinster. Title: Arsenic and Old Lace. Bretaigne Windust, who staged Life with Father, chatting with Roger Hill. Mrs. Emmons Blaine, who seldom goes out, deep in conversation with Paul Douglas. The final episode in a Lone Ranger serial was shown last Saturday morning at the weekly Junior Esquire hour at Esquire theater, sponsored by the Woman's Exchange. As one 7 year old patron entered the theater he said to his companion: "Now when the Lone Ranger unmasks help me to remember who he is. Grandma wants to know as soon as I get home."

The Stage

With Vivian Leigh and Laurence Olivier as co-stars, a new stage production of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" will open a limited engagement at the Auditorium theater on April 17. Both stars will make their first legitimate stage appearances in Chicago at that time.

Earl Carroll's "Hollywood Revue," known in New York by the older title of "Vanities," will occupy the Erlanger theater for one week, beginning Sunday evening, March 3.

The Chicago Mummers' theater production of Emlyn Williams' crime melodrama, "Night Must Fall," begins an engagement at the Studebaker theater tonight.

Evelyn Cross Will Be Bride Next Sunday

BY JUDITH CASS.

DOZENS of parties are in the offing for a number of brides-to-be, some of whom will be married during Lent. Two young women who are to have small ceremonies during Lent are Miss Evelyn Cross and Miss Karen Gardner.

Miss Cross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Peete Cross, and Dr. Louis Shattuck Baer will be married next Sunday. Miss Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Milton Gardner, and Lieut. John Elwood Henry of Honolulu will be married on March 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Eyvind Bull gave a dinner last night for Miss Cross and her fiancé, who are going to Ann Arbor, Mich., today to find an apartment. They are going to live in Ann Arbor for the next two years while Dr. Baer is resident physician at the University hospital.

Mrs. David Yondorf, Dr. Baer's great-aunt, is giving a luncheon for him and his fiancée on Friday at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Cross will give a dinner Saturday night. The wedding will take place at noon in the Thorndike Hilton Memorial chapel, Dean Charles Gilkey officiating. The 50 wedding guests will go to the Cross home afterward for breakfast, and in the afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Baer, the bridegroom's parents, will give a tea for their son and his bride. The tea is turning out to be a wedding reception, altho it had been planned when Dr. Baer and Miss Cross still were considering a June wedding date, and the invitations to it were issued before Miss Cross and Dr. Baer decided to be married on Sunday.

Mrs. Storm Bull, the former Ellen Cross, will be her sister's only attendant. Joseph Baer Jr. will be his brother's best man.

Rush of Parties for Miss Gardner.

Lieut. Henry will arrive from Hawaii on Thursday, Feb. 29, and from then until the 6th the days will be filled with parties for him and Miss Gardner. Mrs. Richard Streeter is entertaining at cocktails on March 1. Mrs. Nelson Thomasson III., who is to be the matron of honor, and Mr. Thomasson will entertain on the 2d.

The Austin McCartans are planning a cocktail party on the 3d that also will welcome home from their South American wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. John T. Connery II. [Jeanne McCartan]. Mrs. Orville O'Neill is giving a dinner on the 3d. Mrs. Clement Ryan will give a cocktail party at the Racket club on the 4th. Miss Edna Lennox, who will be Miss Gardner's maid of honor, is giving a dinner that night.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, their daughter, her fiancé, and Allan and Grant Gardner will have a family party on the eve of the wedding. The wedding will be attended by members of the family only, but a larger reception will follow at the Tavern club. Grant Gardner will be the best man. Lieut. Henry and his bride will go to Hawaii, where he is stationed with the air corps.

Fiance to Visit Sally Jane Crowder.

There will be some parties this week for Miss Sally Jane Crowder and her fiancé, Richard V. Wakeman of Boston, who is arriving today to spend the week-end with his fiancée and her parents, the Gilbert Crowders, in Winnetka.

The George B. Everitts are entertaining at cocktails tomorrow for Miss Crowder and Mr. Wakeman. Dr. and Mrs. Francis Senear and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hicks will give a dinner for them on Saturday night at the Indian Hill club.

Miss Crowder and Mr. Wakeman will be married on April 20 at the Virginia home, Belle Grove, of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hooker of Winnetka. Belle Grove, in Port Conway, was built in 1790 on the old Conway plantation and was the birthplace of James Madison, fourth President of the United States.

Mary Ensley Hooker, the Hookers' subdeb daughter, is to be among the

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

The three piece ensemble for early spring wear consists of a smartly cut and tailored two piece suit and a swagger topcoat. Lovely spring pastels—pink, aqua, beige, and light golden yellow—are the background colors, the blurred checks being dark beige.

Thru the Looking Glass

Luxury loving lassies, and the ultra-fastidious ones, will be choosers and the users of a special hand bath powder. It's de luxe and, in the words of the song, de-lovely.

We've been told that sea moss is the base for the compound. It's lovely stuff, and when your hands feel and look ragged and worn a leisurely hand bath with it does wonders.

The powder is green and whips up an attractive Nile green foam. To give your hands this special beauty bath you toss a handful of the powder in a bowl, then pour on hot water and whip it up until foam rises to the top. Put the little hands in then, and if they're reddened and chapped and in particularly bad shape soak them in the water for 5 or 10 minutes.

The hand bath has a lovely scent that perfumes the skin quite lastingly—and you know what a satisfaction it is to have your hands perfumed delicately. This is one of its nicest aspects.

Used over a period of time, these baths will correct many of your hand troubles and prevent new ones. The skin gets smoother and softer. We particularly like the hand bath for those occasions when we settle down to a leisurely, careful home manicure.

We've been told, incidentally, that these hand baths are very helpful when the fingers are inclined to be stiff or when the hands perspire excessively. At least, a pianist of our acquaintance finds this to be so.

New Umbrellas Set a Fashion in Soft Colors

BY REA SEEGER.

The new umbrellas in Easter egg pastels are flattering eye-catchers. As a definite fashion trend they're something to see and appreciate.

Yellow, peach, pale green, orchid, pink, and white sound rather unbelievable as colors for sulch utilitarian objects as an umbrella. But all shoppers fed up with dazzling red, giddy prints, fish bowl transparencies, and similar violent color effects will take to the puddles any rainy day just to show off these face flattering pastels.

The material is that easy to keep clean mello-sheen, the stuff that never cracks, or sticks and looks like a dull novelty fabric. Umbrellas are priced around three dollars. The handles are smart, simple and either contrast or blend with the pastel shades of the coverings.

Also unpacked for the rainy season are the foldaways . . . neat compact affairs with an outer zip-on cover of the same materials as the umbrella. Such snug little units not only become the pet of the traveler but the folks at home are making records buying the things.

Scotch plaids, small plaids and the newest arrival—huge plaids in red and navy or black and white combines offer a complete assortment . . . these new outsize plaids have big round pearl handles with a carrying strap. Your monogram will be inscribed thereon and that service is included in the original price. The mechanism is fool proof, they'll go up and deflate without a struggle . . . and they'll pack in the smallest imaginable space. Folded, the length is exactly a foot and thickness is not over three inches.

Double duty umbrellas, those for either sun or rain, have come back with long graceful handles. The handles are detachable so that they can be packed in the shortest bag or case. Both dark colors and light are trimmed with narrow ruffles, sometimes as many as three rows. Solid colored models have alligator patterned calf covered crook handles. These last in bold striped silks are minus the ruffles but have feminine elegance in prystal or wanghee handles.

Former Actor's Death Puzzles Hollywood Police

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—George Periolat, 65 years old, once wealthy veteran film actor, was found dead under puzzling circumstances in his apartment today. He left a note which read: "It's all for the best that I go now." Police Detective F. G. Kull said Periolat had been ill three years and there was no evidence of foul play or that he had taken his own life. A native of Chicago, Periolat was a pioneer member of Warren Kerrigan's Santa Barbara Motion Picture company.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Passing Show.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20.—Metro Executive Al Lichtman answered the long distance phone on his desk. . . . The M-G-M office at New York asked him to contact immediately Radio City Music Hall's Van Schmus, visiting in Hollywood, to confirm a booking. . . . Lichtman pressed a button: "Get Mr. Van Schmus," he directed.

A minute later Van Schmus was on the phone, and the business was transacted rapidly. . . . Idly inquired Lichtman: "How are you enjoying California?" . . . The answer straightened Al up in his chair. . . . Van Schmus had left California the night previous and had flown back to New York.

Groucho Marx, who really likes George S. Kaufman, was teasing him about his relief chore for Alex Woollcott in "The Man Who Came to Dinner." . . . Jibed Groucho: "You did that dance furtively, like a neurotic playwright." . . . Agreed Kaufman: "I am a neurotic playwright."

Moss Hart, at this late date, has become embittered at "The Darktown Strutters' Ball." . . . Hart points out acidly that the song has terrific pace and tempo. . . . The action is rapid: "I'll be down to get you in a taxi, honey," indicates that the hero is not a slow-poke.

"But after all that dramatic build-up," reproaches Moss, "the last line is 'Tomorrow night at the Darktown Strutters' ball.' Why does the hero have to take a taxi if he has 24 hours to get to his girl's house?"

"Gone with the Wind" rolls along on golden cartwheels singularly free of the lawsuits, controversies, political explosions, and acrimony which fattened the box office receipts of "Birth of a Nation." . . . It was just 25 years ago that "Birth of a Nation" was released with the imprimatur of David Wark Griffith, and meticulous historian of the movies Terry Ramsaye has recorded the bitter jibes that were flung at that classic 12 reel pioneer.

Harvard's Charles W. Eliot climbed down from his five foot bookshelf to charge that Griffith had perverted white ideals. . . . In the New Republic Francis Hackett fumed that the Rev. Thomas Dixon, author of "The Clansman," from which the picture was derived, was "a yellow clergyman."

Oswald Garrison Villard said: "This was a deliberate attempt to humiliate 10,000,000 American citizens and portray them as nothing but beasts." . . . Moorefield Storey, in Boston, issued a booklet of considerable editorial heat attacking the picture for its treatment of the Negro race.

The blazing heat of the controversy, and the importance of the names who waded in, swelled the gross receipts of the picture. . . . Nine years later, Ramsaye records, "Birth of a Nation" played the Auditorium theater, in Chicago, and broke the house record, but by that time passions had cooled and the picture was accepted as an important milestone in the cinema.

"Gone with the Wind" has not stirred controversy. . . . The south accepted Britisher Vivien Leigh, Ohioan Clark Gable, Londoner Leslie Howard, Britisher Olivia de Havilland, and the north was not provincial in its reception. . . . About the only point of resemblance between the epic of 1915 and the epic of 1940 is that both were released, oddly enough, during world war 1 and world war 2. . . . In each the locale was identical, south of the Mason-Dixon border, and the civil war theme is similar.

Twenty-five years later at least one member of the cast of "Birth of a Nation" is carrying on: Donald Crisp is an important character actor of 1940 . . . Lillian Gish, without working at her profession, has maintained a definite standing in it . . . Henry Walthall, Mae Marsh, Robert Harron, Elmer Clifton, John Henaberry, Sam De Grasse and Hennie Lee are names better remembered by an older generation than by the jitterbuggers.

Marlene Dietrich says that the finest French picture she has seen is "La Femme Boulanger" ["The Baker's Wife"], in which Raimu, this column's Gallic pet, is starred. . . . It will be released nationally next week.

City Council Asked to Set March 9 as Fort Dearborn Day

The Fort Dearborn Memorial commission yesterday recommended to the city council that March 9 be designated Fort Dearborn day. Harry A. Musham, chairman of the commission, said that March 9, 1803, was the date the war department issued instructions to establish the fort here.

The commission has asked the war department to have any concerts played by army bands on that day dedicated to Fort Dearborn. The action was taken at a luncheon meeting of the commission in the Hotel Sherman.

Col. Stanley W. Clark, secretary of the commission, announced that he would donate a 40 foot flag pole to be erected near the original site of Fort Dearborn at Wacker drive and Michigan boulevard. Col. Willard R. Matheny, another commission member, said he would add an eagle to be placed on top of the flag pole.

Modern Girls Have Nothing on Egyptians!

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Take it or leave it glamor secrets are no modern age triumph. The gals were hugging them some 5,000 years ago. An exhibition recently was presented at the Brooklyn museum and from its Egyptian collection and Egyptian library one realizes that husbands and boy friends of those many ages ago must have been, even as yours and mine, raging against the insanities of the sex in search of glamor. There was every evidence in the exhibition that faces and lips of those days were put thru the color mill, eyebrows and lashes mascaraed within an inch of their lives, nails reddened and hair dyed by the glamor girls of the then café society and hinterlands.

The only difference between the vanity of the sex of then and now is that our vanity is better, more hygienic, more pure food lawed. There being no pure food and drug act 5,000 years ago, you can believe a reported deadly face powder composed of white lead and chalk for whitening the skin. And here are some bits, actual beauty formulæ quotations from an Egyptian papyrus:

"To improve the skin: honey, red natron [soda], northern salt are ground together, the body rubbed therewith."

For the schoolgirl complexion and to expel wrinkles: "Gum of frankincense, wax, fresh balantines oil, rush nut ground fine, put in viscous fluid and applied to face every day."

To save departing hairs and to make hair of a baldheaded person grow, the formula reads: "Fat of lion, fat of hippopotamus, fat of crocodile, fat of cat, fat of serpent, fat of ibex, all mixed together, the bald head anointed therewith."

And this more forceful than elegant admonition against a wallflower fate: "Remedy to expel odor in the summer: Frankincense, pignon, myrrh mixed together and rubbed on.

The Girl in the Shadows

INSTALMENT XXXIX.
MARKED MONEY.

That night Cynthia slipped into Bessie's room and told her what had happened. Bessie, in her turn, gave her the surprising information that she had spent the evening at the pictures with Detective-Sergeant Stevens.

"Did he pump anything out of you, Bessie?"

"Has he fallen for you, Bessie?"

"Well, there now, Miss Cynthia, I never thought of such a thing," said Bessie with such an air of self-righteousness that Cynthia realized that this was precisely what had happened. Then, rather tactlessly, Cynthia added:

"You're sure it isn't a trick to try and worm something out of you?"

"He's not that sort," said Bessie stiffly. "After all, a man's human even if he's in the police force, and he likes a private life same as anybody else."

"O, of course!" said Cynthia quickly. "Then we'll leave him out of it—except when he's on duty," she added. "As to the rest—remember that whatever happens, Bessie, we all admit nothing. I'm not sure of Miss Marion—her nerve seems to be failing and she talks in a very queer way."

Bessie glanced at her with sudden shrewdness.

"I'd noticed it, too, Miss Cynthia. Once or twice when we were talking about Clarke in the country she—well, she pulled me up sharp-like when I happened to remark what an out-and-outer he was."

Cynthia frowned. This idea was altogether too startling.

"I've heard of such cases before," continued Bessie. "Mind you, Miss Marion hates him and I'm sure she'd like to have him nabbed as we would. All the same, when she was with him in that flat I think she got the idea that he was more sinned against than sinning—that sort of thing. I'm sure that's all there is in it, Miss Cynthia."

Cynthia nodded thoughtfully.

His junior knew that this was not a purely social inquiry. He shifted from one foot to the other.

"I don't know what you think, sir, but it came over me last night that perhaps we've got hold of the wrong end of the stick—as far as all the women-folk are concerned, that is."

Rason grimaced.

"I am ready to believe anything in this case," he said. "What have you found out?"

"Well, I haven't found out anything, sir. But it has sort of struck me that maybe we're being almost too clever, if you understand me, sir. There's this theory that Bessie took turn-about with the prisoner when she was a wardress at Honebyker. Well, I've found out at least that she isn't the kind of girl to do a thing like that."

"O!" said Rason profoundly. "Is that the only reason why you think we've been talking thru our hats? You haven't forgotten what happened down in Devonshire and all that telephoning?"

"No, sir. But if you work it out it'll all answer to the idea that Mrs. Michael Alloway, or her sister-in-law, may have been blackmailed by Clarke for something else. After all, he was a schoolfellow of Mr. Alloway's——"

"And what did Bessie Stockley say to make you think all that?"

"Nothing at all, sir. We never mentioned the case the whole evening."

Rason sighed. His men could always keep their heads when they were dealing with crooked women, however superficially attractive. But when they were told to keep in touch with a straight woman who had somehow got herself entangled—well, you never could tell what would happen.

"All right, Stevens," he grunted. "You'd better take a rest on this case. Just hop down to Whitechapel and see if you can pick up a line on Soapy Sam, will you?"

He forgot Stevens for the next 10 minutes but remembered him again when he was being driven to the Gulverbury to meet Mrs. Michael Alloway.

"Telling me we're being too clever indeed! I know who Clara Brown is and I know who helped her to get married at the right time and set up a first class alibi."

Cynthia was waiting for him in the lounge and told him that her husband had already gone to his office.

"I've a taxi waiting, Mrs. Alloway. I promised your husband faithfully I'd bring you back myself into the lounge of this hotel. He's half afraid that Clarke might attempt to do you some injury."

"He wouldn't hit me over the head, would he?" laughed Cynthia as they got into the taxi. "And I don't see what there is to be gained by murdering me."

"Perhaps he has a grudge against Clara Brown," suggested Rason. "It's a funny thing, but we haven't picked up a trace of her while you've been away in Malta."

"Perhaps I spoiled the scent for her by being arrested, Mr. Rason?"

"There's a lot in that, Mrs. Alloway. I'm not sure you didn't." The tone of his voice held vague menace. Cynthia shivered a little and decided that she would not amuse herself any more by playing with fire.

"I've written out the check for two hundred pounds but I haven't signed it. My husband said that's what you wanted me to do."

"Quite right! A man of ours was at the branch this morning. The clerk will hand you marked notes. It's real money, but the Yard is paying the expenses. There's a small chance some of the marked ones will come thru and we shall be able to get nearer his hide-out."

The clerk at the branch knew her, hoped she had enjoyed herself at Malta and handed her a bulky package of notes. Within a couple of minutes of entering the bank they were back in the taxi.

"There's one little thing, Mrs. Alloway," said Rason as the taxi turned on its homeward run. "I never like to make more tactless remarks than I can help in my business. I rather gather your husband doesn't know anything about that raid on your bachelor flat when Miss Alloway was in it last autumn?"

"No, I don't think he does," said Cynthia hesitantly. "You see, the whole subject of Rory Clarke is rather an awkward one. My husband is not proud of having known him so well."

"I quite understand," said Rason soothingly. "I noticed how it put him wrong last night. You see—Clarke must have mistaken you for Clara Brown before you ever went to Malta."

"Yes, of course," said Cynthia, as if she had been agreeing about the weather. "I suppose when you do catch him, he will promptly denounce me. I must be careful not to lose my protection certificate."

"O, we shan't make the same mistake again, Mrs. Alloway!" Rason assured her.

Orange and tomato aspic has just the right amount of tartness to be the ideal accompaniment for corn fritters in tomorrow's luncheon menu. If you think oranges and tomatoes won't make a good combination just try this recipe and change your mind. Remember that the tomato is really a fruit, and that almost any fruit blends well with another.

Orange and Tomato Aspic.
[Serves six.]
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
1 cup orange juice
¾ cup tomato soup
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne pepper
½ cup diced celery

Soften gelatin in a little of the cold orange juice and dissolve over hot water. Combine with remaining orange juice, tomato soup and seasonings. Chill until thick, add celery, and pour into individual molds. Chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Corn Fritters.
[About eight.]
1¾ cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
1 cup canned corn, drained or dry
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon melted shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine egg, corn and milk. Add to dry ingredients, mixing well. Drop from a spoon into deep, hot fat at 350 degrees and cook until golden brown. Drain on soft paper and serve hot with sirup.

Rhubarb sauce is best when baked or cooked in the top of a double boiler, for thus it holds shape and may be cooked without water. Goodness knows, the fruit is juicy enough of itself without adding any water for it to swim around in. Just put the sliced rhubarb and sugar into a casserole or the upper compartment of a double boiler, and cook it at moderate heat until soft but still shapely. A cup of sugar is plenty for four cups of diced rhubarb.

Flank steak always is an inexpensive cut, because its muscle fibers are long, and braising is required to cook it tender. But tender it is, and very delicious, too, prepared this way for tomorrow's dinner.

Sausage Stuffed Flank Steak with Vegetables.
[Serves six.]
1 large flank steak
1 cup sausage [bulk]
2 cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 tablespoon onion juice
Salt, pepper
2 cups Julienne vegetables
1 cup tomato juice

Brown sausage and drain off fat. Mix with crumbs, poultry seasoning, onion juice and a little salt and pepper. Add hot water to moisten. Spread on flank steak and roll steak as for jelly roll. Insert skewers about an inch apart and cut the roll between the skewers to form pinwheels. Cut carrots, green beans and celery in match strips and place in the bottom of a casserole. Brown meat on both sides in hot fat and place on top of vegetables. Blend drippings in skillet with flour [about 2 tablespoons] and add 1 cup tomato juice. Cook to a smooth sauce and pour over meat. Bake an hour at 300 degrees.

CABBAGE AND PEPPER RELISH.

To serve six, mix 2 cups chopped cabbage, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 teaspoon sugar, ⅛ teaspoon celery seed, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and 3 tablespoons French dressing. Chill.

Apple Coffee Cake.
[9 inch cake.]
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons solid shortening
½ cup grated nippy cheese
⅝ to ¾ cup milk
2 or 3 apples
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter

Sift flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt together. Cut in shortening and cheese. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead for half a minute. Pat out dough in an ungreased 9 inch layer pan. Arrange thinly sliced apples on top, covering the entire surface. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon and dot with butter. Bake at 425 degrees for 25 minutes.

Society for Crippled to Honor Two Pupils at Dinner Tonight

John Bacara, 18 years old, and Mary Ann Welch, 17 years old, will be special guests of the board of governors of the Illinois Association for the Crippled at its annual dinner tonight at the La Salle hotel.

The two have been selected as the outstanding crippled youths of the Chicago area. Mary, who lives at 1258 West 83d street, is an honor student at the Morrill branch of Lindblom High school. She is the school accompanist, a member of the Chicago a cappella choir, and vice president of the school social, civic, and cultural club.

John lives at 6033 Roscoe street. He was graduated from the Sabin branch of Tuohy High schol in January, an honor student, and is continuing his studies there.

The dinner opens the association's third annual Easter seal drive, conducted for the benefit of 40,000 crippled children and adults in Illinois. Its goal is the sale of 20 million seals before March 24.

The New and Longer Line

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

The new and longer line for spring is achieved in a variety of ways, by lowering the waistline, by paneling, and by streamlining generally. It's the paneling that does the job in this one piece model, which makes up well in both prints and plain shades. Conservatism made modern is the keynote of this style, which young women and matrons both will like. The V neckline may or may not have a collar, as you choose, and the sleeves may be full length or reach only bracelet height. Buttons do duty on the bodice and the simple skirt is a gored one.

Style No. 2966 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of contrasting for version with long, fitted sleeves.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Children First See Democracy in the Family

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

One of the things about the White House conference on children in a democracy which gratified me tremendously was that even in the midst of considerations for children's health and education, for their comfortable housing and recreation and leisure pursuits, the importance of family life was not forgotten.

In times gone by, when child welfare was a newer concern than now, the home got pushed aside a great deal in the minds of experts who felt that outside agencies could do a better job than many parents. Fortunately, the pendulum has swung back, and the family is freshly recognized as the ideal place for a child to grow up. And not only that, it is recognized as the ideal place for children to have their first taste of and lessons in the spirit of democracy.

It is rather staggering to be told that there are in the United States some 36 million children under 16 years of age and about 5 million more between 16 and 17. As the report of the conference states, "For numbers alone, if for no other reasons, these voteless fellow citizens who hold the national future in their bodies and brains are necessarily a first interest of the nation.

"Concern for the child begins before his birth in concern for his parents; it continues until the child reaches maturity. During this period of childhood, roughly 20 years, it is possible to distinguish certain needs of the child as an individual, and other needs which are identical with those of his family or his community. At almost every point the child receives service, or lacks services he requires, from many different individuals, groups, and agencies, in addition to his own family. Each has its special task; none can be successfully performed without regard for the others. The best intentions of one group have often been nullified by ignorance of the work of another, or by the interference or inefficiency of others. Too often people have failed to recognize the simple truth that the child cannot be broken up into parts; one for the parent; another for the teacher; one for the public official; another for the playground and the church. The child is an indivisible whole as he grows from infancy to manhood and must be planned for and served as such."

As a mother or father you may be interested in further statements which are a sort of summing up:

"The vast majority of children are members of families. Their world opens up in a family, and they continue to spend most of the hours of the day in or about the home, even after school and playmates have begun to claim a large place in their thoughts and activities. Home and family are the first condition of life for the child. They are first in importance in his growth, development, and education.

"The child has food and shelter if his family has a home and provides food.

"He is content and happy if he is well, if he has parents and other kin to love and be loved by.

"Education begins in the home where he learns to speak, to walk, to handle things, to play, to demand, to give, to experiment.

"Adventure and safety, contentment and rebellion, coöperation, sharing, self-reliance, and mutual aid, are family experiences.

Feb. 21, 1940.

This is no day for dilly-dallying. Make up your mind. This month has probably not been entirely comfortable for those born on this date. Don't expect to be able to forge ahead until later. March calls for some concentrated work to make up for the wasted energy of this month. Make a definite working plan for this year as the frame-work for many years ahead.

Woman of 93 Will Gve Talk on Lincoln Today

Mrs. Eleanor Gridley, 93 years old, a Lincoln student, will speak at a meeting of the Aaron Miner chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at 2 o'clock today at the Woman's City club, 410 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Charlotte Parker Thomas will present a musical program. Mrs. Frank M. Wright is regent.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCallum of River Forest announce the marriage on Feb. 17 in Pontiac, Mich., of their daughter, Gladys, to Walter Shoemaker. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William H. Marbach, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Pontiac. Mr. Shoemaker and his bride have gone to Canada on a wedding trip.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage on March 3 of Miss Babette Weil, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Weil, to Dr. F. M. Isaacson of New Orleans. The ceremony will take place at noon at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Dr. Isaacson and his bride will live in New Orleans.

Critic Praises Great Progress of Bach Chorus

BY CECIL SMITH.

Celebrating the 15th anniversary of its founding, the Chicago Bach chorus, Theodore Lams, conductor, presented a strikingly beautiful assortment of Bach cantatas and chorales in Orchestra hall last night.

The assisting soloists were Esther Hart, soprano; Harriet Brewer, contralto, and Gilbert Check, baritone. The instrumental parts were played by a hand picked chamber group from the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and by Hugo J. Gehrke, organist.

The three church cantatas presented in full represented Bach consistently at the height of his genius. "Herr, gehe nicht ins Gericht" contains poignant recitatives for both bass and alto and a remarkable aria in the form of a conversation between the solo and soprano and the solo oboe. The closing chorale of the cantata is a unique masterpiece, with a string accompaniment becoming more and more peaceful, beginning with a figuration in quadruplets, reducing the speed to triplets, then to duplets, and finally to single notes.

The well known "Wacht auf! ruft uns die Stimme" and the less familiar "Halt im Gedächtnis Jesum Christ" are equally well sustained on a constant level of unusual expressiveness.

The chorus has improved gratifyingly since last season. An air of assurance now marks its work, and the tone quality is both pleasanter and more ample. Many areas of improvement still lie ahead, however, notably in the directions of smoother melodic line and more meaningful accentuation.

Mr. Lams has eliminated some of the qualities of subjectivity which made his interpretations questionable last year in the "Mass in B Minor." He still has difficulty in setting a tempo and maintaining it with an even flow. Apparently an excess of movement in his conducting and a ponderousness of muscular coördination stand in his way. At least there were many awkward moments between Mr. Lams and his competent orchestra, and two or three in which things broke down generally.

Miss Hart was in poor form, for she did not know her music well. Miss Brewer, with less to do, used her rich voice to advantage. Mr. Check was not vocally equal to his taxing assignment.

Compliment Is Given a Girl Deserving It

BY DORIS BLAKE.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Young women, and older ones, too, this is to be a little sermon on receiving compliments gracefully. You complain so often that the American man is woefully short on the expression intended to please the feminine ear.

"Take my girl," he explains. "She is pretty and gets herself up very smartly and I appreciate this and her, but when I used to try to tell her what I thought of her, she'd come back with some smarty answer leaving me cold and numb. For instance, one evening she had on a red dress that was a knockout. I told her so and she said: 'Don't be silly. This is the cheapest little number I own.' What did I care or know about the cost of it? Enough for me that she looked the way she did in it. But that's the sort of thing women do to men. They don't let us go on with what we want to say. So it makes me resentful when I hear them raving on about the beautiful manners of continental men.

"Another thing that women do, while I'm on the subject. If you compliment a woman on her home or her table, she starts in on a line of excuses or apologies that make a man feel he's done something he shouldn't have done, bringing up the subject at all."

So there you are, ladies. In order to encourage compliments you have to learn to accept them with grace. Men are right about the "slap in the face" they earn so often. It deters further attempt to please.

It's infinitely more charming to look up at the man with a pleased "O, thank you" when he volunteers his gracious remark. That sets the ball in motion for other pleasant remarks he'd like to make. Women like and cherish the compliment, and our observation is that those women who receive them most graciously get more of them.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Persistency is not nearly as valuable a quality in bridge as is versatility. The clever player is one who wastes neither time nor effort against impregnable strength; he finds it much more profitable to ferret out weakness. This is particularly true of defensive tactics. Occasionally, of course, it does pay to hammer away at one suit, but in the majority of cases it is a question of finding the proper shift. In today's hand West, the opening leader, was entirely too dogged.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 club	1 diam.
2 clubs	2 diam.	Pass	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

As may easily be seen, the bidding was questionable on the part of at least three players. North had no opening bid to start with and, in fact, the hand should have been passed out. East's overcall, even tho he had a six card suit, had no particular point, and West's diamond raise on only two diamonds, even tho they were the ace-king, was unjustified. South, with almost an opening bid, was correct in taking strong action and his two no trump bid probably was the best at his command despite the fact he had no diamond stopper. North's raise to three was an example of pure optimism.

West's first lead was consistent with his subsequent poor defense. Instead of laying down the diamond king he opened the five of hearts [since he selected a heart he should have led the top of his incomplete sequence], dummy ducked, and East, after profound thought, played the jack, clearly tipping off the fact that he held the ace, since otherwise he would have had nothing to think about. Declarer won with the queen and ran off five club tricks. West's discarding on the last three clubs was inconceivably bad: he let go three spades, keeping all of his hearts, since he, too, was convinced that his partner had the ace and he hoped to get in with the diamond honor to lead thru dummy's king. But the declarer had carefully watched the discards and now all he had to do was to lay down the ace of spades, felling West's lone queen, after which the ten of spades forced out East's remaining stopper in the suit. From that point there was no defense. East returned a diamond and West now led the ten of hearts, but dummy simply ducked and the ace had to be played. Thus, declarer stole a game by taking in five clubs, two hearts, one spade, and one diamond.

"The church is passing thru a modern Gethsemane today and Christ asks his followers 'Why sleep ye?' There is a fierce struggle going on between world powers to gain control of the peoples of the earth. To many the future of the church appears hopeless. But God has not forsaken his own, and he will give grace sufficient and necessary wisdom to overcome. All he asks is that we awake out of sleep and, in watchfulness and prayer, abide in his word."

ROTARY, 35 YEARS OLD, SALUTES ITS CHICAGO FOUNDER

Canadian Red Cross Head Speaks at Luncheon.

Thirty-five years ago 19 Chicago business men organized a club with the aim of perpetuating small town neighborliness in the big city. Because meetings were held successively in the offices of each member, they called their organization Rotary.

Yesterday hundreds of Rotarians, many from other states and several from foreign lands, met in the Hotel Sherman to celebrate at a birthday luncheon the anniversary of the friendly circle that has widened into an international organization of 5,000 clubs in 80 countries, whose total membership is 212,000.

Founder Receives Tributes.

The founder, Paul A. Harris, 10856 Longwood drive, was there. Quiet and mild of face, he sat at the elevated speakers' table under a giant fan of American flags. At his back was a wall spread with the banners of other nations. He was showered with oratorical bouquets and received a standing tribute from the assembly.

Rotary presents the common denominator of good will and understanding which unites men of all countries, races, and creeds, the members were told by the guest speaker, Norman Sommerville of Toronto, Ont., Canada. Sommerville is head of the Canadian Red Cross. He is chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee of Rotary International.

Two Inducted by Vet Group.

Silvester Schiele, first president of Chicago Rotary club, inducted Frank W. Bering, general manager of the Hotel Sherman, and Percy L. Tallman, president of Tallman, Robbins & Co., into the veterans' group of 50. They have been members for 25 years. Edward W. Denahy and E. J. Phillips, who also were to have joined the veterans, were unable to attend the meeting.

As a second observance of anniversary week, the Chicago club will sponsor the "Town Meeting" radio broadcast tomorrow night, Herbert Taylor, president, announced. The discussion will be on "Employers, Employés, and the Public."

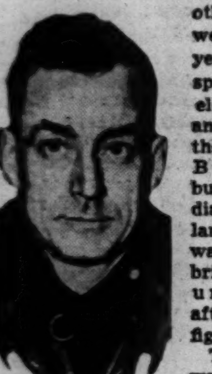
An elderly man was fatally overcome by smoke and more than 75 other persons were rescued yesterday as fire spread thru the elevator shaft and stairways of the 83 apartment Bennington building, 2358 Indiana avenue. A large crowd watched firemen bring the blaze under control after an hour's fight.



Thomas Gray, discoverer of fire.

The dead man was John Wynn, 70 years old. He was overcome in his apartment on the seventh floor. Several women tenants participated in heroic rescues. One of them, Mrs. Rae Borden, carried Bobbie Slogar, 6 years old, to safety down a fire escape from her fourth floor apartment.

Thomas Gray, 7924 Harvard avenue, a truck driver for THE TRIBUNE, was driving by when the fire started. He turned in one of the alarms, then helped to carry four people to the street.

Police learned that the fire was caused by the ignition of a container of gasoline, apparently from a spark, in the elevator shaft. Damage to the building was estimated at $15,000. The building, of brick and stone, was erected during the Columbian exposition and was once a south side show place.

WOMAN FENCER FREED IN CHILD DESERTION CASE

Miss Purney Bishop, 29 years old, a physical training teacher, was on her way back to Atlanta, Ga., last night after a charge of contributing to the dependency of a child had been dismissed in Women's court by Judge Mason S. Sullivan. Miss Bishop's two month old baby boy, still weighing less than five pounds, remained in an incubator in the county hospital.

Without giving her identity, the young woman left the infant on Dec. 28 with workers at Salvation Army headquarters. Her plea that she "must hurry off to give a fencing lesson" was the one clew which led to her apprehension by Policewoman Helen Bowen. She had intended, Miss Bishop told the court, to reclaim the boy when she was able to support him. When his health is assured she is to decide whether she wants to take him or to turn him over to an institution.

How to tell a creepy story...

BEN AMES WILLIAMS in this week's Post writes a yarn to make your hair crawl! A tale for a winter's night, told in the inky blackness of a garret, by an old man with a stocking full of silver ... told with every shivery detail, to a young man and his girl, with three murdering men listening outside the door! ... Will you hear it? (The first of two installments comes to you in this week's Post.)

Our next president will be...?

Garner? Joe Martin? McNutt? Taft? Wheeler? Dewey? New York's Robert Moses dopes the chances of the current dark and light horses and gives his fellow Republicans an election tip in his article, The Political Olympics.

Never have a daughter!

You never know, when she leaves the house, whether she'll come back with a horse, a set of paints, a trombone, or a husband. Push a daughter into this boy-girl business, and you'll be sorry. Don't push her, and you'll be sorry. Take the case of Mary ... in Gladys Taber's new story in the Post, Letter to the Dean.

Death of a mountain climber

Five people who read this manuscript asked, "When did this happen?" This story of a conflict between two men on an icy peak 28,000 feet up is fiction, but so realistic you'll swear it actually happened! Read Top Man, by James Ramsey Ullman. In this week's Post.

What pilots never tell

...and what passengers never hear—are the words that fly between pilot and co-pilot on a treacherous night when they're trying to set a giant transport down in a tropical squall. Airline pilot Leland Jamieson cracks out with another exciting story of airline flying, Co-Pilots Don't Talk Back.

Screwball business, building bombers!

Do you know why it would be useless for foreign spies to steal the blueprints for a U. S. Army bomber? Why the "simple" business of building bombers drives sane production men mad? To know what goes on in the factory from Z to A, read Bombers by the Pound.

Nine Other Features...

THE BARBER WHO EARNED HIS FUNERAL. Old William; for private reasons, decided to collect his buryin' money before he died. And was double-crossed at his own funeral! . . . A short story in this week's Post, Mortgage on the Home, by Price Day.

CHICAGO GOLDEN GLOVES FIELD CUT TO 64

FINISH 72 HOLES WITH 293; SNEAD STROKE BEHIND

Play 18 Today for Championship.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Houston, Tex., Feb. 20.—One week ago tomorrow night, Houston's best people honored James Newton Demaret of the Center street Demarets with a whopping big testimonial banquet for his golfing prowess. Late this afternoon James made partial payment by finishing the regulation 72 holes of the 41st Western Open golf championship with a score of 293, nine over par for the River Oaks Country club.

Tony Penna.

James Demaret.

The smiling Houston professional's gratitude might have been complete, but it so happens that Tony Penna, former Chicago district pro who now registers from Dayton, O., also turned in a 293. So it is that Jim and Tony will battle for the title in an 18 hole playoff beginning at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

$1,000 Purse to Winner.

Demaret and Penna have more than made their marks in big league golf, but tomorrow offers each his first chance for a major championship. The winner of the playoff will receive $1,000 and the runnerup $700.

The promise of a tight finish indicated at the end of 36 holes last night, when 20 men were bracketed within a nine-stroke span, was climaxed dramatically by Demaret, who played in the last threesome of the day with Sam Snead of Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Winchester, Mass.

The end of the morning round found Snead, yesterday's 36 hole leader, still in front with a 54 hole score of 219, but Penna moved in with a 73 for 220. Meanwhile, Demaret was tied with five other pros at 222. These included Sam Byrd of Philadelphia, the old New York Yankee outfielder; Craig Wood of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; McSpaden, Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, three time western champion and twice winner of the National, and Dick Metz of Oak Park, Ill.

Snead Winds Up Third.

Penna took the 63 hole lead by shooting a par 35 on the afternoon front nine, while Snead was taking 37, and Byrd, Metz, and Demaret were moving up with 35s to be only two shots off the pace. Penna finished with a 38 for a 73, and what appeared to be sufficient to beat Snead.

While Samuel was having his old Western finishing troubles, which eventually gave him third place with 294, Demaret appeared until the 68th hole to be trying to make a good showing for the home folks. On the 472 yard 68th he chipped up to within a foot for a birdie, and 1,500 Houston citizens traipsing after him took real hope when he ran down a 20 footer on the next green.

Then came the par four 70th, which

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Island, Neb., Feb. 20.—Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, who announced some weeks ago that he would not defend the drizzlepuss trophy he won in 1939, still was laughing and joking as he and his band of pitchers and catchers reached Grand Island this afternoon. Grand Island, by the way, is not to be confused with Catalina Island, which the Cubs will not reach until noon on Washington's birthday.

This morning Gabby had his first chat of the winter with his best pinch runner since Tuck Stainback—Clay Bryant. Nothing much developed, except that Gabby told Clay about some of his hunting exploits and Clay told Gabby about hearing Elmer Layden make a banquet speech. Layden told some amusing football anecdotes, Clay said. Gabby didn't ask Clay to repeat any of the anecdotes, however.

No Privileges for Invalids.

After his conference with Bryant Manager Hartnett said that Clay and Dizzy Dean both will be expected to accept the training assignments given the gents who have no fame as sore arm stars. Said Gabby:

"Both Clay and Diz say they have recovered and as a result they will be asked to keep apace with the other fellows. I believe they will want to do this. They will not be asked to take any chances, of course, but it is to their interest, as well as the team's, to find out early if they are going to be able to stage comebacks. Neither wants to be pampered and I think things are going to proceed to some conclusive findings in so far as sore arms are concerned."

Bryant was more cheerful than he's ever been as a Cub, despite his brief holdout stand which ended with his taking a salary slash. He said today that his arm throbbed constantly last season, like toothache, maybe. It's not throbbing now and Clay says he doesn't think it will throb.

A Scientific Discussion.

The rookies in the party seem to be hitting it off well and all appear to be happy to be Cub chattels. They may stay this way, even after the clubhouse lawyers go to work on them in California.

Dr. Andrew Lotshaw, Cub trainer, and his new assistant, Dr. Rudolph Lind, spent the day talking about the comparative merits of iodine and mercurochrome. As all science knows, Dr. Lotshaw is a staunch iodine man.

Dr. Lotshaw and Dr. Lind both will be busy during the practice periods and the interval immediately thereafter and will alternate on night duty at a special ward to be installed in the Cub hostelry. This way Lotshaw will have to work 20 hours a day only every other day instead of every day as heretofore.

MAYBE WHAT THE MAROONS NEED IS A FEW KINNICKS

Nile Kinnick, University of Iowa football star and winner of THE TRIBUNE football trophy, spoke briefly at the annual founders' day banquet of his fraternity last night in the Lake Shore Athletic club. Five hundred members of Phi Kappa Psi applauded, but an equal intensity of cheering came after a remark made by Burt Ingwersen, football line coach at Northwestern, also a Phi Psi, whose last line dismissed the meeting.

After congratulating Kinnick on his athletic prowess and the fact that he will soon become a member of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, Ingwersen said:

"I wish President Hutchins could meet fellows like you. If he did he wouldn't be so quick in kicking out football at the University of Chicago."

Boston Routs Leafs, 5-0, to Tie for Lead

Boston, Mass., Feb. 20 (AP).—The Boston Bruins reëntered a tie for the National Hockey league lead with the New York Rangers tonight by overwhelming the Toronto Maple Leafs, 5 to 0, before 13,286. Four Boston goals were scored by the Kitchener line, two by Woody Dumart and one each by Milt Schmidt and Bobby Bauer. Three of the goals came in the final period.

The game was as good as decided during the 11th minute of play when Herb Cain gave Boston its first goal by driving a long shot thru Goalie Turk Broda from a difficult angle.

Brimsek had to make only 13 stops, only one of which was difficult. Twice during the game he rested in his cage for 15 minutes without being interrupted.

Irish Defeat Marquette in 56-39 Game

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 20 [Special.]—Notre Dame closed its home basketball season with a 56 to 39 victory over Marquette tonight. Eddie Riska led the Irish with 17 points, giving him 210 for the season, eight more than he scored last year. Notre Dame has three road games left, with Butler next Monday, then Marquette, and finally Detroit.

The Irish were without the services of George Sobek, Hammond, Ind., sophomore who was hurt last Saturday, but Kenneth [Red] Oberbruner, Ashland, Wis., senior, filled Sobek's post satisfactorily, making 12 points.

Marquette stepped off to a 7 to 3 lead in the first five minutes, but Don Smith and Riska tied it. Bobby Deneen, Marquette's high scorer with 11 points, and Riska then exchanged field goals. Then Oberbruner made a free throw to give Notre Dame a lead it never relinquished. The Irish led, 35 to 19, at the half.

Notre Dame made all of its 10 free throws, nine of them in the first half. The victory was the thirteenth in eighteen games and Marquette's seventh defeat in 14 games. The Irish broke their previous record of 50 points for the 20 year old series by six points. Lineup:

ST. LOUIS BEATS HAWKS, 4 TO 3, IN EXHIBITION GAME

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 20 [Special].—The potent St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey association, one of the strongest teams in minor league hockey, pinned a 4 to 3 defeat on Chicago's Blackhawks tonight in an exhibition contest.

The Hawks left for home immediately after the contest to begin preparations for a game with the Montreal Canadiens in the Chicago Stadium Thursday night. Bill Thoms, suffering with a severe cold, did not make the trip to St. Louis and will not be available for the Canadien game or the Boston encounter on Sunday.

MURCZEK WALKS OFF POUNDS, WINS—AND THEN LOSES

Savior Canadeo Scores Over Artillerist.

Stanley Murczek of the 124th field artillery, winner of the Illinois Athletic club welterweight championship in January, had difficulty making the required 148 pounds for last night's Golden Gloves fights. He took three walks before he was able to qualify. Murczek easily won his first match, stopping Francis Spires in one round. In his next match he was defeated by Savior Canadeo.

John Breland, 1939 novice C. Y. O. champion, now is the giant of the tournament following the withdrawal of Edwin Wagner, Savoy A. C. boxer, who is 6 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 240 pounds. The doctors refused to pass Wagner because he had a leg infection. Breland is 6 feet 3½ inches tall and weighs 207 pounds.

Two sets of twins started after city championships in the open division tournament in the Coliseum last night, but only one member of each combination survived. They are Walter Baka, flyweight of 2149 North Latrobe avenue, and Joe Preston, welterweight of the 124th Field Artillery armory. The 16 year old Baka advanced by drawing a bye while Preston made the grade by stopping Mike Markarian of Crane Tech High school. Later in the evening Joe won by default from Russell Saranella of the Madison Athletic club.

The twins eliminated were Edwin Baka, also a flyweight, and William Preston, lightweight. Edwin failed to pass his medical examination because of a sore thumb, but William was knocked out in the first round by Edward O'Connell.

Stanley Kwit, C. Y. O. 147 pound candidate, sent Ray Harris of the Skokie valley spinning to the canvas in 23 seconds of the first round to score the fastest knockout of the evening.

After refereeing eight contests in the south ring Barney Ross said:

"It was a great thrill. It reminded me of the time I won the Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight championship in the same ring in 1929."

After he left the ring Ross was greeted by two of his 1929 teammates—Jimmy Chase, flyweight champion, and Harry Garbell, bantamweight title holder. Chase was present as a spectator and Garbell as a second for Henry Leslie, Jewish People's institute, who qualified for tonight's fights.

Dennis Jones, 1933 Golden Gloves lightweight runner-up, returned to resume his campaign for a diamond studded glove as a welterweight and won two battles last night.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's open division Golden Gloves tournament is under way. The slugging began at 7 o'clock last night in the Coliseum and it continued thru an evening of incessant action. With two rings in use the starting field of 208 was cut down to 64.

The crowd which shook the old arena with its cheers will be back again tonight filled with anticipation of an even more spectacular program—for tonight some of the strongest fighters in the tournament will meet. These bouts will clear the way for tomorrow's semi-finals and finals.

Savior Canadeo of the Catholic Youth Organization will have one of the most enthusiastic following of any of the fighters who appear in tonight's quarter-finals. He earned particularly vigorous applause by the demonstration of class he gave in beating the rugged, aggressive Stanley Murczek of the 124th Field Artillery in the outstanding bout on last night's program. Tonight he will be an overwhelming favorite in his welterweight bout with David Abrams.

Strong Welterweight Class.

Tho the caliber of the Canadeo-Murczek bout was so high that it might well have been a final, the winner still must face powerful opposition before taking a title. Homer Williams, Harry Sparrow, and Joe Preston are in the same weight class. All gave convincing displays of power in marching thru their welterweight bouts.

William Peterson of the Monarch A. C., a newcomer to Golden Gloves competition, created a sensation in one of the heavyweight bouts. This husky young steel worker laid a terrific right on the jaw of Hosea Fountain of the Savoy A. C. in the first round—and that was all there was to it. Peterson will be back again tonight to battle Francis Krone.

One of the most important fights on tonight's program will bring together Joe Dupont and Frank Bausone in the 126 pound division. Dupont was runner-up to Tony Ancona of Detroit for last year's Golden Gloves featherweight championship and Bausone is a former C. Y. O. bantamweight titleholder.

Cavaleri to Meet Johnson.

Walter Cavaleri and Harold Dade gave excellent boxing exhibitions in winning their engagements last night in the flyweight class. Cavaleri will face a strong opponent tonight—William Johnson of the Savoy A. C. This youngster beat William Hawkins, a clever young C. Y. O. fighter last night.

The eight champions who emerge at the end of tomorrow night's bouts will go on to the Tournament of Champions. This event, which will bring the teams of 43 out of town centers into Chicago, will be held in

VICTORY MORN, HOWARD'S RUNT, WINS NARANJA

Beats. Three Others at Hialeah.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 20 (AP).—Victory Morn, Maxwell Howard's racing runt, making his third start of the winter, won the Naranja purse of a mile and a furlong at Hialeah today.

It was the first time the little horse had triumphed for Howard since Howard purchased him for $21,600 from the Ral Parr estate in Maryland last fall.

Mrs. Payne Whitney's Day Dodger was second, four lengths ahead of Hal Price Headley's Stagefright. The Circle M Ranch's Titilator, the odds-on choice, finished last in the field of four 3 year olds, all eligible for Saturday's $20,000 Flamingo stakes.

Jimmy Stout was up on the son of Challenger II.-Bright Luna and guided him to a 1:51 4-5 performance that was tainted somewhat when a claim of foul was lodged. It appeared that the Howard horse bore out in the final drive and interfered with the fast challenging Day Dodger. But the claim was disallowed. Victory Morn paid $6.30.

NORMAN SLOAT WINS.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 20 (AP).—Under top weight of 113 pounds, Norman Sloat, owned by Miss M. Hodge, won its third race in seven starts this year with a victory in the featured sixth event at the Fair Grounds.

The winner ran the six furlongs in 1:13 1-5 to pay $10.20, partly because he had been out of the money in his last two starts.

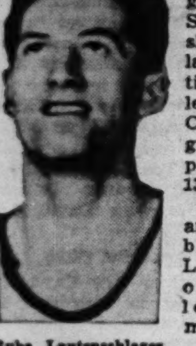
In second place was G. R. Watkins' My Lawyer and third was the Dominion stable's Budron.

Sheboygan to Meet Bruins' Five Tonight

Pro Basketball

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
Hammond, 43; Detroit, 39.

A trainload of fans from Sheboygan is expected to help make the crowd at tonight's basketball game between the Chicago Bruins and Sheboygan Redskins one of the largest of the National Basketball league season in Chicago. The game will be played in the 132d armory.



Rube Lautenschlager.

The Redskins are paced by the brilliant Rube Lautenschlager, one of the league's best marksmen. The Bruins are likely to be strengthened by the return of Eddie Oram, guard, who was injured in the game with the Akron Firestones Feb. 3 and has been on the hospital list since.

The Redskins lead the western division of the league and the Bruins are in fourth place. The Chicago five is booked to meet the second place Oshkosh quintet in its next start.

A preliminary game involving Armour Tech and North Central college of Naperville will go on at 8 o'clock.

McCoy Wins Decision Over Scott in New York

New York, Feb. 20 [Special].—Al McCoy of Boston, punched his way to an eight round decision over Buddy Scott of Dallas, Tex., tonight in the Broadway arena. McCoy weighed 181¼ pounds and Scott, 177¼.

Barney Ross Is Manager of New Cocktail Lounge

Barney Ross, retired undefeated lightweight champion, has been appointed manager of the Morrison hotel's new cocktail lounge, Leonard Hicks, manager of the hotel, announced yesterday.

Ross will take over his new duties today, but formal opening under his management will not take place until tomorrow night.

Milt Aron, Chicago boxer, tonight will leave for Philadelphia for a 10 round bout there Monday against Cal Cagni of Cresskill, N. J. It will be Aron's first appearance since he won the No. 1 welterweight contendership by knocking out Fritzie Zivic on Dec. 27. Following the Philadelphia encounter Aron will prepare for a 10 round event against Bep Van Klaveren in the Coliseum March 14.

Gus Sonnenberg, former football player at Dartmouth, will meet Rudy Kay in a heavyweight wrestling bout in Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, this evening. A secondary feature will bring together Jack Conley and Cecil McGill. Seeli Samara is paired with Magyar Morrell, Jack Zeravich with Ken Fenion, and Ned Taylor with Henry Forman.

Fight Decisions

At New York—Wesley Ramey beat Johnny Rinaldi [8].
At New York—Al McCoy beat Buddy Scott [8].

Maki Postpones Trip to Work Out on Boards

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—Because Taisto Maki, Finnish distance star, wants two or three additional days in which to work out on board tracks, he and Paavo Nurmi will not leave for the Pacific coast until the end of the week. Originally they were scheduled to fly west today.

Wisconsin! It's Your Day at Sports Show

BY BOB BECKER.

This is Wisconsin day at the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show, which is being held in the International amphitheater, Halsted and 42d streets.

The Badger state is well represented at the exposition thru its conservation department, which has a big exhibit; the Wisconsin Indian Head association, Hayward Chamber of Commerce, Lakewood Sportsmen's club, Land o' Lakes Chamber of Commerce, and numerous exhibitors.

Lincoln Park Casts Tonight.

The Lincoln Park Casting club will be in the spotlight tonight at the show, for this organization will bring its membership to the casting pool to compete in the Tribune's casting tournament.

Practice for the casters is scheduled between 6:30 and 7:30 p. m. THE TRIBUNE will award an engraved rod case to the winner of tonight's event.

Boys and girls who like to use a bait casting rod will take over the Tribune casting pool tomorrow afternoon, when they compete in a special holiday contest in Skish casting.

There'll Be Four Prizes.

Entrants will start practicing at 1:30, with the competition scheduled to get under way at 2:30 p. m. Four prizes [fishing lines and lures] will be awarded to the boys and girls who record the highest scores on the targets.

C. B. Nordholm won the casting contest sponsored by THE TRIBUNE last night. The event was for members of the Chicago Fly Casting club only. Nordholm made a score of 84 in the obstacle casting contest to top all other competitors.

E. H. Garnsey was second, with a score of 82, and Eddie Yasulaitis placed third by hitting the targets for a score of 73. These three winners qualified for the finals to be held Saturday evening. Other contestants and their scores were as follows:

D. A. Leblaron, 53; J. A. Stava, 51; A. G. Eckwald, 42; Frank Norwich, 33; Arthur Blank, 32, and J. E. Wilson, 25.

DEMARET, PENNA TIE FOR TITLE IN WESTERN OPEN

Finish with 293; Snead a Stroke Behind.

is the answer to why James didn't win the whole show off by himself. He already had taken a pair of 5s and a 6 on it in the first three rounds. This afternoon a trap set him down for another 5. Then he had to get his pars on the last two to win, and he did.

Gains Tie on Final Hole.

Jim's second shot to the final hole ran 20 feet past the cup, and he was nearly a yard short with his approach putt, but ran it down for the tying 293.

If Demaret feels like blowing up the 70th hole, Penna would do well to sue the 67th and 68th, both of which cost him bogey fives, the former when his drive landed in a deep divot mark, and the 68th, where he drove out of bounds.

The cards for Demaret and Penna follow:

Par—Out	443	443	454—35
Par—In	534	453	444—36—71
MORNING ROUND:
Demaret—Out	443	543	555—38
Demaret—In	544	444	643—38—76—222
Penna—Out	443	552	555—38
Penna—In	534	443	544—36—74—220
AFTERNOON ROUND:
Demaret—Out	443	444	453—35
Demaret—In	543	542	544—36—71—293
Penna—Out	434	443	454—35

Demaret Vardon Cup Leader.

Demaret is currently the leader in the race for the P. G. A.'s Vardon trophy with a total of 66 points. Victory tomorrow is worth 55 points in the Vardon competition. Jimmy has won approximately $2,400 since Jan. 1, having taken the San Francisco and Oakland opens.

Penna, 32 years old and a native of Naples, Italy, first learned his golf from Tommy Armour of Chicago's Medinah club, with whom his younger brother, Charley, has been associated for 13 years. Tony was pro at Chicago's Itasca club during the 1936 season, before becoming a player salesman for a national golf manufacturer. His best big time performances have been third places in the 1937 Western and National Open tournaments.

Demaret's final round of par 71 was the best performance of the day. Only other card to approach par was the third round 72 submitted by Byrd, who later took a 7 on the par four 13th in the afternoon. For the entire 72 holes, par was broken only five times, all in yesterday's second round. The frigid winter had left River Oaks' greens a trifle patchy, but even granting this, the course proved to be one of the toughest the pros have encountered on the winter circuit in years.

Coffey Leads Amateurs.

Logansport vs. Kokomo.

Now, this I want to state,
My embarrassment is great,
And on T. E. B. I'm going to heap abuse;
He's had me on the lam
After every sort of man,
He's even had me in the city calaboose.

Now, he really doesn't mean
I'm the Susie of his dream,
But folks don't seem to take me at my word;
They think since my name is Sue
And I'm an Indianian, too,
That Kokomo Sue and I are the same bird.

But Logansport's my town,
That in Logan we're a very different lot;
We're refined and gentle folk
Who would never take a poke

Now this gel from Kokomo
Is, I think, extremely low;
If she doesn't like a fellow very well
She gets into a brawl
Which doesn't help at all,
For where she may end you really cannot tell.

Now, in Logan it's like this,
And a fellow doesn't suit a gal like me
She just shoots him in the liver,
Dumps him in the Wabash river

A Cabin in the Hills.

I'm tired, the town is noisy—
Too much hurry, too much dust,
Not enough of sunshine
And too many things are just
What I think they shouldn't be—
Catching trains and paying bills;
I'm headed for the country,
For a cabin in the hills.

I want to hear the birds sing
As I heard 'em long ago,
I want to hear a cricket,
Hear a hoot owl, see a crow;
I want to go away somewhere
To dodge a pace that kills—
I'm headed for the country,
For a cabin in the hills.

Michigan Swimmers Win, 70-14, Over Michigan State

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 20 [Special].—The University of Michigan swimming team tonight easily outclassed Michigan State to win, 70 to 14. The Wolverines placed first and second in each of the individual events as well as winning both the relays. One pool record was broken and two were threatened by members of the Wolverine team.

1 SKINNY POINT IS ALL WASHBURNE QUINTET CAN GET

Wells Runs Up 43, Where 2 Would Have Won.

Officials of the Chicago Public High school league were busy investigating basketball records last night in an attempt to discover the last time a team was held to one point in senior competition. The reason: in one of yesterday's west section games Wells triumphed, 43 to 1, over Washburne at Washburne.

The lone point was made after two minutes had been played in the first quarter and credit for saving the Washburne quintet from the sports embarrassment supreme—a basketball shutout—went to Bernas, a forward. After his successful free throw attempt Washburne fired shot after shot at the basket but couldn't connect, and the inaccuracy spread to the free throw line to the extent of 12 missed foul attempts.

The Schurz seniors and Hyde Park juniors triumphed yesterday to retain a chance of gaining the playoffs. Schurz whipped Taft, 40 to 13, and Hyde Park took a 24 to 20 decision from Fenger.

ST. PHILIP TRIUMPHS

St. Philip's seniors continued to hold their two game lead in the north section race of the Catholic High School league by turning back Loyola, 40 to 27, at Loyola last night. It was the eighth victory in nine games for St. Philip.

In the south section race Leo's chances of taking the title became brighter as De Paul was dealt a 36 to 29 setback by St. Rita. Leo drew a bye, while De Paul suffered its third defeat in 10 games.

St. Patrick whipped Fenwick, 40 to 29, for its 10th straight victory in the north section junior race, while Mount Carmel moved into a tie for first place with Leo in the south section by beating De La Salle, 34 to 22. Lineups:

64 Survive for Golden Gloves Bouts Tonight

the Stadium Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

Over the week-end these invaders will begin converging on Chicago. More than 300 fighters will be ready for the bell when the Tournament of Champions opens next Monday evening in the Stadium. Many followers of the sport might fear that Chicago's eight title holders might be lost in so huge an assemblage of boxing talent. The fans who watched the opening night's fights in the Coliseum think otherwise, however. They are confident that the boys who survive the series of engagements will constitute the strongest team that this city ever has sent into the Tournament of Champions.

Last night's bouts gave Chicago boxing fans their first look at open division fighters during the present Golden Gloves tournament. For two weeks the novices had entertained the spectators in a series of eliminations on the west, south, and north sides. They had given boxing fans samples of a few of the qualities which Golden Gloves tournaments bring out. They had shown fighting spirit, stamina and eagerness to win despite the fact that they lacked polish.

With the beginning of the all-Chicago tournament in the Coliseum, however, fans were treated to the next stage of the competition. In addition to fighting spirit and determination to win, they saw skillful technique, excellent ring generalship, efficient application of hitting power and the other attributes that go with first class boxing.

NORTH PARK AND LA SALLE WIN IN TOURNAMENT

La Salle and North Park won the opening games in the annual Illinois state junior college basketball tournament at Morton Junior college gymnasium in Cicero last night. La Salle defeated Herzl, 57 to 43, and North Park triumphed over Lisle, 49 to 26.

Two more first round contests will be played today. Morgan Park will oppose Maine at 7:30 o'clock and Wright will meet Springfield at 8:30.

NEW FIGHT OPENS TO SMASH BOOKIE WIRE IN 146 CITIES

William J. Campbell, United States attorney, disclosed yesterday that a bootleg racing information service is operating in 146 cities in 20 states and the District of Columbia. He said the service is in operation as the result of injunction proceedings pending in four cities.

The extent of the wire service was revealed when Campbell sent letters asking coöperation of the attorneys general of 20 states and the district attorney in the District of Columbia in fighting the injunction suits. He said Western Union would support the government in fighting the suits.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday suggested that attorneys for the Illinois Bell Telephone company and for State Senator Daniel Seritella get together outside of court in the senator's suit to prevent withdrawal of telephone service to his two racing publications. The Illinois Commerce Commission ordered the service cut off and Seritella has appealed from this order.

THREE BOWLERS GET 711 IN GOLD COAST LEAGUE

Adolph Carlson assaulted the pins for a 724 count on games of 265, 228, and 231 in Gold Coast Major league competition last night. Meanwhile two other league bowlers and one pinch hitter piled up 711 totals. They were George Miller of the Budweisers, Art Meier of the Gold Coasts, and Frank Jerzyk, who was substituting on the Oscar F. Nelson team.

Athletics Sign Pair; Holdout List Cut to Two

Anaheim, Cal., Feb. 20 (AP).—Connie Mack cut his holdout list to two today as Pitchers George Caster and Ed Heusser announced after brief conferences with the Athletics' manager they would sign contracts.

Caster, who lives in Long Beach, Cal., wanted only a few minor technicalities ironed out. Heusser, up from Memphis, Tenn., on his third major league trial, wanted a raise big enough to take care of increased living expenses.

Still holding out are Catcher Frank Hayes, who wants $15,000 instead of the $9,500 offered, and Pitcher Lynn Nelson, who also wants an increase on the basis of leading the A's staff in victories last season.

SUHR, HUGHES STILL OUT.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP).—Two infielders offer the only holdout problem to the Phillies, who entrain for spring training in Miami Beach, Fla., next Wednesday.

First Baseman Gus Suhr is still at odds with the club over salary, and Roy Hughes, who came to the Phillies last July 13 in a trade, is also reported seeking more money.

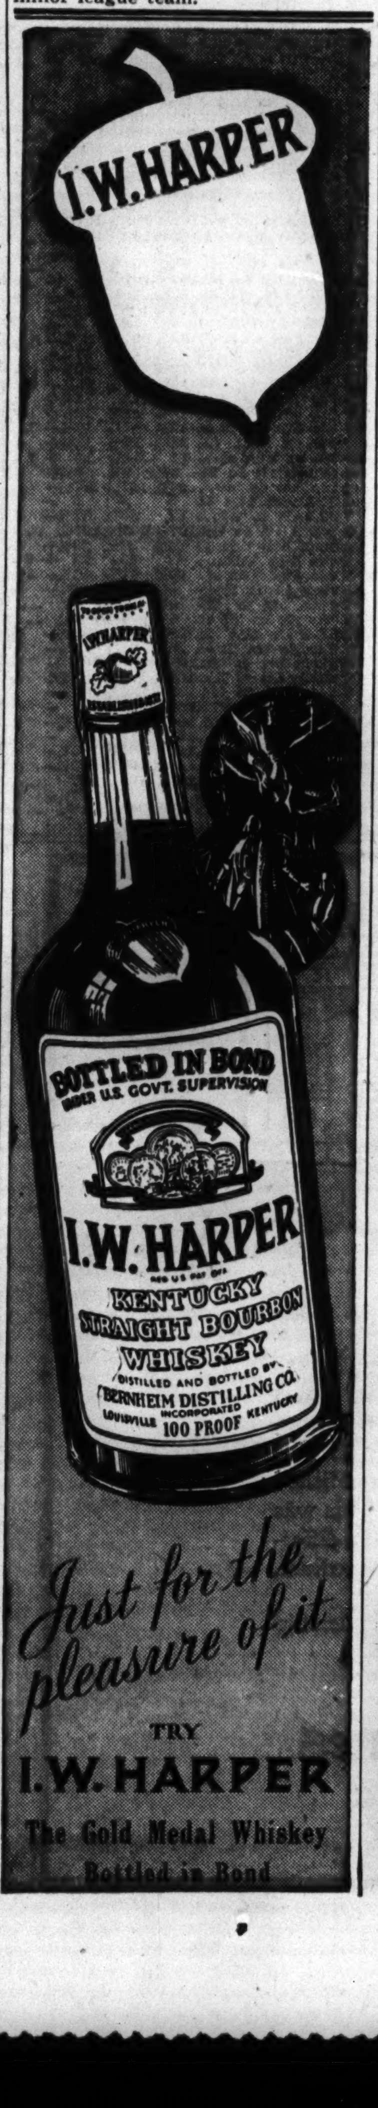
President Gerry Nugent indicated he has made both his best offer.

KLINGER IS SIGNED.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 20 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced today Pitcher Bob Klinger of Allentown, Mo., who led the club in both victories and defeats last season, has agreed to terms for 1940. Klinger won 14 and lost 17 last year.

DODGERS GET FARM.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 20 (AP).—The Montreal Royals of the International Baseball league tonight became the No. 1 farm club of the Brooklyn Dodgers when an agreement was signed giving the National league club a "substantial interest" in the minor league team.



Woodland Tests Shamrock Polo Team Saturday

With a chance to go into a tie for the lead in the Metropolitan Polo league four to six goal division, the Chicago Shamrocks will battle their toughest opponent to date, the Woodland Polo club, Saturday night in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

The divisional lead is held by the Ranchers, with four victories and no defeats. The Shamrocks likewise boast a clean slate, but have played one game less than the Ranchers.

On the basis of comparative scores against the same opponents, the Shamrocks and Woodland teams are evenly matched. The Shamrocks defeated Milwaukee, 13 to 4, and Culver, 13 to 6, while Woodland downed Milwaukee, 15 to 4, and Culver, 12 to 3.

THREE RETAIN TITLES IN GARY GOLDEN GLOVES

Flyweight—Johnny Tenorio beat Eugene Joyce [3].
Bantamweight—Jimmy Joyce beat Mitchell Walton [3].
Featherweight—Willie Jones beat Leonard Patten [3].
Lightweight—Robert Simmons beat George Sheppard [3].
Welterweight—Vernell Williams beat Charles Wells [3].
Middleweight—William Morton beat Al Capalby [3].
Light heavyweight—Charles Gregory beat Oscar Hamp [3].

PREP FIVES OPEN FIGHT FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

55 Centers Begin Meets Tonight.

The big drive toward the Illinois high school basketball championship got under way last night when contestants in five of the 60 district tournaments jumped the gun 24 hours. Sites of the early contests were in Carbondale, Bethany, Piper City and Wyanet.

Competition in the other 55 centers will start tonight. Schools of small enrollment, a total of 504, entered the district stage. Winners and runners-up in each area, and third place teams as well in five of them, will join 355 schools of larger enrollment in regional tourneys next week. Including 39 members of the Chicago Public School league exempt from tournament play, a record entry of 898 teams started in quest of the state title now held by Rockford.

Regional tournaments will reduce the field to 120 survivors for 15 sectional meets March 6 to 9, winners of which will join the Chicago champion in the state finals at Champaign, March 14 to 16.

District tournaments in the Chicago area will start tonight in Yorkville, Grant Park, Hebron, Wheaton, and Wauconda.

TOMORROW—Riverside vs. Bensenville. Hinsdale vs. Lemont.

CHICAGO FIRMS SHARE IN 1939 EARNINGS GAIN

Aetna Ball Bearing Net Reaches New Record.

Larger earnings were reported yesterday by numerous companies, including some Chicago and Illinois enterprises.

Aetna Ball Bearing Manufacturing company, Chicago manufacturer serving the automotive industry, reported record earnings for 1939. Its profit was $245,478, equal to $2.02 a share, against $69,483, or 57 cents a share, in 1938.

Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, Ill., issued a statement covering January and the 12 months ended Jan. 31. January profit rose to $445,504 from $259,377 in the 1939 month. For the 12 months, earnings were $6,191,017, against $3,318,360.

Sales Rise Substantially.

Sales in the 12 months totaled $59,134,788, compared with $49,056,812 in the preceding 12 months. Federal taxes rose to $1,718,099, for the period, from $1,229,040.

Athey Truss Wheel company, Chicago maker of crawler or tracklaying wheels for heavy load carrying trailers and wagons, had net income of $132,690 last year, equal to 89 cents a share. In the preceding year profit was $60,935, or 41 cents a share.

Underwood Elliott Fisher company, of New York, manufacturer of office equipment, announced 1939 net earnings of $1,857,080, equal to $2.53 a common share, compared with $1,767,596, of $2.41 a share, in 1938.

HARDWARE.

A hardware salesman tells me that Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. made more money last year than in 1938. I think I would like to invest in the company's stock, listed on the Chicago Stock exchange. Can you furnish me with some information on which I can base a decision?—A. F.

Answer: Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co. is one of the principal wholesale dealers in hardware in the United States. It distributes to retail stores and to factories a variety of hardware, tools, paints, plumbing, heating, and electrical supplies and household goods. The business was founded in 1855, but the present company was incorporated in 1911.

The hardware firm has operated profitably in recent years, except in 1932. Earnings recovered gradually from depression influences until 1937, when net profit was the highest since 1929. In 1938 earnings again slumped, but the downward trend was reversed in 1939.

1935	$376,576	$2.21	$2.00
1936	736,036	4.33	3.25
1937	881,488	4.47	3.50
1938	383,878	1.94	2.00
1939	601,862	3.01	3.00

The company is now paying regular monthly dividends of 15 cents each on the 200,000 shares of $25 par capital stock. Dividends have been disbursed on the capital stock in each year since 1922.

The balance sheet at the end of 1939 showed current assets of $6,855,657 against current liabilities of $939,406. The company's capitalization consists solely of the capital stock.

RENTS ONE-HALF.

I own a two apartment building. I rent one and occupy the other. Last summer I remodeled my apartment at a cost of $2,000. Can I deduct in my income tax return the cost of alterations, depreciation on the building, wages of the janitor, and fire insurance premiums?—W. T. S.

Answer: You are permitted to deduct that portion of the expenses of operating the building which are incurred in maintaining the rented apartment, but you may not deduct the expenses of your own apartment. You are allowed, therefore, one-half of fire insurance premiums, of janitor's wages, and of depreciation as deductions from rent receipts. Taxes and interest paid on any mortgage on the property are entirely deductible.

Depreciation each year on a brick building is computed at 2 per cent of the cost of the building. The cost of remodeling your apartment would be treated as an addition to the cost of the building and would increase your depreciation allowance by $20.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Price gains were registered in practically all classes of cattle and sheep yesterday. Some kinds reached the highest levels in several months. Demand was broad at the advanced rates, despite the fact that meat from these animals is costing consumers far more than any of the pork cuts.

A new eight months' peak of $12.75 was established in the cattle market when 23 fancy yearling steers averaging 985 pounds brought this price.

A rise of 25 to 50 cents carried lamb prices to the highest point in four months. Top loads reached $9.85, the highest price since last October.

Altho the top for hogs was off 5 cents for the day, at $5.60, the general trade ruled strong to 10 cents higher, with the average moving up 5 cents, to $5.20.

INSURANCE SALES DECLINE.

New paid-for life insurance in January totaled $653,156,000, a decrease of 10.5 per cent from $729,937,000 in the corresponding month last year, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents announces. The report was based on figures of 40 companies having 82 per cent of the life insurance outstanding in all United States legal reserve companies.

More banks—in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis and other cities advertise in The New York Times than advertise in any other newspaper. In 1939—a year far from "normal"—The Times published 266,321 lines of bank display advertising. This was an average of 49 advertisements per month, a difference of 40 per cent over any other similar medium.

THE REASON? A large and responsive readership among business executives.

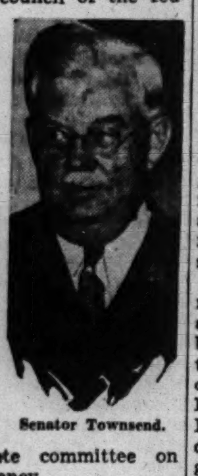
ABANDON SILVER BUYING, RESERVE GROUP DEMANDS

Bankers See Danger of Inflation.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The federal advisory council of the federal reserve system today recommended immediate repeal of the administration's program for buying foreign silver.



Senator Townsend.

The council, which advises the federal reserve board on banking, economic, and business policies, made its recommendation in the form of a resolution which it instructed the board to transmit to the senate committee on banking and currency.

The council supported a bill introduced by Senator John G. Townsend Jr. [R., Del.] and now under consideration by the senate committee. This bill calls for repeal of the silver buying program on the ground that it is a direct subsidy to foreign governments, especially Mexico, which is borne by American taxpayers.

Demand End of Program.

The council took account of the Townsend bill and adopted this resolution:

"The council is unanimously of the opinion that these purchases of foreign silver should be discontinued forthwith, particularly in view of the fact that silver purchases increase the already excessively large bank reserves."

Excess-bank reserves now amount to more than 5½ billion dollars. Senator Townsend commented yesterday that the treasury's unutilized nest egg of 1 billion 230 million ounces of silver is a potential base for inflationary spending.

Senator Townsend's bill had been reported favorably by a subcommittee of the senate banking and currency committee in January. The full committee was about ready to report the bill favorably when Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley called upon the treasury and state departments to voice their opposition to it. He got this assistance promptly and requested the committee to delay action on the ground President Roosevelt is opposed to its passage. He asked more time for consultation with officials of the two departments and the committee agreed.

Subsidy for Communist Régime.

The silver program creates a subsidy for the communistic Cardenas régime in Mexico, according to Townsend, who has also harpooned the administration on its purchases of Russian gold while pretending to help Finland.

"The United States treasury statement for Feb. 9 shows this unutilized nest egg now amounts to 1,230,000,000 ounces of silver, against which, at the 'monetary value' of $1.29 plus per ounce, the treasury may issue nearly 1 billion 600 million dollars of currency overnight," Senator Townsend said in his latest blast against the program.

"Every ounce of foreign silver now being bought under the 1934 silver purchase act simply increases that nest egg. The program is wasteful, futile, and dangerous."

Gift Reaches 100 Millions.

From 1934 to 1939, Senator Townsend declared, Mexico produced silver for which it received approximately $220,000,000 from the United States. Between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000 of this amount represented an outright gift, he said.

Foreign silver purchases totaling $941,100,000 have been made since the passage in 1934 of an act directing the treasury to buy silver wherever available until the market price reached $1.29 an ounce, or until the treasury owned one dollar of silver for every three dollars of gold. Both goals are far from achievement. The present market value is 35 cents an ounce, altho the average cost to the treasury has been 52 cents. The nation's monetary stock amounts to 17.6 per cent instead of the goal of 25 per cent.

The proposed ban has no connection with purchases of silver mined in this country, which congress has separately ordered the treasury to buy at 71.11 cents an ounce.

Eccles Terms Hoard Worthless.

The council's action hit a responsive chord in the chairman of the federal reserve board, Marriner S. Eccles, who has told congress that the silver accumulations are virtually worthless from a monetary standpoint.

The council acted on the silver issue while discussing business conditions and pending legislation at its annual organization meeting. Edward Eagle Brown, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, was elected president of the council. Walter Lichtenstein, also of Chicago, was reappointed secretary. Howard A. Loeb, chairman of the Tradesmen's National Bank and Trust company, Philadelphia, was reëlected vice president.

The administration has also been accused in the past of violating its neutrality by wielding the silver stick against certain belligerents. It was accused of siding with the former Loyalist, or Red government in Spain and with China in its war with Japan by providing credits in each case thru

Chicago Plane Firm Planned Thru Merger

Plans for the establishment in Chicago of a manufacturing company to build small pleasure or commercial airplanes were discussed here yesterday by representatives of an eastern banking group, several Chicago business men, and officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce, it was learned last night.

According to reports of the conference the eastern group proposed a merger of six small airplane manufacturers already in operation. An alternate program calls for uniting these companies under a holding corporation similar, altho on a smaller scale, to United Aircraft or Curtiss-Wright corporation.

Seek Aid of Bankers.

The conference concerned the possibility of obtaining assistance of Chicago bankers in a refinancing program. The subject of a possible site for a Chicago factory also was raised, and is to be discussed at further conferences here this week, it was understood.

Association of Commerce officials refused to name all six companies approached in the proposed merger but they said the Monocoupe corporation of St. Louis, Mo., was one. This corporation must leave its plant on Lambert field at Robertson, Mo., on March 31. Clare Bunch, its president, has indicated he views the merger proposals favorably, it was reported.

The company for more than ten years has built a two-seater monoplane which experts have praised for its high quality and excellent performance. During the last six months a new sales program was undertaken. A production schedule calling for twice the number of ships built in 1939, has been set up for 1940.

St. Louis Plant Sold.

The company has sold its St. Louis factory to the McDonnell Aircraft corporation. The latter organization, headed by J. S. McDonnell, formerly a top engineer for the Glenn L. Martin company of Baltimore, is to begin manufacturing military planes in the 36,000 square foot plant.

Association of Commerce activities toward luring light plane manufacturers to Chicago follows suggestions made by Dennis Mulligan, former official of the old bureau of air commerce, in a survey completed on Feb. 5. Mulligan declared this field offered the best possibilities for the stimulation of aircraft production in Chicago.

It was understood that representatives at yesterday's conference included several from Porterfield Aircraft corporation, Kansas City, the Taylor-Young Airplane company, Alliance, O., and the Dart Manufacturing corporation of Columbus, O.

HOPSON VALUES HIS TIME HIGHLY: AT $250 A DAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Figures on practices and fees of utility service systems operated by Howard C. Hopson and others were presented to the federal power commission today at a hearing on charges levied against Pennsylvania subsidiaries of Associated Gas and Electric company by the service organizations.

Commission officials said the Hopson service companies collected in excess of $19,500,000 from operating companies of the Associated Gas system between 1929 and 1938, and that almost $7,000,000 represented profit.

Between 1934 and 1938, they said, Hopson billed his time at $428,000, or $250 a day.

Whiteford Resigns Post.

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—Roger J. Whiteford has submitted his resignation as president of Associated Gas and Electric company, it was announced today. Whiteford succeeded John I. Mange in the office less than a month before the utility filed its recent petition in federal court to reorganize. Whiteford had been proposed by the directors as trustee under the reorganization. No trustees have yet been appointed.

REPORT MEXICO, SINCLAIR NEAR OIL GRAB TERMS

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20 (AP).—A high government official announced tonight that Mexico and Sinclair Oil interests were near agreement on terms for full payment for the company's extensive Mexican holdings, which were expropriated in 1938 and which the official said were worth about $6,000,000.

By attempting individual settlements with some of the 17 foreign companies whose properties were expropriated, instead of pressing for a general settlement, Mexico is trying a new strategy in the long controversy.

The officials said the dispute would be settled, so far as Sinclair and Mexico are concerned, if the deal goes thru, and that individual settlements would be sought next with Cities Service and Standard Oil.

"Prompt and effective" payment of about $6,000,000 for the four Sinclair subsidiaries has been agreed upon by Mexico, it was reported, and Sinclair has agreed to end its participation in the boycott of the Mexican Petroleum administration.

January Air Travel Gains 60.9 Pct. Over Year Ago

The number of revenue passenger miles flown in January by domestic air lines was 60.9 per cent larger than the mileage for the first month of 1939, Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transport association, announced yesterday. Last month's figure was 55,441,672, which compared with 34,457,270 in January, 1939. The January, 1940, figure was 14.74 per cent less than the 65,024,044 reported for December.

IRON FIRM WILL BUY POWER AT BONNEVILLE DAM

New Concern Signs Big Contract.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—The Sierra Iron company of Nevada, second major metal producing industry to use the government's Columbia river hydro-electric energy, entered a $10,000,000 contract today with the Bonneville Power administration at Portland, Ore.

The company, a new venture financed by Seattle business men, contemplates the purchase of 30,000 kilowatts of constant power within two years and each year thereafter for a total of 20 years at an annual revenue of $500,000 to the federal government.

Start Plant at Once.

Officials here said the company would build a plant at Vancouver, Wash., to manufacture pig iron, steel, and steel alloys from native ores. Plant construction, they said, will begin at once with a view to starting production by May 1. The iron company contract brought to $20,000,000 the income which Bonneville anticipates within the next 20 years from industrial clients now purchasing power.

On Dec. 26, 1939, the Aluminum Company of America, Pittsburgh, Pa., contracted for 32,500 kilowatts of electric energy generated at Bonneville dam to be used over a 20 year period at a total income to the government of $10,000,000.

The aluminum company proposes to invest several million dollars in a plant at Vancouver to purify native aluminum ore and to reduce it to metal by electrolysis.

Industry Moved by Power.

Officials said the two contracts bore out President Roosevelt's forecast that new industry would move to the vast power sources of the northwest.

The iron company, government spokesmen said, will market its product on the Pacific coast. They added that there would be a financial advantage in the saving of transcontinental shipping rates and in the cheaper cost of electric power compared with the cost of coke used in eastern blast furnaces.

Officials here said they believed the two contracts would be followed by others which would result in development of the industrial potentialities of the Pacific coast area.

N. Y. FIRMS SHARE IN UNDERWRITING BUSINESS CUT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—Investment houses outside of New York captured a major portion of the securities underwriting business during the fourth quarter of 1939 when several midwestern firms made a determined fight for a larger share.

The Securities and Exchange commission reported today that 34 issues totaling $210,895,000 were offered for sale during this period of the total, 52 per cent was handled by 99 firms outside New York and the remainder by 45 New York companies.

Securities totaling $467,333,000 were underwritten in the third quarter, when 63 New York firms had 67.5 per cent of the participation and 155 other concerns had the remainder.

The campaign of middle western houses for greater participation came to public attention when Otis & Co., Cleveland, and other firms sought to intervene in a hearing on a proposed bond and stock issue by Consumers Power company, Jackson, Mich.

ILLINOIS BOOSTS OIL OUTPUT TO SET NEW RECORD

Advancing another stride toward third place in national petroleum production, Illinois shattered two state records last week with a daily output of 407,483 barrels and initial production of 59,848 barrels in 45 completions, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

The state's production recorded a sensational increase of 20,566 barrels per day over the preceding week. It now ranks only 22,000 barrels per day less than that of Oklahoma, the third largest producing state. During the preceding week Oklahoma had led Illinois by 44,000 barrels daily. Texas and California are first and second, respectively.

AM. TELEPHONE USES BIG SUM ON 'LONG DISTANCE'

Approximately $18,000,000—the largest program since 1931—will be spent by the American Telephone and Telegraph company in 1940 on "long distance" construction, officials of the company announced yesterday.

Part of the proposed construction will include instalment of carrier systems which can handle twelve private conversations on one set of telephone wires at the same time. Other plans call for the extension of cable networks.

Six of the "twelve on one" systems will be installed between Chicago and Milwaukee. Other instalments scheduled call for cables between Stevens Point, Wis., and Minneapolis, and between Fort Wayne and La Grange, Ind., officials said.

Canada Halts Pork Buying in United States

Canadian packers, chain stores and other dominion importers of American pork have made a "gentleman's agreement" to quit buying the United States product temporarily, Chicago packers reported yesterday. The action, it was said, will take effect at the expiration of present contracts, which were reported to have been filled in most cases.

It was understood that the reason for the move was that British storage facilities are clogged with Canadian pork accumulated under the war buying program and that Canadian storage plants are filled with meat, partly of American origin. Canada has been selling its own pork to England and buying United States hog carcasses to meet home needs.

Hog Market Not Affected.

Altho the Canadian move to curb pork imports will mean the loss of some business for American producers, the live stock market at Chicago yesterday gave no evidence of concern. On the contrary, prices advanced. Many American packers were reported to have grown skeptical of the value of the Canadian business.

Some Chicago packers who have contracts with the dominion or are otherwise in close touch with the situation report that Canadian negotiators have driven sharp bargains and made strict demands as to the type of carcasses to be shipped. For these reasons, the American suppliers have made little or no profit and have ceased to care much about the Canadian business, according to information available at the stockyards.

Demand Light Carcasses.

Canadian negotiators demand the carcass of a hog that weighs 160 to 210 pounds on a live weight basis. The head and feet of the carcass are removed, and the two halves of the hog are made into what the Canadian trade calls Wiltshire sides.

In December Canada bought about 5,000,000 pounds of American pork. This outlet, compared with the United States December pork production of 732,000,000 pounds, is considered by packers to be relatively unimportant.

One factor, which has caused much discussion in this country, is Canada's policy of paying for the American pork on the basis of American live hog prices, which are much lower than those in Canada. Late last week the top prices of hogs in Canada ranged from $8.80 to $9.90 a hundred pounds, depending on market location. At the same time the top prices in the United States were $5.00 to $6.15.

Restrict Live Hog Imports.

Despite this disparity, American hogs cannot be shipped into Canada to level off prices. Canadian restrictions on imports of live hogs are too severe, packers say, to make such shipments practicable.

Canada is able to maintain the price disparity because of the high prices guaranteed for Canadian meat by the British government in the war supply agreement. Britain contracted to take all of the pork Canada could supply at prices calculated to encourage Canadian farmers to increase hog production.

MARCH WILL COME IN LIKE A LION WHEN IT COMES TO TAXES

A schedule of dates in March on which returns for various federal, state, and county taxes become due was issued yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association. The list follows:

March 1.—First instalment of 1939 real estate taxes and all of the 1939 personal property taxes become delinquent and bear interest.

March 15.—Last day to file corporation income and excess profits tax returns for corporations on calendar year basis. One-fourth of tax must be paid by this date. Form 1120.

March 15.—Last day to file individuals' income tax returns, and those for partnerships and fiduciaries for calendar year. Fourth of tax due. Forms 1040 and 1040A for individuals, 1065 for partnerships and 1041 for fiduciaries.

WHEAT SURGES AHEAD ON WILD WAVE OF BUYING

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.04¼	$1.02⅝	$0.68⅝
Corn	.57¼	.56⅝	.50
Oats	.41⅛	.40⅝	.29¼
Rye	.69¼	.68⅝	.45⅝
Soy beans	1.09	1.08	.82⅞

Frenzied trading in the last 15 minutes of the session whirled wheat prices up 5 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, but a sudden setback trimmed the gains to 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents at the close.

The tornado of activity struck the pit after the market had wabbled indecisively most of the day. Brokers had no explanation for the behavior of wheat that could be based on news except that possibly the intensified warfare at sea had something to do with it.

Price changes were so violent that brokers were unable to keep up with the market. There was a difference of more than 1 cent a bushel in prices in various parts of the wheat pit at times, brokers said.

Corn and other grains followed wheat in a reluctant manner. Corn closed ⅝ to ½ cent higher, and oats finished unchanged to ¼ cent higher. May oats sold at 41¼ cents at one time, equaling the seasonal high price. Rye advanced ⅝ to ⅞ cent and soy beans closed 1 cent higher.

Grain Exchange Expels E. C. Kimball, Wheat Broker

Elmer C. Kimball, wheat broker on the Chicago Board of Trade, was expelled from membership yesterday, effective at the close of business Friday. He is said to have been accused of irregularities in trading operations. Kimball joined the exchange in 1918.

Stocks Whirl Up; New War Boom Visioned

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—Eager buyers snatched up 100,000 shares of stock in the last 15 minutes of the market session today and established plus signs all over the "big board," where declines had previously predominated.

The freak rush of orders changed the erstwhile drowsiness of the stock exchange floor into sudden pandemonium, and the ticker tape kept on turning out quotations well after the final bell had sounded. Transactions totaled 807,860 shares, compared with 633,410 yesterday.

Prices Climb in Last Hour.

Share prices were off at the opening and steadily grew worse as dealings progressed. Then, with an hour to go, losses in metals were erased by a thin stream of buying. The stream widened, and the metals rose around a point above their previous close. Then steels joined the movement, and the rush was on.

Commentators called the quick lift "war inspired." They reasoned that the market had been holding fairly firm during the last week despite a decline in industrial activity characterized particularly by slipping steel production. These depressing factors, they said, ordinarily would produce definite slumps in stock prices. But the quotations held.

Foresee Spreading of War.

Today, however, evidently on indications of a further spread in the European theaters of war, the price of the significant metal, copper, was raised ¼ cent a pound. Buyers, suspecting foreign orders for the metal companies, quickly started buying their securities.

Leaders in the upward surge of shares were Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Phelps-Dodge, United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Bendix, Allied Chemical, Pennsylvania railroad, New York Central, and Western Union.

Joining these was a group, mainly specialties, which set new highs for the year. It included Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, Canada Dry, Colgate, Twin Coach, Thompson Products, and Pathé.

London Market Higher.

LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP). — Sharp gains in government bonds and higher priced industrial leaders stimulated demand in other sections of the securities exchange today. Buying was apparently encouraged by prospects of reinvestment of money realized by sale of government requisitioned American stocks.

Markets to Have Holiday on Washington's Birthday

Most security and commodity markets in the United States will be closed tomorrow in observance of Washington's birthday. Banks also will observe the holiday. Live stock markets will remain open.

Honor 'Modern Pioneers' for Achievements

Chicago last night paid tribute to sixty "modern pioneers" whose ventures across industrial and scientific frontiers resulted in inventions and industrial improvements that have made America a better place in which to live. Their achievements have created new jobs for thousands, ended back breaking toil, relieved sickness, and made life more pleasant in many ways.

G. A. Hughes, one of sixty "modern pioneers" honored at dinner.

The occasion was a dinner at the Palmer House sponsored by Armour institute, the National Association of Manufacturers, the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, and the Illinois Manufacturers' association. More than 1,200 persons attended.

New Type of Pioneers.

Speakers said that just as earlier pioneers won the west in the hope of improving their positions in life so these modern pioneers spent long hours and hard study to devise new methods to improve the lives of their generations. Altho personal profit was the incentive, the entire nation benefited thru their discoveries, the speakers said.

Now the New Deal is attempting to take away the profit incentive, they declared, by shackling the American patent system and thus depriving inventors of the fruits of their efforts. Robert L. Lund, St. Louis, executive vice president of the Lambert Pharmacal company, asserted that if the patent system is destroyed American research and invention may be stopped.

James D. Cunningham, president of the Republic Flow Meters company, Chicago, read the roll call of scientists and inventors who live in Chicago and suburbs and at nearby Wisconsin points. Similar dinners honoring other inventors are being held in various other cities.

Lists Typical Achievements.

Among the group whose achievements are typical of others were the following:

Joseph G. Alther, vice president, Universal Oil Products company; who was born in Chicago and left school at 14 to go to work. He invented the "equiflux furnace," used to make better gasoline. In the last few years this device has been adopted thruout the petroleum industry, saving large sums annually.

Joseph S. Duncan, retired, who in 1893 invented the first addressograph, and who later developed billing and office devices.

Alfred L. Eustice, president of the Economy Fuse and Manufacturing company, whose improved fuses have ended danger of fire resulting from the overloading of electric circuits.

Morris S. Kharash, University of Chicago, whose ergonovine has minimized the dangers of child bearing.

Honored for Teletype.

William B. Newkirk, Corn Products Refining company, who developed a new process for making dextrose from corn. About 1,000,000 pounds of the product are produced daily, providing a new market for farmers.

Ernest H. Volwiler, Abbott Laboratories, whose butyn is used to alleviate the pain of burns.

Lund said that one-fourth of all the persons now employed hold jobs depending on industries unknown in 1870, that more than 100,000 new products were created between 1900 and 1930 and that since 1900 the number of persons employed in manufacturing has doubled.

If we are to continue our progress, he declared, we must preserve incentives for research and invention and make sure that the patent system does not suffer the fate that has overtaken other lines of American enterprise.

EXPERTS SEEK WAYS TO BOOST FOREIGN TRADE

Term South America Promising Field.

Five hundred executives of middle western companies responsible for the foreign trade activities of their companies met at the Stevens hotel yesterday to discuss mutual problems and to hear advice on foreign trade from authorities on the subject from all over the nation. The occasion was the annual Chicago World Trade conference sponsored jointly by the Chicago Association of Comerce and the Export Managers Club of Chicago.

Company representatives were present from Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Milwaukee, and other cities thruout the middle west.

Discuss Three Vital Subjects.

Subjects discussed covered a wide range, but the three big topics were:

1. Foreign trade and the war in Europe.
2. American trade possibilities in Latin America.
3. The reciprocal trade treaties.

Commenting on trade with British empire countries, J. D. Fletcher, export manager for the Caterpillar Tractor company, Peoria, declared the war raises many uncertainties for this group which has been among our best customers and also among our keenest competitors.

Britain, he said, announced that it proposed to go after Germany's foreign trade lost as a result of the war. This country has the same determination. However, if hostilities are intensified Britain doubtless will be forced away from normal business to enterprises connected with munitions and supplies that will help carry on the war.

Britain to Increase Buying.

"If the war starts on a large scale," Fletcher continued, "Britain may find it necessary to call on us not only for war materials, but manufactured goods of all types and eventually, in the event of a shortage of man power in Europe, for agricultural products.

"Naturally Britain can buy in this market only as long as she can obtain dollars. This ability is one of the most important factors in considering what future trade can be expected from the United Kingdom and the British empire. If the supply of dollars becomes dissipated, where can Britain look for relief? Will our legislation be changed to enable the making of loans to the allied nations? No one can now venture even a weak opinion on this subject."

Henry L. Metz of the Addressograph-Multigraph corporation, Cleveland, and Max Hofmann, Waukesha Motor company, Waukesha, Wis., discussed trade opportunities in the South American nations.

Venezuela a Good Customer.

Metz said that Venezuela already has given the United States No. 1 place in its purchases. A favorable fact is a "healthy two-way trade between the two countries, backed by a reciprocal trade agreement and combined with a continuing world demand, on a cash basis, for those of Venezuela's surpluses which cannot be absorbed by her chief suppliers," he said.

Brazil offers great possibilities for American trade, particularly in rubber, he said. Uruguay, he said, does not offer bright prospects.

Argentina has a big market, but there the competition is keen from all over the world, Metz asserted. Quality is America's best weapon, he said, because Argentina prefers United States goods to those of other nations.

Altho Chile has a serious problem in its depreciated currency, it seems inevitable that the nation will have to buy from the United States machinery and other products formerly purchased from Europe, Hoffman said.

Little Prospects in Paraguay.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 20 (AP).—A last minute pickup in buying of rail issues pulled the bond market out of an irregularly lower trend today. At the finish fractional gains were liberally sprinkled thru the list and forenoon improvement of a point or more in some favored issues was extended.

Outstanding performers included St. Louis-San Francisco 5s, 4½s, and 4s, up ¼ to a full point on large sales; Marion Steam Shovel 6s, up 6; Colorado & Southern 4½s, up 1; Kansas City, Ft. Scott and Memphis 4s, up 1⅝; Norway 4½s, up 1⅞, and Helsingfors 6½s, up 3⅛.

Some of the recently buoyant New York City tractions ran into red signals and backed up for sizable net losses. Among these were Brooklyn-Queens City and Suburban 5s, off 5 points.

United States government issues rarely appeared on the tape and the few that did, changed hands at 3-32 of a point higher to that much lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Aetna Ball Bearing shares rose ⅜ point to a new 1939-'40 peak of 13⅞ on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on announcement that the company's 1939 earnings were the largest in its history. A total of 200 shares of the stock changed hands. Sundstrand Machine Tool also climbed to a new 1939-'40 high level of 18⅛ for a gain of 1⅛ points. Declines predominated in the rest of the list.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago Title and Trust and First National shares each advanced a point yesterday in bank stock trading to closing bids of 120 and 243, respectively. Continental Illinois shares moved up ½ point to 89 and City National dropped 1 to 112.

COTTON

Trading in cotton futures yesterday was fairly active within a narrow range of prices. Selling attributed to Bombay caused a small decline in early trading, but this was offset later by buying by mills. Closing trades were .04 cent higher to .01 cent a pound lower.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .01 cent higher with New York, 11.19 cents; New Orleans, 10.92 cents; Houston, 10.78 cents, and Galveston at 10.69 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Commodities

Copper futures rose about 0.2 cent a pound yesterday after leading producers had hoisted spot quotations ½ cent a pound to 11½ cents, delivered in the Connecticut valley. The cash price was forced up by active buying on the part of domestic and foreign interests, traders said.

The spot price increase was the first since copper began receding from the 12½ cent level reached at the height of the war buying rush last fall. The price of scrap copper was raised Monday.

Prices of other commodities followed diverse trends. World sugar futures climbed, all months except March reaching the highest levels of the year and closing 0.02 to 0.025 cent a pound higher. Traders said prospects of more violent naval warfare and increased shipping losses influenced the sugar market. Domestic futures also gained.

Santos coffee futures were the liveliest in months, but late gains were not sufficient to cancel all of the earlier declines and closing quotations were mixed.

Rubber futures were weak. The international rubber regulation committee at London fixed the export quota from producing areas at 80 per cent of the standard tonnage for April, May, and June, the same as the quota for the current quarter. The action was in line with expectations in the trade.

ASK NEW YORK REDUCE STOCK TRANSFER TAX

Business Groups Warn of Dwindling Trading.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20 [Special].—Influential civic and business organizations joined New York Stock exchange officials today in urging passage of a bill to reduce New York's stock transfer tax.

Robert P. Boylan assails transfer tax.

Dwindling business on the stock exchange and a sharp increase in trading of New York-listed stocks on exchanges in Chicago and other major cities has brought the issue to a head.

The Merchants' association of New York told a joint hearing of the senate and assembly tax committees that the tax should be lightened to forestall the possibility that "one of the greatest business assets in the state would wither away, or in desperation move out as a matter of sheer self-preservation."

George McCaffrey, merchant spokesman, added that the exchange is important "to the whole social and economic welfare of the state."

Propose Lower Tax Schedule.

The bill pending would eliminate double taxation of odd lots [deals of less than 100 shares in most stocks] and impose taxes as follows: One cent for each share sold under $10, 2 cents per share selling from $10 to $50, and 3 cents a share at prices over $50 a share. The present tax is 3 cents a share up to $20 and 4 cents a share on all higher priced stock.

The proposed tax reduction will cost the state an estimated $7,000,000 a year in revenue. Revenues from the ta xdeclined from $34,385,000 in 1936 to $17,774,000 in 1939.

An estimated $1,500,000 further annual cut would result from an amendment proposed by the merchants' association and supported by the New York Curb exchange.

Proposal of Curb Exchange.

This change would make the tax only one-tenth of 1 cent a share on stocks selling for $1 or less and ½ cent on shares selling for $1 to $5.

Robert P. Boylan, chairman of the exchange's special tax committee, cited as proof of the need for tax reduction the fact that trading in securities listed on the "big board" rose from 29 per cent of total volume of eight other major exchanges in 1937 to 52 per cent in 1939.

Boylan, a former president of the Chicago Board of Trade, added that exchanges outside New York state did an odd-lot volume approximately 12 per cent of that of the "big board" in 1937, and that the figure had jumped to 23 per cent by 1939.

A petition bearing 54,000 signatures was presented by Albert C. Beeson, chairman of the employés committee of lower Manhattan, in urging the tax revision. He presented one with 52,496 names last week. He said figures available show a 27 per cent drop in employment at exchange member firms from 51,740 on Jan. 1, 1937, to 37,848 last Sept. 1.

U. S. CHROMIUM STOCK SELLING BANNED BY SEC

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission issued an order today terminating registration of 40,000 shares of common stock of United States Chromium, Inc., on the ground that misrepresentations had been made concerning the company's operating costs and the value of its property.

"The registration statement in this proceeding," the commission said, "exhibits such shocking indefference to the interests of investors that any course less drastic than the issuance of a stop-order and opinion would be improper."

Registration of the stock became effective April 3, 1939, and the SEC began an examination of the statement the same day. The commission said that the principal witness for the company had been its promoter and president, William Mark Muchow, an Evanston, Ill., dentist whom the SEC examiner said had "demonstrated himself to be a thoroly unreliable and untrustworthy witness."

OPERATING NET UP FOR SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

Net operating income of the Southern Pacific railroad for January was $1,445,326, compared with $935,850 in January, 1939, the road reported yesterday. Net operating income is income before provision for fixed charges.

Chicago Hearing in Cargill Grain Case Is Completed

The department of agriculture yesterday completed the presentation of the evidence which it will offer in Chicago in the hearings on charges that Cargill, Inc., big Minneapolis grain concern, violated the commodity exchange act in the "corn squeeze" of September, 1937. The case was continued to some future date, probably in Minneapolis, to allow cross-examination of William T. Buster, government witness, who is now ill.

C. & O. RAIL FACTIONS AVOID FIGHT; CHOOSE BOARD UNANIMOUSLY

Richmond, Va., Feb. 20 (AP).—Directors of Chesapeake and Ohio railway today unanimously nominated all directors except Chairman Herbert Fitzpatrick for reëlection at the road's annual meeting April 23, and voted to add three members to the board.

This action was announced by President George D. Brooke, who explained Fitzpatrick previously had announced his intention to retire from active service April 15.

Nominated for the additional board places were three New Yorkers—Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers Trust company; Harry C. Thompson, vice president of the Continental Bank and Trust company, and James G. Blaine, president of the Marine Midland Bank company.

The announcement that the action was unanimous evidently marked a compromise between part of the directorate and Director Robert R. Young, chairman of Alleghany corporation, the holding corporation having nominal control of C. & O.

"It is believed the election of this board will assure the continuation of the present management," Brooke said.

daily wage of 25 cents, offers little promise for United States exporters, and Bolivia offers but a limited market, Hoffman added. He commented on the confiscation of the Bolivian properties of an American petroleum producer.

Peru was described as an important market for American goods and Colombia, where industry has been stimulated by oil development, was listed as one of the best markets. Hoffman held out little hope for the development of substantial trade with Ecuador.

Grady Defends Treaties.

Henry F. Grady, assistant secretary of state, last night appealed for a three year extension of the trade agreements act, explaining that the neutrality of the United States "increases our responsibility for timely leadership" in the direction of "enlightened commercial policies."

"The fact that war, the natural outgrowth of economic nationalism, was not averted demonstrates the desperate need in the world for the general adoption of such policies," he said.

"A program encouraging the maintenance of normal trade outlets will serve to minimize the economic dislocations resulting from war and reduce the scope of economic reconstruction necessary after the war is over."

Clifton M. Utley, director of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, declared the reciprocal trade treaties ultimately should afford one of the best defenses for the capitalistic system. Because democracy, or capitalism, to flourish needs a world at peace, trade treaties offer means for promoting peace, he said. Altho some individuals or interests may be injured, the nation as a whole should benefit in a majority of cases, Utley said.

Trade Barriers Criticized.

John Abbink, president of the Business Publishers International corporation, New York, said the nation must realize that the removal of trade barriers—which does not always mean the lowering of tariffs—would result in putting our idle men and gold to work. Abbink said he had talked with agricultural men who favored the reciprocal trade treaties notwithstanding reports that their farm associations opposed them.

The United States must get its share of trade with hundreds of millions of people in non-combant nations who require goods of all kinds, Abbink declared.

WILSON PACKING TRADE IMPROVES OVER YEAR AGO

Business in the first quarter of the fiscal year of Wilson & Co., Chicago packing company, showed a gain over that of the corresponding period of the preceding year, Edward Foss Wilson, president, said yesterday at the annual stockholders' meeting. The price level on most items was lower, but the tonnage was sufficiently larger to increase dollar volume, he said.

Discussing the dividend outlook, he said no dividends can be paid on the common stock until accumulations on the preferred have been wiped out. These now amount to $8 a share.

Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board and father of the president, said the company's prospects this year are good. He said it has been benefitting from the war thru sales of substantial amounts of meat, principally beef, by the South American plants to Britain.

Cincinnati Company Will Raze Great Northern Hotel

The Cleveland Wrecking company of Cincinnati, O., has been given the contract by the Marshall Field estate to raze the Great Northern hotel, it was learned yesterday. The company already has taken possession but will not start wrecking until the Pick Hotel company has moved out all equipment. The contract provides that the wrecking job be completed within ninety days. The bid made by the out of town concern was not disclosed.

Butter Futures Reach Highest Price in 2 Weeks

February egg contracts yesterday sold at their highest prices in about two weeks with an advance of nearly 1 cent in the futures market of the Chicago Mercantile exchange. They closed at 19.25 cents a dozen, profit taking having cut the net gain to 0.8 cent.

C. & O. RAILWAY VOTES COMMON DIVIDEND OF 62½C

Two Chicago Corporations Declare Extras.

Directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway yesterday declared quarterly dividends of $1 a share on the series A preference stock and 62½ cents on the common. Both are payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 8. This declaration increases to $1.25 a share the amount paid or declared so far this year on the common stock. Last year payments on the common totaled $2.50.

An extra dividend of 25 cents and a regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 were declared on common stock of Chicago Flexible Shaft company. Both will be paid March 30 to holders of record March 20. A similar extra payment was disbursed on the common a year ago. Payments on the common last year totaled $5.75, including three extras of 25 cents each.

Peter Fox Votes Extra.

Peter Fox Brewing company, another Chicago enterprise, announced an extra dividend of 50 cents a share in addition to a regular quarterly payment of 25 cents a share on the common stock. Both will be disbursed April 1 to holders of record March 15.

The first common dividend since 1937 was ordered by the Sundstrand Machine Tool company. The payment will be 50 cents a share and will be made March 20 to holders of record March 10. The last previous payment was 25 cents, distributed Dec. 28, 1937.

A payment of $75.38 a share on class B preferred stock to eliminate arrearages was voted by the Seiberling Rubber company. J. P. Seiberling, president, said this action cleared the way for resumption of common stock dividends. An initial dividend of 45 cents was voted on the company's new $2.50 convertible prior preferred stock as well as a regular quarterly of $1.25 on the class A preferred. All dividends will be distributed April 1 to holders on March 15.

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Salesmen.

MEN.

If you live on the South Side or South Side suburbs let me start you in a profitable business of your own backed up by our prosperous company.

I am in control of the territory of a business unique in character, merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition for which there is an ever increasing demand.

If in a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable, and trustworthy, and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study, and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates are earning as much as $50 on percentage basis in a single day. And after they become experienced handling our business receive a sizable monthly income, not regulated by the seasons, as ours is a year around business.

Selling experience not necessary, for if you are selected you are thoroughly taught at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all expense of your business and in addition to giving you merchandise on open account, carry all of your time payment paper.

Our business is depression-proof, as it has increased every month for the last 6 years, with 1939 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in the territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer, and if you can meet the above requirements you will be granted a personal, confidential interview which will quickly determine our mutual interests.

Apply Wednesday, 10:30 a. m. only, no other time, Suite 400 Maryland Building, 841 E. 63d-street. Ask for Mr. Leonard.

EXPERIENCED SALESMEN.

For 240 acre home community development. On North Shore—close in—32 to 45 minutes from Chicago loop. All improvements in and paid for. Medium priced houses now starting. Lots under $1,000. Within corporate limits of old established village, with shops, churches, and schools.

We want five strong, active closers who are able to capitalize on leads developed by a powerful mail and advertising campaign and, who seek a permanent connection with one of Chicago's oldest and largest concerns. See Mr. Serrin, 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., February 21st.
